but we rose both at an instant, and fought a long hour by Shrewsbury clock Ib. [148]
- 5 For my part, if a lie may do thee grace,
I'll gild it with the happiest terms I have. Ib. [161]
- 6 I'll purge, and leave sack, and live cleanly, as a nobleman should do. Ib. [168]
- 7 I speak of peace, while covert enmity
Under the smile of safety wounds the world
King Henry IV, Part II, Induction, 9
- 8 Rumour is a pipe
Blown by surmises, jealousies, conjectures,
And of so easy and so plain a stop
That the blunt monster with uncounted heads,
The still-discordant wavering multitude,
Can play upon it. Ib. 15
- 9 Even such a man, so faint, so spiritless,
So dull, so dead in look, so woe-begone,
Drew Priam's curtain in the dead of night,
And would have told him, half his Troy was burn'd
Ib. 11 70
- 10 Yet the first bringer of unwelcome news
I hath but a losing office, and his tongue
Sounds ever after as a sullen bell,
Remember'd knolling a departed friend. Ib. 100
- 11 The brain of this foolish-compounded clay, man, is not able to invent anything that tends to laughter, more than I invent or is invented on me. I am not only witty in myself, but the cause that wit is in other men. I do here walk before thee like a sow that hath overwhelmed all her litter but one.
Ib. 11 [7]
- 12 A rascally yea-forsooth knave. Ib. [40]
- 13 Your lordship, though not clean past your youth, hath yet some smack of age in you, some relish of the saltness of time. Ib. [111]
- 14 'Tis apoplexy is, as I take it, a kind of lethargy, an't please your lordship, a kind of sleeping in the blood, a whoreson ungluing. Ib. [127]
- 15 It is the disease of not listening, the malady of not marking, that I am troubled withal. Ib. [139]
- 16 I am as poor as Job, my lord, but not so patient
Ib. [145]
- 17 Well, I am loath to gall a new-healed wound
Ib. [169]
- 18 You that are old consider not the capacities of us that are young, you measure the heat of our livers with the bitterness of your galls; and we that are in the vaward of our youth, I must confess, are wags too Ib. [198]
- 19 Have you not a moist eye, a dry hand, a yellow cheek,
a white beard, a decreasing leg, an increasing belly? Ib. [206]
- 20 Every part about you blasted with antiquity.
King Henry IV, Part II, 1. ii. [210]
- 21 My lord, I was born about three of the clock in the afternoon, with a white head, and something of a round belly. For my voice, I have lost it with hollaing, and singing of anthems. Ib. [213]
- 22 CHIEF JUSTICE.
God send the prince a better companion!
FALSTAFF.
God send the companion a better prince! I cannot rid my hands of him Ib. [227]
- 23 All you that kiss our lady Peace at home. Ib. [236]
- 24 It was always yet the trick of our English nation, if they have a good thing, to make it too common.
Ib. [244]
- 25 I would to God my name were not so terrible to the enemy as it is. I were better to be eaten to death with rust than to be scoured to nothing with perpetual motion. Ib. [247]
- 26 I can get no remedy against this consumption of the purse: borrowing only lingers and lingers it out, but the disease is incurable. Ib. [268]
- 27 O, thoughts of men accurst!
Past and to come seem best, things present, worst.
Ib. iii. 107
- 28 A poor lone woman. Ib. ii. i. [37]
- 29 Away, you scullion! you rampallion! you fustilarian!
I'll tickle your catastrophe Ib. [67]
- 30 He hath eaten me out of house and home Ib. [82]
- 31 Thou didst swear to me upon a parcel-gilt goblet, sitting in my Dolphin-chamber, at the round table, by a sea-coal fire, upon Wednesday in Whitson week. Ib. [97]
- 32 Doth it not show vilely in me to desire small beer?
Ib. ii. [7]
- 33 I do now remember the poor creature, small beer.
Ib. [12]
- 34 Let the end try the man. Ib. [52]
- 35 Never a man's thought in the world keeps the roadway better than thine. Ib. [64]
- 36 He was indeed the glass
Wherein the noble youth did dress themselves
Ib. iii. 21
- 37 Hollow pamper'd jades of Asia. Ib. iv [177]
- 38 By my troth, captain, these are very bitter words
Ib. [183]
- 39 Thou whoreson little tidy Bartholomew boar-pig.
Ib. [249]
- 40 Patch up thine old body for heaven. Ib. [251]
- 41 O sleep! O gentle sleep!
Nature's soft nurse, how have I frighted thee,
That thou no more wilt weigh mine eyelids down
And steep my senses in forgetfulness?
Why rather, sleep, liest thou in smoky cribs,
Upon uneasy pallets stretching thee,
And hush'd with buzzing night-flies to thy slumber,
Than in the perfum'd chambers of the great,
Under the canopies of costly state,
And lull'd with sound of sweetest melody?
Ib. iii. 1 5

- 1 Wilt thou upon the high and giddy mast
Seel up the ship-boy's eyes, and rock his brains
In cradle of the rude imperious surge,
And in the visitation of the winds,
Who take the ruffian billows by the top,
Curling their monstrous heads, and hanging them
With deaf'ning clamour in the slippery clouds,
That with the hurly death itself awakes?
King Henry IV, Part II, III. i. 18
- 2 With all appliances and means to boot. Ib. 29
- 3 Then, happy low, lie down!
Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown. Ib. 30
- 4 O God! that one might read the book of fate. Ib. 45
- 5 O! if this were seen,
The happiest youth, viewing his progress through,
What perils past, what crosses to ensue,
Would shut the book, and sit him down and die.
Ib. 54
- 6 There is a history in all men's lives,
Figuring the nature of the times deceas'd,
The which observ'd, a man may prophesy,
With a near aim, of the main chance of things
As yet not come to life, which in their seeds
And weak beginnings lie intreaured. Ib. 80
- 7 Death, as the Psalmist saith, is certain to all; all shall die. How a good yoke of bullocks at Stamford fair? Ib. II. [41]
- 8 And is old Double dead? Ib. [58]
- 9 A soldier is better accommodated than with a wife.
Ib. [73]
- 10 Most forcible Feeble. Ib. [181]
- 11 We have heard the chimes at midnight. Ib. [231]
- 12 I care not; a man can die but once; we owe God a death. Ib. [253]
- 13 He that dies this year is quit for the next. Ib. [257]
- 14 Lord, Lord, how subject we old men are to this vice of lying! Ib. [329]
- 15 Like a man made after supper of a cheese-paring—when a' was naked, he was, for all the world, like a forked radish, with a head fantastically carved upon it with a knife. Ib. [335]
- 16 Talks as familiarly of John a Gaunt as if he had been sworn brother to him. Ib. [348]
- 17 Against ill chances men are ever merry,
But heaviness foreruns the good event. Ib. IV. II. 81
- 18 A peace is of the nature of a conquest;
For then both parties nobly are subdu'd,
And neither party loser. Ib. 89
- 19 That I may justly say with the hook-nosed fellow of Rome, 'I came, saw, and overcame.' Ib. III. [44]
- 20 A man cannot make him laugh; but that's no marvel;
he drinks no wine. Ib. [95]
- 21 A good sherris-sack hath a two-fold operation in it.
It ascends me into the brain; dries me there all the foolish and dull and crudy vapours which environ it; makes it apprehensive, quick, forgetive, full of nimble fiery and delectable shapes; which, deliver'd o'er to the voice, the tongue, which is the birth, becomes excellent wit. The second property of your excellent sherris is, the warming of the blood; which, before cold and settled, left the liver white and pale, which is the badge of pusillanimity and cowardice. but the sherris warms it and makes it course from the inwards to the parts extreme.
It illumeth the face, which, as a beacon, gives warning to all the rest of this little kingdom, man, to arm; and then the vital commoners and inland petty spirits muster me all to their captain, the heart, who, great and puffed up with this retinue, doth any deed of courage; and this valour comes of sherris. So that skill in the weapon is nothing without sack, for that sets it a-work; and learning, a mere hoard of gold kept by a devil till sack commences it and sets it in act and use.
King Henry IV, Part II, IV. III. [103]
- 22 If I had a thousand sons, the first human principle
I would teach them should be, to forswear thin potations. Ib. [133]
- 23 Most subject is the fattest soil to weeds. Ib. IV. 54
- 24 Thou art a summer bird,
Which ever in the haunch of winter sings
The lifting up of day. Ib. [91]
- 25 O polish'd perturbation! golden care!
That keep'st the ports of slumber open wide
To many a watchful night! Sleep with it now!
Yet not so sound, and half so deeply sweet
As he whose brow with homely biggin bound Snores out the watch of night. Ib. v. 22
- 26 This sleep is sound indeed; this is a sleep
That from this golden rigol hath divorc'd
So many English kings. Ib. 34
- 27 Thy wish was father, Harry, to that thought. Ib. 91
- 28 Commit
The oldest sins the newest kind of ways. Ib. 124
- 29 It hath been prophesied to me many years
I should not die but in Jerusalem,
Which vainly I suppos'd the Holy Land.
But bear me to that chamber; there I'll lie:
In that Jerusalem shall Harry die. Ib. 235
- 30 Any pretty little tiny kickshaws, tell William cook.
Ib. v. 1. [29]
- 31 Not Amurath an Amurath succeeds,
But Harry, Harry. Ib. II. 48
- 32 Sorrow so royally in you appears,
That I will deeply put the fashion on. Ib. 51
- 33 'Tis merry in hall when beards wag all. Ib. III. [35]
- 34 A foutra for the world, and worldlings base!
I speak of Africa and golden joys Ib. [100]
- 35 Under which kung, Bezonian? speak, or die!
Ib. [116]
- 36 Let us take any man's horses; the laws of England are at my commandment. Ib. [139]
- 37 I know thee not, old man: fall to thy prayers;
How ill white hairs become a fool and jester!
I have long dream'd of such a kind of man,
So surfeit-swell'd, so old, and so profane. Ib. v. [52]
- 38 Make less thy body hence, and more thy grace;
Leave gormandising; know the grave doth gape
For thee thrice wider than for other men. Ib. [57]
- 39 Presume not that I am the thing I was. Ib. [61]
- 40 Master Shallow, I owe you a thousand pound.
Ib. [78]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Where, for anything I know, Falstaff shall die of a sweat, unless already a' be killed with your hard opinions, for Oldcastle died a martyr, and this is not the man
King Henry IV, Part II. Epilogue, [32]
- 2 O! for a Muse of fire, that would ascend
The brightest heaven of invention
King Henry V, Chorus, I
- 3 The flat unraised spirits. Ib. 9
- 4 Can this cockpit hold
The vasty fields of France? or may we cram
Within this wooden O the very casques
That did affright the air at Agincourt? Ib. II
- 5 Consideration like an angel came,
And whipp'd the offending Adam out of him.
Ib. I. 1. 28
- 6 Never came reformation in a flood,
With such a heady currance, scouring faults. Ib. 33
- 7 When he speaks,
The air, a charter'd libertine, is still. Ib. 47
- 8 O noble English! that could entertain
With half their forces the full pride of France,
And let another half stand laughing by,
All out of work, and cold for action. Ib. II. III
- 9 And make your chronicle as rich with praise
As is the owse and bottom of the sea
With sunken wrack and sumless treasures. Ib. 163
- 10 For so work the honey-bees,
Creatures that by a rule in nature teach
The act of order to a peopled kingdom.
They have a king and officers of sorts,
Where some, like magistrates, correct at home,
Others, like merchants, venture trade abroad,
Others, like soldiers, armed in their stings,
Make boot upon the summer's velvet buds
Which pillage they with merry march bring home
To the tent-royal of their emperor
Who, busied in his majesty, surveys
The singing masons building roofs of gold,
The civil citizens kneading up the honey,
The poor mechanic porters crowding in
Their heavy burdens at his narrow gate,
The sad-eyed justice, with his surly hum,
Delivering o'er to executors pale
The lazy yawning drone. Ib. 187
- 11 His present and your pains we thank you for
When we have match'd our rackets to these balls,
We will in France, by God's grace, play a set
Shall strike his father's crown into the hazard.
Ib. 260
- 12 Now all the youth of England are on fire,
And silken dalliance in the wardrobe lies,
Now thrive the armourers, and honour's thought
Reigns solely in the breast of every man
They sell the pasture now to buy the horse,
Following the mirror of all Christian kings,
With winged heels, as English Mercuries.
For now sits Expectation in the air
And hides a sword from hilts unto the point
With crowns imperial, crowns and coronets,
Promis'd to Harry and his followers.
Ib. II. Chorus, I
- 13 O England! model to thy inward greatness,
Like little body with a mighty heart,
What might'st thou do, that honour would thee do,
Were all thy children kind and natural!
But see thy fault! King Henry V, II. Chorus, 16
- 14 I dare not fight; but I will wink and hold out mine iron. Ib. I. [7]
- 15 That's the humour of it. Ib. [63]
- 16 Base is the slave that pays. Ib. [100]
- 17 For, lambkins, we will live. Ib. [134]
- 18 Would I were with him, wheresome'er he is, either in heaven or in hell. Ib. III. [7]
- 19 He's in Arthur's bosom, if ever man went to Arthur's bosom. A' made a finer end, and went away an it had been any christom child; a' parted even just between twelve and one, even at the turning o' the tide: for after I saw him fumble with the sheets and play with flowers and smile upon his fingers' ends, I knew there was but one way; for his nose was as sharp as a pen, and a' babbled of green fields. [Theobald's emendation of the Folio's reading. 'A table of green fields'.] Ib. [9]
- 20 So a' cried out 'God, God, God!' three or four times:
now I, to comfort him, bid him a' should not think of God, I hoped there was no need to trouble himself with any such thoughts yet. Ib. [19]
- 21 As cold as any stone. Ib. [25]
- 22 BOY
Yes, that a' did; and said they were devils incarnate.
HOSTESS
A' never could abide carnation; 'twas a colour he never liked.
BOY
A' said once, the devil would have him about women.
Ib. [33]
- 23 Trust none;
For oaths are straws, men's faiths are wafer-cakes,
And hold-fast is the only dog, my duck. Ib. [53]
- 24 Once more unto the breach, dear friends, once more,
Or close the wall up with our English dead!
In peace there's nothing so becomes a man
As modest stillness and humility
But when the blast of war blows in our ears,
Then imitate the action of the tiger,
Stiffen the sinews, summon up the blood,
Disguise fair nature with hard-favour'd rage;
Then lend the eye a terrible aspect. Ib. III. I. I
- 25 On, on you noblest English!
Whose blood is fet from fathers of war-proof;
Fathers that, like so many Alexanders,
Have in these parts from morn till even fought,
And sheath'd their swords for lack of argument Ib. 17
- 26 And you, good yeomen,
Whose limbs were made in England, show us here
The mettle of your pasture. Ib. 25
- 27 I see you stand like greyhounds in the slips,
Straining upon the start. The game's afoot
Follow your spirit, and, upon this charge
Cry 'God for Harry! England and Saint George!'
Ib. 31
- 28 I would give all my fame for a pot of ale, and safety.
Ib. II. [14]
- 29 Men of few words are the best men. Ib. [40]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 A' never broke any man's head but his own, and that was against a post when he was drunk.
King Henry V, III ii. [43]
- 2 He will maintain his argument as well as any military man in the world, in the disciplines of the pristine wars of the Romans. Ib. [89]
- 3 One Bardolph, if your majesty know the man: his face is all bubukles, and whelks, and knobs, and flames o' fire. Ib. vi. [110]
- 4 I thought upon one pair of English legs
Did march three Frenchmen. Ib. [161]
- 5 Give them great meals of beef and iron and steel,
they will eat like wolves and fight like devils.
Ib. vii [166]
- 6 Now entertain conjecture of a time
When creeping murmur and the poring dark
Fills the wide vessel of the universe.
From camp to camp, through the foul womb of night,
The hum of either army stilly sounds,
That the fix'd sentinels almost receive
The secret whispers of each other's watch
Fire answers fire, and through their paly flames
Each battle sees the other's umber'd face.
Steed threatens steed, in high and boastful neighs
Piercing the night's dull ear; and from the tents
The armourers, accomplishing the knights,
With busy hammers closing rivets up,
Give dreadful note of preparation. Ib. iv. Chorus, 1
- 7 The royal captain of this ruin'd band. Ib. 29
- 8 A largess universal, like the sun
His liberal eye doth give to every one,
Thawing cold fear. Ib. 43
- 9 A little touch of Harry in the night. Ib. 47
- 10 O for pity,—we shall much disgrace,
With four or five most vile and ragged foils,
Right ill dispos'd in brawl ridiculous,
The name of Agincourt. Ib. 49
- 11 Gloucester, 'tis true that we are in great danger;
The greater therefore should our courage be.
Ib. iv. 1 1
- 12 There is some soul of goodness in things evil,
Would men observingly distil it out. Ib. 4
- 13 Thus may we gather honey from the weed,
And make a moral of the devil himself. Ib. 11
- 14 Art thou base, common and popular? Ib. 37
- 15 Trail'st thou the puissant pike? Ib. 40
- 16 If you would take the pains but to examine the wars of Pompey the Great, you shall find, I warrant you, that there is no tiddle-taddle nor pibblepabble in Pompey's camp. Ib. [69]
- 17 There is much care and valour in this Welshman.
Ib. [85]
- 18 I think the king is but a man, as I am: the violet smells to him as it doth to me. Ib. [106]
- 19 I am afeard there are few die well that die in a battle; for how can they charitably dispose of any thing when blood is their argument? Ib. [149]
- 20 Every subject's duty is the king's; but every subject's soul is his own. Ib. [189]
- 21 Upon the king! let us our lives, our souls,
Our debts, our careful wives,
Our children, and our sins lay on the king!
We must bear all. O hard condition!
King Henry V, iv ii. [250]
- 22 What infinite heart's ease
Must kings neglect, that private men enjoy!
And what have kings that privates have not too,
Save ceremony, save general ceremony? Ib. [256]
- 23 'Tis not the balm, the sceptre and the ball,
The sword, the mace, the crown imperial,
The intertuss'd robe of gold and pearl,
The farced title running 'fore the king,
The throne he sits on, nor the tide of pomp
That beats upon the high shore of this world,
No, not all these, thrice-gorgeous ceremony,
Not all these, laid in bed majestical,
Can sleep so soundly as the wretched slave,
Who with a body fill'd and vacant mind
Gets him to rest, cramm'd with distressful bread;
Never sees horrid night, the child of hell,
But, like a lackey, from the rise to set
Sweats in the eye of Phœbus, and all night
Sleeps in Elysium, next day after dawn,
Doth rise and help Hyperion to his horse,
And follows so the ever-running year
With profitable labour to his grave.
And, but for ceremony, such a wretch,
Winding up days with toil and nights with sleep,
Hath the forehand and vantage of a king. Ib. [280]
- 24 O God of battles! steel my soldiers' hearts;
Possess them not with fear, take from them now
The sense of reckoning, if the opposed numbers
Pluck their hearts from them. Ib. [309]
- 25 O! that we now had here
But one ten thousand of those men in England
That do no work to-day. Ib. iii. 16
- 26 If we are mark'd to die, we are enow
To do our country loss; and if to live,
The fewer men, the greater share of honour. Ib. 20
- 27 I am not covetous for gold,
But if it be a sin to covet honour
I am the most offending soul alive. Ib. 24
- 28 He which hath no stomach to this fight,
Let him depart; his passport shall be made,
And crowns for convoy put into his purse:
We would not die in that man's company
That fears his fellowship to die with us.
This day is called the feast of Crispian:
He that outlives this day and comes safe home,
Will stand a tip-toe when this day is nam'd,
And rouse him at the name of Crispian.
He that shall live this day, and see old age,
Will yearly on the vigil feast his neighbours,
And say, 'To-morrow is Saint Crispian.'
Then will he strip his sleeve and show his scars,
And say, 'These wounds I had on Crispin's day.'
Old men forget: yet all shall be forgot,
But he'll remember with advantages
What feats he did that day. Then shall our names,
Familiar in his mouth as household words,
Harry the King, Bedford and Exeter,
Warwick and Talbot, Salisbury and Gloucester,
Be in their flowing cups freshly remember'd.
This story shall the good man teach his son;
And Crispin Crispian shall ne'er go by,

SHAKESPEARE

- From this day to the ending of the world,
But we in it shall be remembered;
We few, we happy few, we band of brothers;
For he to-day that sheds his blood with me
Shall be my brother, be he ne'er so vile
This day shall gentle his condition
And gentlemen in England, now a-bed
Shall think themselves accurs'd they were not here,
And hold their manhoods cheap whiles any speaks
That fought with us upon Saint Crispin's day.
King Henry V, iv. iii. 35
- 1 Thou damned and luxurious mountain goat.
Ib. iv. [20]
- 2 I'll fer him, and firk him, and ferret him. Ib. [29]
- 3 And all my mother came into mine eyes
And gave me up to tears. Ib. vi. 31
- 4 There is a river in Macedon, and there is also moreover a river at Monmouth . . . and there is salmons
in both. Ib. vii. [28]
- 5 But now behold,
In the quick forge and working-house of thought,
How London doth pour out her citizens.
Ib. v. Chorus, 22
- 6 Were now the general of our gracious empress,—
As in good time he may,—from Ireland coming,
Bringing rebellion broached on his sword. Ib. 30
- 7 There is occasions and causes why and wherefore in all things. Ib. v. i. [3]
- 8 Not for Cadwallader and all his goats. Ib. [29]
- 9 By this leek, I will most horribly revenge. Ib. [49]
- 10 Why that the naked, poor, and mangled Peace,
Dear nurse of arts, plenties, and joyful births.
Ib. ii. 34
- 11 The even mead, that erst brought sweetly forth
The freckled cowslip, burnet, and green clover,
Conceives by idleness, and nothing teems
But hateful docks, rough thistles, kecksies, burs.
Ib. 48
- 12 If not, to say to thee that I shall die, is true; but for thy love, by the Lord, no; yet I love thee too.
Ib. [157]
- 13 For these fellows of infinite tongue, that can rhyme themselves into ladies' favours, they do always reason themselves out again. Ib. [162]
- 14 Shall not thou and I, between Saint Denis and Saint George, compound a boy, half-French, half-English, that shall go to Constantinople and take the Turk by the beard? Ib. [218]
- 15 It is not a fashion for the maids in France to kiss before they are married. Ib. [287]
- 16 God, the best maker of all marriages,
Combine your hearts in one. Ib. [387]
- 17 Hung be the heavens with black, yield day to night!
King Henry VI, Part I, i. i. 1
- 18 Expect Saint Martin's summer, halcyon days.
Ib. ii. 131
- 19 Unbidden guests
Are often welcomest when they are gone.
Ib. ii. ii. 55
- 20 But in these nice sharp quillets of the law,
Good faith, I am no wiser than a daw. Ib. iv. 17
- 21 From off this brier pluck a white rose with me.
King Henry VI, Part I, ii. iv. 30
- 22 Pluck a red rose from off this thorn with me. Ib. 33
- 23 PLANTAGENET:
Hath not thy rose a canker, Somerset?
SOMERSET.
Hath not thy rose a thorn, Plantagenet? Ib. 68
- 24 Delays have dangerous ends. Ib. iii. ii. 33
- 25 I owe him little duty and less love. Ib. iv. iv. 34
- 26 So doth the swan her downy cygnets save,
Keeping them prisoners underneath her wings.
Ib. v. iii. 56
- 27 She's beautiful and therefore to be woo'd;
She is a woman, therefore to be won. Ib. 78
- 28 She bears a duke's revenues on her back,
And in her heart she scorns our poverty.
King Henry VI, Part II, i. iii. [83]
- 29 Could I come near your beauty with my nails
I'd set my ten commandments in your face. Ib. [144]
- 30 What stronger breastplate than a heart untainted!
Thrice is he arm'd that hath his quarrel just,
And he but naked, though lock'd up in steel,
Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted.
Ib. iii. ii. 232
- 31 He dies, and makes no sign. Ib. iii. 29
- 32 Forbear to judge, for we are sinners all.
Close up his eyes, and draw the curtain close;
And let us all to meditation. Ib. 31
- 33 The gaudy, blabbing, and remorseful day
Is crept into the bosom of the sea. Ib. iv. i. 1
- 34 True nobility is exempt from fear. Ib. 129
- 35 I say it was never merry world in England since gentlemen came up Ib. ii. [10]
- 36 There shall be in England seven halfpenny loaves sold for a penny; the three-hooped pot shall have ten hoops; and I will make it felony to drink small beer. Ib. [73]
- 37 The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers.
Ib. [86]
- 38 Is not this a lamentable thing, that of the skin of an innocent lamb should be made parchment? that parchment, being scribbled o'er, should undo a man? Ib. [88]
- 39 And Adam was a gardener. Ib. [146]
- 40 Thou hast most traitorously corrupted the youth of the realm in erecting a grammar school: and whereas, before, our forefathers had no other books but the score and the tally, thou hast caused printing to be used; and, contrary to the king, his crown and dignity, thou hast built a paper-mill. Ib. vii. [35]
- 41 Away with him! away with him! he speaks Latin.
Ib. [62]
- 42 Lord, who would live turmoiled in the court,
And may enjoy such quiet walks as these? Ib. x. [18]
- 43 O tiger's heart wrapp'd in a woman's hide!
King Henry VI, Part III, i. iv. 137
- 44 This battle fares like to the morning's war,
When dying clouds contend with growing light,
What time the shepherd, blowing of his nails,
Can neither call it perfect day nor night. Ib. ii. v. 1

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 O God! methinks it were a happy life,
To be no better than a homely swain,
To sit upon a hill, as I do now,
To carve out dials, quantly, point by point,
Thereby to see the minutes how they run,
How many make the hour full complete;
How many hours bring about the day;
How many days will finish up the year,
How many years a mortal man may live
King Henry VI, Part III, II. v. 21
- 2 Gives not the hawthorn bush a sweeter shade
To shepherds, looking on their silly sheep,
Than doth a rich embroider'd canopy
To kings that fear their subjects' treachery? Ib. 42
- 3 See, see! what showers arise,
Blown with the windy tempest of my heart Ib. 85
- 4 Warwick, peace;
Proud setter up and puller down of kings
Ib. III. iii. 156
- 5 A little fire is quickly trodden out,
Which, being suffer'd, rivers cannot quench.
Ib. IV. viii. 7
- 6 Live we how we can, yet die we must. Ib. v. ii. 28
- 7 Suspicion always haunts the guilty mind,
The thief doth fear each bush an officer. Ib. vi. 11
- 8 Down, down to hell; and say I sent thee thither.
Ib. 67
- 9 They
Made Britain India: every man that stood
Show'd like a mine. King Henry VIII, I. i. 20
- 10 Heat not a furnace for your foe so hot
That it do singe yourself. Ib. 140
- 11 If I chance to talk a little wild, forgive me;
I had it from my father. Ib. IV. 26
- 12 The mirror of all courtesy. Ib. II. i. 53
- 13 Go with me, like good angels, to my end;
And, as the long divorce of steel falls on me,
Make of your prayers one sweet sacrifice,
And lift my soul to heaven. Ib. 75
- 14 CHAMBERLAIN:
It seems the marriage with his brother's wife
Has crept too near his conscience.
SUFFOLK:
No; his conscience
Has crept too near another lady. Ib. II. [17]
- 15 This bold bad man. Ib. [44]
- 16 Verily,
I swear, 'tis better to be lowly born,
And range with humble livers in content,
Than to be perk'd up, in a glist'ring grief,
And wear a golden sorrow. Ib. III. 18
- 17 I would not be a queen
For all the world. Ib. 45
- 18 Orpheus with his lute made trees,
And the mountain-tops that freeze,
Bow themselves when he did sing:
To his music plants and flowers
Ever sprung; as sun and showers
There had made a lasting spring.
Everything that heard him play,
Even the billows of the sea,
Hung their heads, and then lay by.
- In sweet music is such art,
Killing care and grief of heart
Falla sleep, or hearing die. King Henry VIII, III. 1. 3
- 19 Heaven is above all yet; there sits a judge,
That no king can corrupt. Ib. 99
- 20 A spleeny Lutheran. Ib. II. 100
- 21 'Tis well said again;
And 'tis a kind of good deed to say well.
And yet words are no deeds. Ib. 153
- 22 And then to breakfast, with
What appetite you have. Ib. 203
- 23 That in all you writ to Rome, or else
To foreign princes, 'Ego et Rex meus'
Was still inscrib'd. Ib. 314
- 24 Farewell! a long farewell, to all my greatness!
This is the state of man: to-day he puts forth
The tender leaves of hope, to-morrow blossoms,
And bears his blushing honours thick upon him;
The third day comes a frost, a killing frost;
And, when he thinks, good easy man, full surely
His greatness is a-ripening, nips his root,
And then he falls, as I do. I have ventur'd,
Like little wanton boys that swim on bladders,
This many summers in a sea of glory,
But far beyond my depth. my high-blown pride
At length broke under me, and now has left me
Weary and old with service, to the mercy
Of a rude stream that must for ever hide me.
Vain pomp and glory of this world, I hate ye!
I feel my heart new open'd. O how wretched
Is that poor man that hangs on princes' favours!
There is, betwixt that smile we would aspire to,
That sweet aspect of princes, and their ruin,
More pangs and fears than wars or women have;
And when he falls, he falls like Lucifer,
Never to hope again. Ib. 352
- 25 A peace above all earthly dignities,
A still and quiet conscience. Ib. 380
- 26 A load would sink a navy. Ib. 384
- 27 There was the weight that pull'd me down. O Cromwell!
The king has gone beyond me: all my glories
In that one woman I have lost for ever. Ib. 408
- 28 Cromwell, I did not think to shed a tear
In all my miseries; but thou hast forc'd me,
Out of thy honest truth, to play the woman. Ib. 429
- 29 Let's dry our eyes: and thus far hear me, Cromwell;
And, when I am forgotten, as I shall be,
And sleep in dull cold marble, where no mention
Of me more must be heard of, say, I taught thee,
Say, Wolsey, that once trod the ways of glory,
And sounded all the depths and shoals of honour,
Found thee a way, out of his wrack, to rise in;
A sure and safe one, though thy master miss'd it.
Ib. 432
- 30 Cromwell, I charge thee, fling away ambition:
By that sin fell the angels. Ib. 441
- 31 Love thyself last: cherish those hearts that hate thee;
Corruption wins not more than honesty.
Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace,
To silence envious tongues: be just, and fear not.
Let all the ends thou aim'st at be thy country's,
Thy God's, and truth's. then if thou fall'st, O Cromwell!
Thou fall'st a blessed martyr. Ib. 444

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Had I but serv'd my God with half the zeal
I serv'd my king, he would not in mine age
Have left me naked to mine enemies.
King Henry VIII, III. ii. 456
- 2 She had all the royal makings of a queen Ib. iv. i. 87
- 3 An old man, broken with the storms of state
Is come to lay his weary bones among ye,
Give him a little earth for charity. Ib. ii. 21
- 4 He gave his honours to the world again,
His blessed part to Heaven, and slept in peace
Ib. 29
- 5 So may he rest, his faults lie gently on him! Ib. 31
- 6 He was a man
Of an unbounded stomach. Ib. 33
- 7 His promises were, as he then was, mighty;
But his performance, as he is now, nothing. Ib. 41
- 8 Men's evil manners live in brass, their virtues
We write in water Ib. 45
- 9 He was a scholar, and a ripe and good one,
Exceeding wise, fair-spoken, and persuading
Lofty and sour to them that lov'd him not,
But, to those men that sought him, sweet as summer
Ib. 51
- 10 'Those twins of learning that he rais'd in you,
Ipswich and Oxford! Ib. 58
- 11 After my death I wish no other herald,
No other speaker of my living actions,
To keep mine honour from corruption,
Than such an honest chronicler as Giffith Ib. 69
- 12 'To dance attendance on their lordships' pleasures.
Ib. v. ii. 30
- 13 'Tis a cruelty
To load a falling man Ib. 76
- 14 In her days every man shall eat in safety
Under his own vine what he plants; and sing
The merry songs of peace to all his neighbours.
Ib. v. 34
- 15 Those about her
From her shall read the perfect ways of honour.
Ib. 37
- 16 Nor shall this peace sleep with her, but as when
The bird of wonder dies, the maiden phoenix,
Her ashes new-create another hen
As great in admiration as herself. Ib. 40
- 17 Some come to take their ease
And sleep an act or two. Ib. Epilogue, 2
- 18 Lord of thy presence and no land beside King John, I. i. 137
- 19 For new-made honour doth forget men's names.
Ib. 186
- 20 Sweet, sweet, sweet poison for the age's tooth
Ib. 213
- 21 Bearing their birthrights proudly on their backs
Ib. ii. i. 70
- 22 For courage mounteth with occasion. Ib. 82
- 23 Saint George, that swinged the dragon, and e'er since Sits on his horse back at mine hostess' door Ib. 288
- 24 Mad world! Mad kings! Mad composition! Ib. 561
- 25 That smooth-fac'd gentleman, tickling Commodity,
Commodity, the bias of the world. Ib. 573
- 26 Well, whiles I am a beggar, I will rail,
And say there is no sin, but to be rich,
And, being rich, my virtue then shall be,
To say there is no vice, but beggary.
King John, II. i. 593
- 27 Here I and sorrows sit,
Here is my throne, bid kings come bow to it
Ib. iii. i. 73
- 28 'Thou wear a lion's hide! doff it for shame,
And hang a calf's-skin on those recreant limbs!
Ib. 128
- 29 No Italian priest
Shall tithe or toll in our dominions Ib. 153
- 30 Old Time the clock-setter, that bald sexton, Time
Ib. 324
- 31 Bell, book, and candle shall not drive me back,
When gold and silver beck me to come on.
Ib. iii. 12
- 32 KING JOHN
Death
HUBERT
My lord?
KING JOHN
A grave.
HUBERT
He shall not live.
KING JOHN
Enough
I could be merry now. Ib. 66
- 33 Look, who comes here! a grave unto a soul;
Holding the eternal spirit, against her will,
In the vile prison of afflicted breath Ib. iv. 17
- 34 Grief fills the room up of my absent child,
Lies in his bed, walks up and down with me,
Puts on his pretty looks, repeats his words,
Remembers me of all his gracious parts,
Stuffs out his vacant garments with his form. Ib. 93
- 35 Life is as tedious as a twice-told tale,
Vexing the dull ear of a drowsy man. Ib. 108
- 36 Heat me these irons hot. Ib. iv. i. 1
- 37 Methinks nobody should be sad but I
Yet I remember, when I was in France,
Young gentlemen would be as sad as night,
Only for wantonness. Ib. 13
- 38 I knit my handkercher about your brows,—
The best I had, a princess wrought it me. Ib. 41
- 39 To gild refined gold, to paint the lily,
To throw a perfume on the violet,
To smooth the ice, or add another hue
Unto the rainbow, or with taper light
To seek the beauteous eye of heaven to garnish,
Is wasteful and ridiculous excess. Ib. ii. 11
- 40 The spirit of the time shall teach me speed. Ib. 176
- 41 Another lean unwash'd artificer. Ib. 201
- 42 It is the curse of kings to be attended
By slaves that take their humours for a warrant
To break within the bloody house of life. Ib. 208
- 43 How oft the sight of means to do ill deeds
Makes ill deeds done! Ib. 219
- 44 Whate'er you think, good words, I think, were best
Ib. iii. 28
- 45 Unthread the rude eye of rebellion,
And welcome home again discarded faith. Ib. v. iv. 11

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 I beg cold comfort. King John, v. vii. 42
- 2 This England never did, nor never shall,
Lie at the proud foot of a conqueror,
But when it first did help to wound itself.
Now these her princes are come home again,
Come the three corners of the world in arms,
And we shall shock them: nought shall make us rue,
If England to itself do rest but true Ib. 112
- 3 Hence! home, you idle creatures, get you home:
Is this a holiday? Julius Cæsar, I. i. 1
- 4 What trade, thou knave? thou naughty knave, what trade? Ib. [15]
- 5 FLAVIUS:
Thou art a cobbler, art thou?
2ND COMMONER:
Truly, sir, all that I live by is with the awl. . . I am indeed, sir, a surgeon to old shoes. Ib. [22]
- 6 As proper men as ever trod upon neat's-leather.
Ib. [27]
- 7 Wherefore rejoice? What conquest brings he home?
Ib. [36]
- 8 You blocks, you stones, you worse than senseless things!
O you hard hearts, you cruel men of Rome,
Knew you not Pompey? Ib. [39]
- 9 Have you not made a universal shout,
That Tiber trembled underneath her banks,
To hear the replication of your sounds
Made in her concave shores? Ib. [48]
- 10 Speak, Cæsar is turn'd to hear. Ib. ii. 17
- 11 Beware the ides of March. Ib. 18
- 12 He is a dreamer; let us leave him: pass. Ib. 24
- 13 I am not gamesome: I do lack some part
Of that quick spirit that is in Antony. Ib. 28
- 14 Brutus, I do observe you now of late.
I have not from your eyes that gentleness
And show of love as I was wont to have:
You bear too stubborn and too strange a hand
Over your friend that loves you. Ib. 32
- 15 Poor Brutus, with himself at war,
Forgets the shows of love to other men. Ib. 46
- 16 Set honour in one eye and death i' the other,
And I will look on both indifferently. Ib. 86
- 17 Well, honour is the subject of my story.
I cannot tell what you and other men
Think of this life: but, for my single self,
I had as lief not be as live to be
In awe of such a thing as I myself. Ib. 92
- 18 'Dar'st thou, Cassius, now,
Leap in with me into this angry flood,
And swim to yonder point?' Upon the word,
Accoutred as I was, I plunged in,
And bade him follow. Ib. 102
- 19 Stemming it with hearts of controversy. Ib. 109
- 20 His coward lips did from their colour fly,
And that same eye whose bend doth awe the world
Did lose his lustre. Ib. 122
- 21 Ye gods, it doth amaze me,
A man of such a feeble temper should
So get the start of the majestic world,
And bear the palm alone. Ib. 128
- 22 Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world
Like a Colossus; and we petty men
Walk under his huge legs, and peep about
To find ourselves dishonourable graves.
Men at some time are masters of their fates:
The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings. Julius Cæsar, I. ii. 134
- 23 'Brutus' will start a spirit as soon as 'Cæsar'.
Now in the names of all the gods at once,
Upon what meat doth this our Cæsar feed,
That he is grown so great? Ib. 146
- 24 Now is it Rome indeed and room enough. Ib. 155
- 25 But, look you, Cassius,
The angry spot doth glow on Cæsar's brow. Ib. 181
- 26 Let me have men about me that are fat;
Sleek-headed men and such as sleep o' nights;
Yond' Cassius has a lean and hungry look,
He thinks too much: such men are dangerous. Ib. 191
- 27 Would he were fatter! but I fear him not.
Yet if my name were liable to fear,
I do not know the man I should avoid
So soon as that spare Cassius. He reads much,
He is a great observer, and he looks
Quite through the deeds of men; he loves no plays,
As thou dost, Antony; he hears no music;
Seldom he smiles, and smiles in such a sort
As if he mock'd himself, and scorn'd his spirit,
That could be mov'd to smile at anything.
Such men as he be never at heart's ease,
Whiles they behold a greater than themselves,
And therefore are they very dangerous.
I rather tell thee what is to be fear'd
Than what I fear, for always I am Cæsar. Ib. 197
- 28 'Tis very like: he hath the falling sickness. Ib. [255]
- 29 If Cæsar had stabbed their mothers, they would have done no less. Ib. [277]
- 30 For mine own part, it was Greek to me. Ib. [288]
- 31 Therefore 'tis meet
That noble minds keep ever with their likes;
For who so firm that cannot be seduc'd? Ib. [315]
- 32 Besides—I have not since put up my sword,—
Against the Capitol I met a lion,
Who glar'd upon me, and went surly by,
Without annoying me. Ib. iii. 19
- 33 Yesterday the bird of night did sit,
Even at noon-day, upon the market-place,
Hooting and shrieking. Ib. 26
- 34 But men may construe things after their own fashion,
Clean from the purpose of the things themselves. Ib. 34
- 35 Cassius from bondage will deliver Cassius. Ib. 90
- 36 Nor stony tower, nor walls of beaten brass,
Nor airless dungeon, nor strong links of iron,
Can be retentive to the strength of spirit;
But life, being weary of these worldly bars,
Never lacks power to dismiss itself. Ib. 93
- 37 So every bondman in his own hand bears
The power to cancel his captivity. Ib. 101
- 38 I will set this foot of mine as far
As who goes furthest. Ib. 118

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 O! he sits high in all the people's hearts.
And that which would appear offence in us,
His countenance, like richest alchemy,
Will change to virtue and to worthiness.
Julius Cæsar, I. iii. 157
- 2 It is the bright day that brings forth the adder;
And that craves wary walking. Ib. II. i. 14
- 3 'Tis a common proof,
That lowliness is young ambition's ladder,
Whereto the climber-upward turns his face;
But when he once attains the upmost round,
He then unto the ladder turns his back,
Looks in the clouds, scorning the base degrees
By which he did ascend. Ib. 21
- 4 Therefore think him as a serpent's egg
Which, hatch'd, would, as his kind, grow mischievous,
And kill him in the shell. Ib. 32
- 5 Between the acting of a dreadful thing
And the first motion, all the interim is Like a phantasma, or a hideous dream:
The genius and the mortal instruments
Are then in council, and the state of man,
Like to a little kingdom, suffers then
The nature of an insurrection. Ib. 63
- 6 O conspiracy!
Sham'st thou to show thy dangerous brow by night,
When evils are most free? Ib. 77
- 7 For if thou path, thy native semblance on,
Not Erebus itself were dim enough
To hide thee from prevention. Ib. 83
- 8 For he will never follow anything
That other men begin. Ib. 151
- 9 Let us be sacrificers, but not butchers, Caius.
Ib. 166
- 10 Let's carve him as a dish fit for the gods,
Not hew him as a carcass fit for hounds. Ib. 173
- 11 For he is superstitious grown of late,
Quite from the main opinion he held once
Of fantasy, of dreams, and ceremonies. Ib. 195
- 12 But when I tell him he hates flatterers,
He says he does, being then most flattered. Ib. 207
- 13 Enjoy the honey-heavy dew of slumber.
Ib. 230
- 14 With an angry wature of your hand,
Gave sign for me to leave you. Ib. 246
- 15 What! is Brutus sick,
And will he steal out of his wholesome bed
To dare the vile contagion of the night? Ib. 263
- 16 That great vow
Which did incorporate and make us one. Ib. 272
- 17 PORTIA:
Dwell I but in the suburbs
Of your good pleasure? If it be no more,
Portia is Brutus' harlot, not his wife.
BRUTUS:
You are my true and honourable wife,
As dear to me as are the ruddy drops
That visit my sad heart. Ib. 285
- 18 I grant I am a woman, but, withal,
A woman that Lord Brutus took to wife;
I grant I am a woman, but, withal,
A woman well-reputed, Cato's daughter.
Think you I am no stronger than my sex,
Being so fathered and so husbanded? Ib. 292
- 19 Enter Cæsar, in his night-gown.
Julius Cæsar, II. ii. Stage Direction
- 20 Nor heaven nor earth have been at peace to-night
Ib. 1
- 21 CALPHURNIA:
These things are beyond all use,
And I do fear them.
CÆSAR:
What can be avoided
Whose end is purpos'd by the mighty gods? Ib. 25
- 22 CALPHURNIA:
When beggars die, there are no comets seen;
The heavens themselves blaze forth the death of princes.
CÆSAR:
Cowards die many times before their deaths;
The valiant never taste of death but once.
Of all the wonders that I yet have heard,
It seems to me most strange that men should fear;
Seeing that death, a necessary end,
Will come when it will come. Ib. 30
- 23 Danger knows full well
That Cæsar is more dangerous than he:
We are two lions litter'd in one day,
And I the elder and more terrible.
And Cæsar shall go forth. Ib. 44
- 24 The cause is in my will I will not come. Ib. 71
- 25 See! Antony, that revels long o' nights,
Is notwithstanding up. Ib. 116
- 26 My heart laments that virtue cannot live
Out of the teeth of emulation. Ib. III. [13]
- 27 O constancy! be strong upon my side;
Set a huge mountain 'tween my heart and tongue;
I have a man's mind, but a woman's might.
How hard it is for women to keep counsel! Ib. IV. 6
- 28 CTSAR:
The ides of March are come.
Soothsayer
Ay, Cæsar, but not gone Ib. III. 1 1
- 29 Sweet words,
Low-crook'd curtsies, and base spaniel fawning.
Ib. 42
- 30 If I could play to move, prayers would move me,
But I am constant as the northern star,
Of whose true-fix'd and resting quality
There is no fellow in the firmament.
The skies are painted with unnumber'd sparks,
They are all fire and every one doth shine,
But there's but one in all doth hold his place.
So, in the world, 'tis furnish'd well with men,
And men are flesh and blood, and apprehensive;
Yet in the number I do know but one
That unassailable holds on his rank,
Unshak'd of motion: and that I am he,
Let me a little show it, even in this,
That I was constant Cimber should be banish'd,
And constant do remain to keep him so. Ib. 59
- 31 Et tu, Brutel! Ib. 77
- 32 Ambition's debt is paid. Ib. 83
- 33 'That we shall die, we know, 'tis but the time
And drawing days out, that men stand upon Ib. 99
- 34 He that cuts off twenty years of life
Cuts off so many years of fearing death. Ib. 101

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 CASSIUS*
How many ages hence
Shall this our lofty scene be acted o'er,
In states unborn, and accents yet unknown!
BRUTUS*
How many times shall Cæsar bleed in sport.
Julius Cæsar, III. i. 111
- 2 O mighty Cæsar! dost thou lie so low?
Are all thy conquests, glories, triumphs, spoils,
Shrunk to this little measure? Ib. 148
- 3 Your swords, made rich
With the most noble blood of all this world. Ib. 155
- 4 Live a thousand years,
I shall not find myself so apt to die Ib. 159
- 5 The choice and master spirits of this age. Ib. 163
- 6 Let each man render me his bloody hand
First, Marcus Brutus, will I shake with you. Ib. 184
- 7 Though last, not least in love. Ib. 189
- 8 My credit now stands on such slippery ground,
That one of two bad ways you must conceit me,
Either a coward or a flatterer. Ib. 191
- 9 Here wast thou bay'd, brave hart,
Here didst thou fall, and here thy hunters stand,
Sign'd in thy spoil, and crimson'd in thy leth.
O world! thou wast the forest to this hart;
And this, indeed, O world! the heart of thee. Ib. 204
- 10 The enemies of Cæsar shall say this;
Then, in a friend, it is bad modesty. Ib. 212
- 11 O! pardon me, thou bleeding piece of earth,
That I am meek and gentle with these butchers;
Thou art the ruins of the noblest man
That ever lived in the tide of times. Ib. 254
- 12 Cæsar's spirit, ranging for revenge,
With Ate by his side, come hot from hell,
Shall in these confines, with a monarch's voice
Cry, 'Havoc!' and let slip the dogs of war. Ib. 270
- 13 Passion, I see, is catching. Ib. 283
- 14 Not that I loved Cæsar less, but that I loved Rome more. Ib. ii. [22]
- 15 As he was valiant, I honour him: but, as he was ambitious, I slew him. Ib. [27]
- 16 Who is here so base that would be a bondman? If any, speak; for him have I offended. Who is here so rude that would not be a Roman? If any, speak; for him have I offended. Who is here so vile that will not love his country? If any, speak; for him have I offended. I pause for a reply.
Ib. [31]
- 17 Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears;
I come to bury Cæsar, not to praise him.
The evil that men do lives after them,
The good is oft interred with their bones;
So let it be with Cæsar. The noble Brutus
Hath told you Cæsar was ambitious;
If it were so, it was a grievous fault;
And grievously hath Cæsar answer'd it. Ib. [79]
- 18 For Brutus is an honourable man;
So are they all, all honourable men. Ib. [88]
- 19 He was my friend, faithful and just to me:
But Brutus says he was ambitious;
And Brutus is an honourable man. Ib. [91]
- 20 When that the poor have cried, Cæsar hath wept;
Ambition should be made of sterner stuff.
Julius Cæsar, III. ii. [97]
- 21 You all did love him once, not without cause.
Ib. [108]
- 22 O judgment! thou art fled to brutish beasts,
And men have lost their reason. Ib. [110]
- 23 But yesterday the word of Cæsar might
Have stood against the world; now lies he there,
And none so poor to do him reverence. Ib. [124]
- 24 Let but the commons hear this testament—
Which, pardon me, I do not mean to read—
And they would go and kiss dead Cæsar's wounds
And dip their napkins in his sacred blood,
Yea, beg a hair of him for memory,
And, dying, mention it within their walls,
Bequeathing it as a rich legacy
Unto their issue. Ib. [136]
- 25 The will, the will! we will hear Cæsar's will.
Ib. [145]
- 26 You are not wood, you are not stones, but men.
Ib. [148]
- 27 If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.
You all do know this mantle: I remember
The first time ever Cæsar put it on;
'Twas on a summer's evening, in his tent,
That day he overcame the Nervii. Ib. [174]
- 28 See what a rent the envious Casca made. Ib. [180]
- 29 For Brutus, as you know, was Cæsar's angel.
Ib. [186]
- 30 This was the most unkindest cut of all. Ib. [188]
- 31 Ingratitude, more strong than traitors' arms,
Quite vanquish'd him: then burst his mighty heart;
And, in his mantle muffling up his face,
Even at the base of Pompey's statue,
Which all the while ran blood, great Cæsar fell.
O! what a fall was there, my countrymen;
Then I, and you, and all of us fell down,
Whilst bloody treason flourish'd over us.
O! now you weep, and I perceive you feel
The dint of pity, these are gracious drops. Ib. [190]
- 32 Good friends, sweet friends, let me not stir you up
To such a sudden flood of mutiny.
They that have done this deed are honourable:
What private griefs they have, alas! I know not,
That made them do it; they are wise and honourable,
And will no doubt with reasons answer you.
I come not, friends, to steal away your hearts:
I am no orator, as Brutus is;
But, as you know me all, a plain, blunt man,
That love my friend. Ib. [214]
- 33 For I have neither wit, nor words, nor worth,
Action, nor utterance, nor power of speech,
To stir men's blood; I only speak right on;
I tell you that which you yourselves do know.
Ib. [225]
- 34 But were I Brutus,
And Brutus Antony, there were an Antony
Would ruffle up your spirits, and put a tongue
In every wound of Cæsar, that should move
The stones of Rome to rise and mutiny. Ib. [230]
- 35 Here was a Cæsar! when comes such another?
Ib. [257]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Now let it work; mischief, thou art afoot,
Take thou what course thou wilt!
Julius Cæsar, III. II. [265]
- 2 Fortune is merry,
And in this mood will give us anything Ib. [271]
- 3 Tear him for his bad verses, tear him for his bad verses. Ib. III. [34]
- 4 He shall not live; look, with a spot I damn him.
Ib. IV. 1. 6
- 5 This is a slight unmeritable man,
Meet to be sent on errands. Ib. 12
- 6 OCTAVIUS:
He's a tried and valiant soldier.
ANTONY:
So is my horse, Octavius, and for that I do appoint him store of provender. Ib. 28
- 7 We are at the stake,
And bay'd about with many enemies,
And some that smile have in their hearts, I fear,
Millions of mischiefs. Ib. 48
- 8 Not with such familiar instances,
Nor with such free and friendly conference,
As he hath us'd of old Ib. II. 16
- 9 When love begins to sicken and decay,
It useth an enforced ceremony.
There are no tricks in plain and simple faith. Ib. 20
- 10 CASSIUS:
In such a time as this it is not meet
That every nice offence should bear his comment.
BRUTUS:
Let me tell you, Cassius, you yourself
Are much condemn'd to have an itching palm.
Ib. III. 7
- 11 Remember March, the ides of March remember.
Ib. 18
- 12 Shall we now
Contaminate our fingers with base bribes? Ib. 23
- 13 I had rather be a dog, and bay the moon,
Than such a Roman. Ib. 27
- 14 Away, slight man! Ib. 37
- 15 I'll use you for my mirth, yea, for my laughter,
When you are waspish Ib. 49
- 16 For mine own part,
I shall be glad to learn of noble men. Ib. 53
- 17 You wrong me every way, you wrong me, Brutus,
I said an elder soldier, not a better:
Did I say 'better'? Ib. 55
- 18 Do not presume too much upon my love;
I may do that I shall be sorry for Ib. 63
- 19 There is no terror, Cassius, in your threats;
For I am arm'd so strong in honesty
That they pass by me as the idle wind,
Whom I respect not. Ib. 66
- 20 By heaven, I had rather coin my heart,
And drop my blood for drachmas, than to wring
From the hard hands of peasants their vile trash
By any indirection. Ib. 72
- 21 Should I have answer'd Caius Cassius so?
When Marcus Brutus grows so covetous,
To lock such rascal counters from his friends,
Be ready, gods, with all your thunderbolts;
Dash him to pieces! Ib. 78
- 22 A friend should bear his friend's infirmities,
But Brutus makes mine greater than they are.
Julius Cæsar, IV. III. 85
- 23 A friendly eye could never see such faults. Ib. 89
- 24 All his faults observ'd,
Set in a note-book, learn'd, and conn'd by rote,
To cast into my teeth. Ib. 96
- 25 O Cassius! you are yoked with a lamb
That carries anger as the flint bears fire;
Who, much enforced, shows a hasty spark,
And straight is cold again. Ib. 109
- 26 O Cassius! I am sick of many griefs. Ib. 143
- 27 I have as much of this in art as you,
But yet my nature could not bear it so. Ib. 193
- 28 Good reasons must, of force, give place to better.
Ib. 202
- 29 There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries.
On such a full sea are we now afloat,
And we must take the current when it serves,
Or lose our ventures. Ib. 217
- 30 The deep of night is crept upon our talk,
And nature must obey necessity. Ib. 225
- 31 This was an ill beginning of the night:
Never come such division 'tween our souls! Ib. 233
- 32 BRUTUS:
Then I shall see thee again?
GHOST:
Ay, at Philippi.
BRUTUS:
Why, I will see thee at Philippi, then. Ib. 283
- 33 But for your words, they rob the Hybla bees,
And leave them honeyless Ib. V. 1. 34
- 34 You know that I held Epicurus strong,
And his opinion, now I change my mind,
And partly credit things that do presage Ib. 77
- 35 The gods to-day stand friendly, that we may,
Lovers in peace, lead on our days to age! Ib. 94
- 36 I know not how,
But I do find it cowardly and vile,
For fear of what might fall, so to prevent
The time of life. Ib. 103
- 37 Think not, thou noble Roman,
That ever Brutus will go bound to Rome,
He bears too great a mind: but this same day
Must end that work the ides of March begun;
And whether we shall meet again, I know not.
Therefore our everlasting farewell take
For ever, and for ever, farewell, Cassius!
If we do meet again, why, we shall smile!
If not, why then, this parting was well made. Ib. 111
- 38 O! that a man might know
The end of this day's business, ere it come;
But it sufficeth that the day will end,
And then the end is known. Ib. 123
- 39 This day I breathed first: time is come round,
And where I did begin, there shall I end;
My life is run his compass Ib. III. 23
- 40 O hateful error, melancholy's child!
Why dost thou show, to the apt thoughts of men,
The things that are not? Ib. 67

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 O Julius Cæsar! thou art mighty yet!
Thy spirit walks abroad, and turns our swords
In our own proper entrails. Julius Cæsar, v. iii. 94
- 2 Are yet two Romans living such as these?
The last of all the Romans, fare thee well!
It is impossible that ever Rome
Should breed thy fellow. Friends, I owe more tears
To this dead man than you shall see me pay.—
I shall find time, Cassius, I shall find time. Ib. 98
- 3 When you do find him, or alive or dead,
He will be found like Brutus, like himself. Ib. iv. 24
- 4 I had rather have Such men my friends than enemies. Ib. 28
- 5 Thou seest the world, Volumnius, how it goes,
Our enemies have beat us to the pit.
It is more worthy to leap in ourselves,
Than tarry till they push us. Ib. v. 22
- 6 Thou art a fellow of a good respect;
Thy life hath had some smatch of honour in it Ib. 45
- 7 Cæsar, now be still;
I kill'd not thee with half so good a will. Ib. 50
- 8 This was the noblest Roman of them all. Ib. 68
- 9 He, only, in a general honest thought
And common good to all, made one of them.
His life was gentle, and the elements
So mix'd in him that Nature might stand up
And say to all the world, 'This was a man!' Ib. 71
- 10 LEAR:
So young, and so untender?
CORDELIA.
So young, my lord, and true. King Lear, i. i. [108]
- 11 A still-soliciting eye. Ib. [234]
- 12 Love is not love
When it is mingled with regards that stand
Aloof from the entire point. Ib. [241]
- 13 Fairest Cordelia, that art most rich, being poor;
Most choice, forsaken; and most lov'd, despis'd!
Ib. [253]
- 14 Who in the lusty stealth of nature take
More composition and fierce quality
Than doth, within a dull, stale, tired bed,
Go to the creating a whole tribe of fops. Ib. ii. i. 11
- 15 These late eclipses in the sun and moon portend no good to us. Ib. [115]
- 16 We have seen the best of our time: machinations, hollowness, treachery, and all ruinous disorders,
follow us disquietly to our graves. Ib. [125]
- 17 This is the excellent foppery of the world. Ib. [132]
- 18 We make guilty of our disasters the sun, the moon,
and the stars; as if we were villains by necessity, fools by heavenly compulsion. Ib. [134]
- 19 An admirable evasion of whoremaster man, to lay his goatish disposition to the charge of a star!
Ib. [141]
- 20 My nativity was under Ursa Major; so that it follows
I am rough and lecherous. Ib. [145]
- 21 Pat he comes, like the catastrophe of the old comedy;
my cue is villanous melancholy, with a sigh like Tom o' Bedlam. Ib. [150]
- 22 KENT:
You have that in your countenance which I would fain call master.
LEAR.
What's that?
KENT:
Authority. King Lear, i. iv. [29]
- 23 Not so young, sir, to love a woman for singing, nor so old to dote on her for any thing. Ib. [40]
- 24 Lady the brach may stand by the fire and stink Ib. [125]
- 25 Have more than thou showest,
Speak less than thou knowest,
Lend less than thou owest. Ib. [132]
- 26 LEAR.
Dost thou call me fool, boy?
FOOL:
All thy other titles thou hast given away; that thou wast born with. Ib. [163]
- 27 The hedge-sparrow fed the cuckoo so long,
That it had it head bit off by it young. Ib. [238]
- 28 Ingratitude, thou marble-hearted fiend,
More hideous, when thou show'st thee in a child,
Than the sea-monster. Ib. [283]
- 29 Into her womb convey sterility!
Dry up in her the organs of increase. Ib. [302]
- 30 How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is To have a thankless child! Ib. [312]
- 31 How far your eyes may pierce I cannot tell;
Striving to better, oft we mar what's well. Ib. [370]
- 32 A knave; a rascal; an eater of broken meats. Ib. ii. ii. [15]
- 33 Thou whoreson zed! thou unnecessary letter!
Ib. [68]
- 34 I'd drive ye cackling home to Camelot. Ib. [89]
- 35 I have seen better faces in my time
Than stands on any shoulder that I see
Before me at this instant. Ib. [99]
- 36 Winter's not gone yet, if the wild-geese fly that way. Ib. iv. [46]
- 37 Down, thou climbing sorrow!
Thy element's below. Ib. [57]
- 38 That sir which serves and seeks for gain,
And follows but for form,
Will pack when it begins to ram,
And leave thee in the storm. Ib. [79]
- 39 O, sir! you are old;
Nature in you stands on the very verge
Of her confine. Ib. [148]
- 40 But I'll not chide thee;
Let shame come when it will, I do not call it:
I do not bid the thunder-bearer shoot,
Nor tell tales of thee to high-judging Jove. Ib. [228]
- 41 Our basest beggars
Are in the poorest thing superfluous:
Allow not nature more than nature needs,
Man's life is cheap as beast's. Ib. [267]
- 42 You see me here, you gods, a poor old man,
As full of grief as age; wretched in both! Ib. [275]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 I will have such revenges on you both
That all the world shall—I will do such things,—
What they are yet I know not,—but they shall be
The terrors of the earth. King Lear, II. iv. [282]
- 2 To wilful men,
The injuries that they themselves procure
Must be their schoolmasters. Ib. [305]
- 3 Contending with the fretful elements;
Bids the wind blow the earth into the sea,
Or swell the curled waters 'bove the main. Ib. III. i. 4
- 4 Strives in his little world of man to out-scorn
The to-and-fro conflicting wind and rain.
This night, wherein the cub-drawn bear would couch,
The lion and the belly-pinched wolf
Keep their fur dry. Ib. 10
- 5 Blow, winds, and crack your cheeks! rage! blow!
You cataracts and hurricanoes, spout
Till you have drench'd our steeples, drown'd the cocks!
You sulphurous and thought-executing fires,
Vaunt-couriers to oak-cleaving thunderbolts,
Singe my white head! And thou, all-shaking thunder,
Strike flat the thick rotundity o' the world!
Crack nature's moulds, all germens spill at once
That make ingrateful man! Ib. 11 1
- 6 I tax not you, you elements, with unkindness;
I never gave you kingdom, call'd you children,
You owe me no subscription: then, let fall
Your horrible pleasure; here I stand, your slave,
A poor, infirm, weak, and despis'd old man.
But yet I call you servile ministers,
That have with two pernicious daughters join'd
Your high-engender'd battles 'gainst a head
So old and white as this. Ib. [16]
- 7 There was never yet fair woman but she made mouths in a glass. Ib. [35]
- 8 Things that love night
Love not such nights as these. Ib. [42]
- 9 Let the great gods,
That keep this dreadful pother o'er our heads,
Find out their enemies now. Tremble, thou wretch,
That hast within thee undivulged crimes,
Unwhipp'd of justice. Ib. [49]
- 10 Close pent-up guilts,
Rive your concealing continents, and cry
These dreadful summoners grace. I am a man
More sinned against than sinning. Ib. [57]
- 11 The art of our necessities is strange,
That can make vile things precious. Ib. [70]
- 12 When the mind's free,
The body's delicate Ib. iv 11
- 13 O! that way madness lies, let me shun that. Ib. 21
- 14 Poor naked wretches, wheresoe'er you are,
That bide the pelung of this pitiless storm,
How shall your houseless heads and unfed sides,
Your looped and window'd raggedness, defend you
From seasons such as these? Ib. 28
- 15 Take physic, pomp;
Expose thyself to feel what wretches feel. Ib. 33
- 16 Tom's a-cold Ib. [57]
- 17 Pillicock sat on Pillicock-hill.
Halloo, halloo, loo, loo! Ib. [75]
- 18 Take heed o' the foul fiend! King Lear, III. iv. [79]
- 19 A serving-man, proud in heart and mind: that curled my hair, wore gloves in my cap, served the lust of my mistress's heart, and did the act of darkness with her; swore as many oaths as I spake words, and broke them in the sweet face of heaven; one that slept in the contriving of lust, and waked to do it. Ib. [84]
- 20 Keep thy foot out of brothels, thy hand out of plackets, thy pen from lenders' books, and defy the foul fiend. Ib. [96]
- 21 Thou art the thing itself; unaccommodated man is no more but such a poor, bare, forked animal as thou art. Ib. [109]
- 22 'Tis a naughty night to swim in. Ib. [113]
- 23 Drinks the green mantle of the standing pool Ib. [136]
- 24 But mice and rats and such small deer
Have been Tom's food for seven long year. Ib. [142]
- 25 The prince of darkness is a gentleman. Ib. [148]
- 26 I'll talk a word with this same learned Theban. Ib. [161]
- 27 Child Roland to the dark tower came,
His word was still, Fie, foh, and fum,
I smell the blood of a British man. Ib. [185]
- 28 Nero is an angler in the lake of darkness. Ib. vi. [8]
- 29 The little dogs and all,
Tray, Blanch, and Sweet-heart, see, they bark at me. Ib. [65]
- 30 Mastiff, greyhound, mongrel grim,
Hound or spaniel, brach or lym,
Or bobtail tike, or trundle-tail. Ib. [71]
- 31 You, sir, I entertain for one of my hundred; only I do not like the fashion of your garments. you will say, they are Persian attire; but let them be changed. Ib. [83]
- 32 'Tis most ignobly done
To pluck me by the beard. Ib. vii. [35]
- 33 I am tied to the stake, and I must stand the course. Ib. [54]
- 34 The sea, with such a storm as his bare head
In hell-black night endur'd, would have buoy'd up,
And quench'd the stelled fires. Ib. [59]
- 35 Out, vile jelly! Ib. [83]
- 36 The lowest and most dejected thing of fortune Ib. iv. i. 3
- 37 The lamentable change is from the best;
The worst returns to laughter. Ib. 5
- 38 I have no way, and therefore want no eyes,
I stumbled when I saw. Ib. 18
- 39 The worst is not,
So long as we can say, 'This is the worst.' Ib. 27
- 40 As flies to wanton boys, are we to the gods;
They kill us for their sport. Ib. 36
- 41 You are not worth the dust which the rude wind
Blows in your face Ib. 11 30
- 42 She that herself will sliver and disbranch
From her maternal sap, perforce must wither
And come to deadly use. Ib. 34

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Wisdom and goodness to the vile seem vile;
Filth's savour but themselves. King Lear, IV. ii. 38
- 2 Crown'd with rank fumiter and furrow weeds,
With burdocks, hemlock, nettles, cuckoo-flowers,
Darnel, and all the idle weeds that grow
In our sustaining corn. Ib. iv. 3
- 3 How fearful
And dizzy 'tis to cast one's eyes so low!
The crows and choughs that wing the midway air
Show scarce so gross as beetles, half-way down
Hangs one that gathers samphire, dreadful trade!
Methinks he seems no bigger than his head.
The fishermen that walk upon the beach
Appear like mice, and yond tall anchoring bark
Diminish'd to her cock, her cock a buoy
Almost too small for sight. The murmuring surge,
That on the unnumber'd idle pebbles chafes,
Cannot be heard so high. Ib. vi. 12
- 4 The shrill-gorg'd lark so far
Cannot be seen or heard. Ib. 59
- 5 Think that the clearest gods, who make them honours
Of men's impossibilities, have preserv'd thee. Ib. 74
- 6 They told me I was every thing; 'tis a lie, I am not ague-proof. Ib. [107]
- 7 GLOUCESTER:
Is't not the king?
LEAR:
Ay, every inch a king. Ib. [110]
- 8 The wren goes to 't, and the small gilded fly
Does lecher in my sight. Ib. [115]
- 9 Give me an ounce of civet, good apothecary, to sweeten my imagination. Ib. [133]
- 10 A man may see how this world goes with no eyes.
Look with thine ears. see how yond justice rails upon yond simple thief. Hark, in thine ear. change places; and, handy-dandy, which is the justice, which is the thief? Ib. [154]
- 11 Get thee glass eyes;
And, like a scurvy politician, seem
To see the things thou dost not. Ib. [175]
- 12 When we are born we cry that we are come
To this great stage of fools. Ib. [187]
- 13 Mine enemy's dog,
Though he had bit me, should have stood that night
Against my fire. Ib. vii. 36
- 14 Thou art a soul in bliss; but I am bound
Upon a wheel of fire, that mine own tears
Do scald like molten lead. Ib. 46
- 15 I am a very foolish, fond old man,
Fourscore and upward, not an hour more or less;
And, to deal plainly,
I fear I am not in my perfect mind. Ib. 60
- 16 For, as I am a man, I think this lady
To be my child Cordelia. Ib. 69
- 17 Pray you now, forget and forgive. Ib. [85]
- 18 Men must endure
Their going hence, even as their coming hither:
Ripeness is all. Ib. v. ii. 9
- 19 Come, let's away to prison;
We two alone will sing like birds i' the cage:
When thou dost ask me blessing, I'll kneel down,
And ask of thee forgiveness: and we'll live,
And pray, and sing, and tell old tales, and laugh
At gilded butterflies, and hear poor rogues
Talk of court news, and we'll talk with them too,
Who loses, and who wins, who's in, who's out,
And take upon 's the mystery of things,
As if we were God's spies, and we'll wear out,
In a wall'd prison, packs and sets of great ones
That ebb and flow by the moon. King Lear, v. iii. 8
- 20 Upon such sacrifices, my Cordelia,
The gods themselves throw incense. Ib. 20
- 21 The gods are just, and of our pleasant vices
Make instruments to plague us. Ib. [172]
- 22 The wheel is come full circle. Ib. [176]
- 23 His flaw'd heart,—
Alack! too weak the conflict to support;
'Twixt two extremes of passion, joy and grief,
Burst smilingly. Ib. [198]
- 24 Her voice was ever soft,
Gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman. Ib. [274]
- 25 I have seen the day, with my good biting falchion
I would have made them skip. Ib. [278]
- 26 And my poor fool is hang'd! No, no, no life!
Why should a dog, a horse, a rat, have life,
And thou no breath at all? Thou'lt come no more,
Never, never, never, never, never!
Pray you, undo this button. Ib. [307]
- 27 Vex not his ghost: O! let him pass; he hates him
That would upon the rack of this tough world
Stretch him out longer. Ib. [314]
- 28 The weight of this sad time we must obey,
Speak what we feel; not what we ought to say.
The oldest hath borne most: we that are young,
Shall never see so much, nor live so long. Ib. [325]
- 29 Let fame, that all hunt after in their lives,
Live register'd upon our brazen tombs
Love's Labour's Lost, I. i. 1
- 30 Spite of cormorant devouring Time. Ib. 4
- 31 Why, all delights are vain; but that most vain,
Which, with pain purchas'd, doth inherit pain. Ib. 72
- 32 Study is like the heaven's glorious sun,
That will not be deep-search'd with saucy looks;
Small have continual plodders ever won,
Save base authority from others' books.
These earthly godfathers of Heaven's lights
That give a name to every fixed star,
Have no more profit of their shining nights
Than those that walk and wot not what they are Ib. 84
- 33 At Christmas I no more desire a rose
Than wish a snow in May's new-fangled mirth;
But like of each thing that in season grows. Ib. 105
- 34 So study evermore is overshoot. Ib. [141]
- 35 If I break faith, this word shall speak for me,—
I am forsworn 'on mere necessity'. Ib. [152]
- 36 A child of our grandmother Eve, a female; or, for thy more sweet understanding, a woman. Ib. [263]
- 37 The world was very guilty of such a ballad some three ages since; but, I think, now 'tis not to be found. Ib. ii. [117]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Devise, wit! write, pen! for I am for whole volumes in folio! Love's Labour's Lost, I. ii. [194]
- 2 Beauty is bought by judgment of the eye,
Not utter'd by base sale of chapmen's tongues.
Ib. II. i. 15

Within the limit of becoming mirth,
I never spent an hour's talk withal. Ib. 66

- 8 This wimpled, whining, purblind, wayward boy,
This senior-junior, giant-dwarf, Dan Cupid;
Regent of love rhymes, lord of folded arms,
The anointed sovereign of sighs and groans,
Liege of all loiterers and malcontents. Ib. [189]

- 17 Love, whose month is ever May,
Spied a blossom passing fair,
Playing in the wanton air;
Through the velvet leaves the wind,
All unseen, 'gan passage find;
That the lover, sick to death,
Wish'd himself the heaven's breath. Ib. [102]
- 18 Thou for whom e'en Jove would swear
Juno but an Ethiop were,
And deny himself for Jove,
Turning mortal for thy love. Ib. [117]

- 20 From women's eyes this doctrine I derive:
They are the ground, the books, the academes,
From whence doth spring the true Promethean fire.
Ib. [302]
- 21 For where is any author in the world
Teaches such beauty as a woman's eye?
Learning is but an adjunct to herself. Ib. [312]
- 22 But love, first learned in a lady's eyes,
Lives not alone immured in the brain,
But, with the motion of all elements,
Courses as swift as thought in every power,
And gives to every power a double power,
Above their functions and their offices.
It adds a precious seeing to the eye;
A lover's eyes will gaze an eagle blind;
A lover's ears will hear the lowest sound,
When the suspicious head of theft is stopp'd:
Love's feeling is more soft and sensible
Than are the tender horns of cockled snails.
Love's tongue proves dainty Bacchus gross in taste.
For valour, is not love a Hercules,
Still climbing trees in the Hesperides?
Subtle as Sphinx; as sweet and musical
As bright Apollo's lute, strung with his hair;
And when Love speaks, the voice of all the gods
Makes heaven drowsy with the harmony.
Never durst poet touch a pen to write
Until his ink were temper'd with Love's sighs.
Love's Labour's Lost, IV. III. [327]
- 23 From women's eyes this doctrine I derive:
They sparkle still the right Promethean fire;
They are the books, the arts, the academes,
That show, contain, and nourish all the world.

And lady-smocks all silver-white
And cuckoo-buds of yellow hue
Do paint the meadows with delight,
The cuckoo then, on every tree,
Mocks married men, for thus sings he,
Cuckoo;
Cuckoo, cuckoo; O, word of fear,
Unpleasing to a married ear! Ib. [902]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 When icicles hang by the wall,
And Dick, the shepherd, blows his nail,
And Tom bears logs into the hall,
And milk comes frozen home in pail,
When blood is nipp'd and ways be foul,
Then nightly sings the staring owl,
Tu-who;
Tu-whit, tu-who—a merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.
When all aloud the wind doth blow,
And coughing drowns the parson's saw;
And birds sit brooding in the snow,
And Marion's nose looks red and raw,
When roasted crabs hiss in the bowl
Love's Labour's Lost, v. ii. [920]

- 3 FIRST WITCH:
When shall we three meet again
In thunder, lightning, or in rain?
SECOND WITCH:
When the hurly-burly's done,
When the battle's lost and won.
THIRD WITCH:
That will be ere the set of sun.
FIRST WITCH:
Where the place?
SECOND WITCH:
Upon the heath.
THIRD WITCH:
There to meet with Macbeth.
FIRST WITCH:
I come, Graymalkin!
SECOND WITCH:
Paddock calls.
THIRD WITCH:
Anon!
ALL:
Fair is foul, and foul is fair:
Hover through the fog and filthy air. Macbeth, i. i. 1

What bloody man is that? . . .
MALCOLM:
This is the sergeant. Ib. ii. 1

Confronted him with self-comparisons,
Point against point, rebellious arm 'gainst arm,
Curbing his lavish spirit. Ib. 55
- 10 A sailor's wife had chestnuts in her lap,
And munch'd, and munch'd, and munch'd: 'Give me,' quoth I:
'Aroint thee, witch!' the rump-fed ronyon cries.
Her husband's to Aleppo gone, master o' the Tiger.
But in a sieve I'll thither sail,
And, like a rat without a tail,
I'll do, I'll do, and I'll do. Ib. iii. 4
- 11 Sleep shall neither night nor day
Hang upon his pent-house lid.
He shall live a man forbid.
Weary se'nights nine times nine
Shall he dwindle, peak, and pine:
Though his bark cannot be lost,
Yet it shall be tempest-tost. Macbeth, i. iii. 19
- 12 So foul and fair a day I have not seen. Ib. 38
- 13 What are these,
So withered, and so wild in their attire,
That look not like th' inhabitants o' the earth,
And yet are on 't? Ib. 39
- 14 You should be women,
And yet your beards forbid me to interpret
That you are so. Ib. 45

- 17 The Thane of Cawdor lives,
A prosperous gentleman; and to be king
Stands not within the prospect of belief;
No more than to be Cawdor. Say, from whence
You owe this strange intelligence? or why
Upon this blasted heath you stop our way
With such prophetic greeting? Ib. 72

As happy prologues to the swelling act
Of the imperial theme. Ib. 127
- 24 This supernatural soliciting
Cannot be ill, cannot be good; if ill,
Why hath it given me earnest of success,
Commencing in a truth? I am Thane of Cawdor:
If good, why do I yield to that suggestion
Whose horrid image doth unfix my hair
And make my seated heart knock at my ribs,
Against the use of nature? Present fears
Are less than horrible imaginings;
My thought, whose murder yet is but fantastical,
Shakes so my single state of man that function
Is smother'd in surmise, and nothing is
But what is not. Ib. 130
- 25 If chance will have me king, why, chance may crown
me. Ib. 143
- 26 Come what come may,
Time and the hour runs through the roughest day. Ib. 146
- 27 MALCOLM:
Nothing in his life
Became him like the leaving it; he died
As one that had been studied in his death
To throw away the dearest thing he owed
As 'twere a careless trifle.

SHAKESPEARE

DUNCAN:

There's no art
To find the mind's construction in the face;
He was a gentleman on whom I built
An absolute trust. Macbeth, I. iv 7

- 1 Glamis thou art, and Cawdor, and shalt be
What thou art promis'd. Yet do I fear thy nature;
It is too full o' the milk of human kindness
To catch the nearest way; thou wouldst be great,
Art not without ambition, but without
The illness should attend it; what thou wouldst highly,
That thou wouldst holily; wouldst not play false,
And yet wouldst wrongly win; thou'dst have, great Glamis,
That which cries, 'Thus thou must do, if thou have
it';
And that which rather thou dost fear to do
Than wishest should be undone. Ib. v. [16]

- 2 The golden round,
Which fate and metaphysical aid doth seem
To have thee crown'd withal. Ib. [29]

- 3 The raven himself is hoarse
That croaks the fatal entrance of Duncan
Under my battlements. Come, you spirits
That tend on mortal thoughts! unsex me here,
And fill me from the crown to the toe top full
Of direst cruelty; make thick my blood,
Stop up the access and passage to remorse,
That no compunctious visitings of nature
Shake my fell purpose, nor keep peace between
The effect and it! Come to my woman's breasts,
And take my milk for gall, you murdering ministers,
Wherever in your sightless substances
You wait on nature's mischief! Come, thick night,
And pall thee in the dunest smoke of hell,
That my keen knife see not the wound it makes,
Nor heaven peep through the blanket of the dark,
To cry 'Hold, hold!' Ib. [38]

- 4 Greater than both, by the all-hail hereafter! Ib. [56]
5 Your face, my thane, is as a book where men
May read strange matters. To beguile the time,
Look like the time; bear welcome in your eye,
Your hand, your tongue: look like the innocent flower,
But be the serpent under't. Ib. [63]

- 6 DUNCAN:
This castle hath a pleasant seat; the air
Numbly and sweetly recommends itself
Unto our gentle senses.
BANQUO:

This guest of summer,
The temple-haunting martlet, does approve
By his lov'd mansionry that the heaven's breath
Smells wooingly here: no jutty, frieze,
Buttress, nor coign of vantage, but this bird
Hath made his pendent bed and procreant cradle:
Where they most breed and haunt, I have observ'd,
The air is delicate. Ib. vi. 1

- 7 If it were done when 'tis done, then 'twere well
It were done quickly: if the assassination
Could trammel up the consequence, and catch
With his surcease success; that but this blow
Might be the be-all and the end-all here,
But here, upon this bank and shoal of time,
We'd jump the life to come. Ib. vii. 1

- 8 This even-handed justice. Macbeth, I. vii. 10

9 Besides, this Duncan
Hath borne his faculties so meek, hath been
So clear in his great office, that his virtues
Will plead like angels trumpet-tongu'd, against
The deep damnation of his taking-off;
And pity, like a naked new-born babe,
Striding the blast, or heaven's cherubim, hors'd
Upon the sightless couriers of the air,
Shall blow the horrid deed in every eye,
That tears shall drown the wind. I have no spur
To prick the sides of my intent, but only
Vaulting ambition, which o'erleaps itself,
And falls on the other. Ib. 16

- 10 We will proceed no further in this business:
He hath honour'd me of late, and I have bought
Golden opinions from all sorts of people. Ib. 31

11 Was the hope drunk,
Wherein you dress'd yourself? hath it slept since,
And wakes it now, to look so green and pale
At what it did so freely? From this time
Such I account thy love. Art thou afraid
To be the same in thine own act and valour
As thou art in desire? Wouldst thou have that
Which thou esteem'st the ornament of life,
And live a coward in thine own esteem,
Letting 'I dare not' wait upon 'I would,'
Like the poor cat i' the adage. Ib. 35

- 12 I dare do all that may become a man;
Who dares do more is none. Ib. 46

LADY MACBETH:

I have given suck, and know
How tender 'tis to love the babe that milks me:
I would, while it was smiling in my face,
Have pluck'd my nipple from his boneless gums,
And dash'd the brains out, had I so sworn as you
Have done to this.

MACBETH:

If we should fail,—

LADY MACBETH:

We fail!

But screw your courage to the sticking-place,
And we'll not fail. Ib. 54

- 14 That memory, the warder of the brain,
Shall be a fume. Ib. 65

- 15 Bring forth men-children only;
For thy undaunted mettle should compose
Nothing but males. Ib. 72

- 16 Away, and mock the time with fairest show:
False face must hide what the false heart doth know
Ib. 81

- 17 There's husbandry in heaven;
Their candles are all out. Ib. ii. 1 4

- 18 Merciful powers!
Restrain in me the cur'd thoughts that nature
Gives way to in repose. Ib. 7

- 19 Shu+ up
In measureless content Ib. 16

- 20 Is this a dagger which I see before me,
The handle toward my hand? Come, let me clutch thee
I have thee not, and yet I see thee still.
Art thou not, fatal vision, sensible
To feeling as to sight? or art thou but
A dagger of the mind, a false creation,
Proceeding from the heat-oppressed brain? Ib. 31

SHAKESPEARE

- Now o'er the one half-world
Nature seems dead, and wicked dreams abuse
The curtain'd sleep, witchcraft celebrates
Pale Hecate's offerings; and wither'd murder,
Alarum'd by his sentinel, the wolf,
Whose howl's his watch, thus with his stealthy pace,
With Tarquin's ravishing strides, toward his design
Moves like a ghost. Thou sure and firm-set earth,
Hear not my steps, which way they walk, for fear
The very stones prate of my whereabouts,
And take the present horror from the time,
Which now suits with it. Whiles I threat he lives:
Words to the heat of deeds too cold breath gives.
I go, and it is done, the bell invites me.
Hear it not, Duncan; for it is a knell
That summons thee to heaven or to hell.
Macbeth, II. 1. 49
- 2 That which hath made them drunk hath made me
bold,
What hath quench'd them hath given me fire.
Ib. II. 1
- 3 It was the owl that shriek'd, the fatal bellman,
Which gives the stern'st good-night. Ib. 4
- 4 The attempt and not the deed,
Confounds us. Ib. 12
- 5 Had he not resembled
My father as he slept I had done 't. Ib. 14
- 6 I have done the deed. Didst thou not hear a noise?
Ib. 16
- 7 As they had seen me with these hangman's hands.
Ib. 29
- 8 Consider it not so deeply. Ib. 31
- 9 I had most need of blessing, and 'Amen'
Stuck in my throat. Ib. 33
- 10 These deeds must not be thought
After these ways, so, it will make us mad. Ib. 34
- 11 Methought I heard a voice cry, 'Sleep no more!
Macbeth does murder sleep,' the innocent sleep,
Sleep that knits up the ravell'd sleeve of care,
The death of each day's life, sore labour's bath,
Balm of hurt minds, great nature's second course,
Chief nourisher in life's feast. Ib. 36
- 12 Glamis hath murder'd sleep, and therefore Cawdor
Shall sleep no more, Macbeth shall sleep no more!
Ib. 43
- 13 You do unbend your noble strength to think
So brainsickly of things. Ib. 46
- 14 MACBETH:
I am afraid to think what I have done;
Look on't again I dare not.
LADY MACBETH:
Infirm of purpose!
Give me the daggers. The sleeping and the dead
Are but as pictures; 'tis the eye of childhood
That fears a painted devil. Ib. 52
- 15 Will all great Neptune's ocean wash this blood Clean from my hand? No, this my hand will rather
The multitudinous seas incarnadine,
Making the green one red. Ib. 61
- 16 A little water clears us of this deed. Ib. 68
- 17 Here's a farmer that hanged himself on the expectation of plenty. Ib. III. [5]
- 18 Faith, here's an equivocator. Ib. [9]
- 19 The primrose way to the everlasting bonfire.
Macbeth, II. III. [22]
- 20 The labour we delight in physics pain. Ib. [56]
- 21 The night has been unruly: where we lay
Our chimneys were blown down; and, as they say, Lamentings heard i' the air; strange screams of
death,
And prophesying with accents terrible
Of dire combustion and confus'd events
New-hatch'd to the woeful time. The obscure bird
Clamour'd the live-long night: some say the earth
Was feverous and did shake. Ib. [60]
- 22 Confusion now hath made his masterpiece!
Most sacrilegious murder hath broke ope
The Lord's anointed temple, and stole thence
The life o' the building! Ib. [72]
- 23 Shake off this downy sleep, death's counterfeit,
And look on death itself! up, up, and see
The great doom's image! Ib. [83]
- 24 Had I but died an hour before this chance,
I had liv'd a blessed time; for, from this instant,
There's nothing serious in mortality:
All is but toys; renown and grace is dead,
The wine of life is drawn, and the mere lees
Is left this vault to brag of. Ib. [98]
- 25 Who can be wise, amazed, temperate, and furious,
Loyal and neutral, in a moment? No man. Ib. [115]
- 26 In the great hand of God I stand, and thence Against the undivulg'd pretence I fight
Of treasonous malice. Ib. [137]
- 27 There's daggers in men's smiles. Ib. [147]
- 28 A falcon, towering in her pride of place,
Was by a mousing owl hawk'd at and kill'd.
Ib. IV. 12
- 29 Thriftless ambition, that wilt ravin up
Thine own life's means! Ib. 28
- 30 Thou hast it now: King, Cawdor, Glamis, all,
As the weird women promis'd; and, I fear,
Thou play'dst most foully for 't; yet it was said
It should not stand in thy posterity,
But that myself should be the root and father
Of many kings. Ib. III. I. 1
- 31 I must become a borrower of the night
For a dark hour or twain. Ib. 27
- 32 To be thus is nothing;
But to be safely thus. Ib. 48
- 33 There is none but he
Whose being I do fear; and, under him
My genius is rebuk'd: as, it is said,
Mark Antony's was by Cæsar. Ib. 54
- 34 Mine eternal jewel
Given to the common enemy of man. Ib. 68
- 35 FIRST MURDERER:
We are men, my liege.
MACBETH:
Ay, in the catalogue ye go for men. Ib. 91
- 36 SECOND MURDERER:
I am one, my liege,
Whom the vile blows and buffets of the world
Have so incens'd, that I am reckless what
I do to spite the world.

SHAKESPEARE

- FIRST MURDERER:
I another,
So weary with disasters, tugg'd with fortune,
That I would set my life on any chance,
To mend it or be rid on 't. Macbeth, III. i. 108
- 1 Leave no rubs nor botches in the work. Ib. 134
- 2 Thy soul's flight,
If it find heaven, must find it out to-night. Ib. 141
- 3 Nought's had, all's spent,
Where our desire is got without content:
'Tis safer to be that which we destroy,
Than, by destruction, dwell in doubtful joy. Ib. ii. 4
- 4 LADY MACBETH:
Things without all remedy
Should be without regard: what's done is done.
MACBETH:
We have scotch'd the snake, not killed it:
She'll close and be herself, whilst our poor malice
Remains in danger of her former tooth
But let the frame of things disjoint, both the worlds suffer,
Ere we will eat our meal in fear, and sleep
In the affliction of these terrible dreams
That shake us nightly. Better be with the dead,
Whom we, to gain our peace, have sent to peace,
Than on the torture of the mind to lie
In restless ecstasy. Duncan is in his grave;
After life's fitful fever he sleeps well;
Treason has done his worst: nor steel, nor poison,
Malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing,
Can touch him further. Ib. 11
- 5 Make our faces vizards to our hearts,
Disguising what they are. Ib. 34
- 6 But in them nature's copy's not eterne. Ib. 38
- 7 A deed of dreadful note. Ib. 44
- 8 Be innocent of the knowledge, dearest chuck,
Till thou applaud the deed. Come, seeling night,
Scarf up the tender eye of pitiful day,
And with thy bloody and invisible hand,
Cancel and tear to pieces that great bond
Which keeps me pale! Light thickens, and the crow
Makes wing to the rooky wood;
Good things of day begin to droop and drowse,
Whiles night's black agents to their preys do rouse. Ib. 45
- 9 Things bad begun make strong themselves by ill. Ib. 55
- 10 Now spurs the lated traveller apace
To gain the timely inn. Ib. iii. 6
- 11 Ourselves will mingle with society
And play the humble host. Ib. iv. 3
- 12 But now I am cabin'd, cribb'd, confin'd, bound in
To saucy doubts and fears. Ib. 24
- 13 Now good digestion wait on appetite,
And health on both! Ib. 38
- 14 Which of you have done this? Ib. 49
- 15 Thou canst not say I did it: never shake
Thy gory locks at me. Ib. 50
- 16 The air-drawn dagger. Ib. 62
- 17 The times have been,
That, when the brains were out, the man would die,
And there an end; but now they rise again,
With twenty mortal murders on their crowns,
And push us from our stools: this is more strange
Than such a murder is. Macbeth, III. iv. 78
- 18 I drink to the general joy of the whole table. Ib. 89
- 19 Thy bones are marrowless, thy blood is cold;
Thou hast no speculation in those eyes
Which thou dost glare with. Ib. 94
- 20 What man dare, I dare;
Approach thou like the rugged Russian bear,
The arm'd rhinoceros or the Hyrcan tiger,
Take any shape but that, and my firm nerves
Shall never tremble. Ib. 99
- 21 Hence, horrible shadow!
Unreal mockery, hence! Ib. 106
- 22 LADY MACBETH:
You have displaced the mirth, broke the good meeting,
With most admir'd disorder.
MACBETH:
Can such things be,
And overcome us like a summer's cloud,
Without our special wonder? Ib. 109
- 23 Stand not upon the order of your going,
But go at once. Ib. 119
- 24 MACBETH:
It will have blood, they say; blood will have blood:
Stones have been known to move and trees to speak;
Augurs and understood relations have
By maggot-pies and choughs and rooks brought forth
The secret'st man of blood. What is the night?
LADY MACBETH:
Almost at odds with morning, which is which. Ib. 122
- 25 I am in blood
Stepp'd in so far that, should I wade no more,
Returning were as tedious as go o'er. Ib. 136
- 26 You lack the season of all natures, sleep. Ib. 141
- 27 Upon the corner of the moon
There hangs a vaporous drop profound;
I'll catch it ere it come to ground. Ib. v. 23
- 28 And you all know, security
Is mortals' chiefest enemy. Ib. 32
- 29 Round about the cauldron go;
In the poison'd entrails throw. Ib. iv. i. 4
- 30 Double, double toil and trouble;
Fire burn, and cauldron bubble. Ib. 10
- 31 Eye of newt and toe of frog,
Wool of bat and tongue of dog. Ib. 14
- 32 Sliver'd in the moon's eclipse. Ib. 27
- 33 Finger of birth-strangled babe,
Ditch-deliver'd by a drab,
Make the gruel thick and slab. Ib. 30

Red spirits and grey,
Mingle, mingle, mingle,
You that mingle may.*

- 2 How now, you secret, black, and midnight hags!
Ib. 48
- 3 A deed without a name. Ib. 49
- 4 Though you untie the winds and let them fight Against the churches, though the yesty waves
Confound and swallow navigation up. Ib. 52
- 5 Be bloody, bold, and resolute; laugh to scorn
The power of man, for none of woman born
Shall harm Macbeth. Ib. 79
- 6 But yet I'll make assurance double sure,
And take a bond of fate. Ib. 83
- 7 That I may tell pale-hearted fear it lies,
And sleep in spite of thunder. Ib. 85
- 8 Wears upon his baby brow the round
And top of sovereignty. Ib. 88
- 9 Take no care
Who chafes, who frets, or where conspirers are:
Macbeth shall never vanquish'd be until
Great Birnam wood to high Dunsinane hill
Shall come against him. Ib. 90
- 10 Show his eyes, and grieve his heart;
Come like shadows, so depart! Ib. 110
- 11 What! will the line stretch out to the crack of doom?
Ib. 117
- 12 For the blood-bolter'd Banquo smiles upon me. Ib. 123
- 13 The weird sisters. Ib. 136
- 14 The flighty purpose never is o'ertook,
Unless the deed go with it. Ib. 145
- 15 The very firstlings of my heart shall be
The firstlings of my hand. Ib. 147
- 16 His flight was madness: when our actions do not,
Our fears do make us traitors. Ib. ii. 3
- 17 He wants the natural touch; for the poor wren,
The most diminutive of birds, will fight—
Her young ones in her nest—against the owl. Ib. 9
- 18 Angels are bright still, though the brightest fell. Ib. iii. 22
- 19 MACDUFF:
Stands Scotland where it did?
ROSS:
Alas! poor country;
Almost afraid to know itself. It cannot
Be call'd our mother, but our grave. Ib. 164
- 20 What! man; ne'er pull your hat upon your brows;
Give sorrow words. the grief that does not speak
Whispers the o'er-fraught heart, and bids it break. Ib. 208
- 21 All my pretty ones?
Did you say all? O hell-kite! All?
What! all my pretty chickens and their dam,
At one fell swoop? Ib. 216
- 22 MALCOLM:
Dispute it like a man.
MACDUFF:
I shall do so;
But I must also feel it as a man;
- I cannot but remember such things were,
That were most precious to me. Macbeth, iv. iii. 219
- 23 DOCTOR.
You see her eyes are open.
GENTLEWOMAN:
Ay, but their sense is shut. Ib. v 1. [27]
- 24 Out, damned spot! out, I say! One; two. why then,
'tis time to do't. Hell is murky! Fie, my lord, fie!
a soldier, and afraid? What need we fear who knows it, when none can call our power to account?
Yet who would have thought the old man to have had so much blood in him? Ib. [38]
- 25 The Thane of Fife had a wife: where is she now?
What! will these hands ne'er be clean? Ib. [46]
- 26 She has spoke what she should not, I am sure of that. Heaven knows what she has known. Ib. [52]
- 27 All the perfumes of Arabia will not sweeten this little hand. Ib. [56]
- 28 I would not have such a heart in my bosom for the dignity of the whole body. Ib. [60]
- 29 Foul whisperings are abroad. Ib. [78]
- 30 More needs she the divine than the physician. Ib. [81]
- 31 Those he commands move only in command,
Nothing in love; now does he feel his title
Hang loose about him, like a giant's robe
Upon a dwarfish thief. Ib. ii. 19
- 32 All that is within him does condemn
Itself for being there. Ib. 24
- 33 Bring me no more reports; let them fly all:
Till Birnam wood remove to Dunsinane
I cannot taint with fear. Ib. iii. 1
- 34 The spirits that know
All mortal consequences have pronounc'd me thus. Ib. 4
- 35 The devil damn thee black, thou cream-faced loon!
Where gott'st thou that goose look? Ib. 11
- 36 This push
Will cheer me ever or disseat me now.
I have lived long enough: my way of life
Is fall'n into the sear, the yellow leaf;
And that which should accompany old age,
As honour, love, obedience, troops of friends,
I must not look to have; but, in their stead,
Curses, not loud but deep, mouth-honour, breath,
Which the poor heart would fain deny, and dare not. Ib. 20
- 37 DOCTOR:
Not so sick, my lord,
As she is troubled with thick-coming fancies,
That keep her from her rest.
MACBETH:
Cure her of that:
Canst thou not minister to a mind diseas'd,
Pluck from the memory a rooted sorrow,
Raze out the written troubles of the brain,
And with some sweet oblivious antidote
Cleanse the stuff'd bosom of that perilous stuff
Which weighs upon the heart?
DOCTOR.
Therein the patient
Must minister to himself.
MACBETH:
Throw physic to the dogs; I'll none of it. Ib. 37

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 If thou couldst, doctor, cast
The water of my land, find her disease,
And purge it to a sound and pristine health,
I would applaud thee to the very echo,
That should applaud again Macbeth, v. iii 50
- 2 Hang out our banners on the outward walls,
The cry is still, 'They come,' our castle's strength
Will laugh a siege to scorn. Ib. v. i
- 3 I have almost forgot the taste of fears.
The time has been my senses would have cool'd
To hear a night-shriek, and my fell of hair
Would at a dismal treatise rouse and stir
As life were in't. I have supp'd full with horrors;
Direness, familiar to my slaughterous thoughts,
Cannot once start me. Ib. 9
- 4 SEYTON:
The queen, my lord, is dead.
MACBETH:
She should have died hereafter;
There would have been a time for such a word.
To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
To the last syllable of recorded time,
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle!
Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player,
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage,
And then is heard no more; it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing. Ib. 16
- 5 I pull in resolution, and begin
To doubt the equivocation of the fiend
That lies like truth: 'Fear not, till Birnam wood
Do come to Dunsinane.' Ib. 42
- 6 I 'gin to be aweary of the sun,
And wish the estate o' the world were now undone. Ib. 49
- 7 Blow, wind! come, wrack!
At least we'll die with harness on our back. Ib. 51
- 8 They have tied me to a stake; I cannot fly.
But bear-like I must fight the course. Ib. vii. i
- 9 Why should I play the Roman fool, and die
On mine own sword? Ib. 30
- 10 I bear a charmed life. Ib. 41
- 11 And let the angel whom thou still hast served
Tell thee, Macduff was from his mother's womb
Unmely iapp'd. Ib. 43
- 12 And be these juggling fiends no more believ'd,
That palter with us in a double sense,
That keep the word of promise to our ear,
And break it to our hope. Ib. 48
- 13 Live to be the show and gaze o' the time. Ib. 53
- 14 Lay on, Macduff;
And damn'd be him that first cries, 'Hold, enough!' Ib. 62
- 15 SIWARD:
Had he his hurts before?
ROSS
Ay, on the front.
SIWARD:
Why, then, God's soldier be he!
Had I as many sons as I have hairs,
I would not wish them to a fairer death. Ib. 75
- 16 For if our virtues
Did not go forth of us, 'twere all alike
As if we had them not Spirits are not finely touch'd
But to fine issues. Measure for Measure, i. i. 33
- 17 The sanctimonious pirate, that went to sea with the Ten Commandments, but scaped one out of the table Ib. ii. [7]
- 18 And liberty plucks justice by the nose. Ib. iii 29
- 19 I hold you as a thing ensky'd and sainted Ib. iv. 34
- 20 A man whose blood
Is very snow-broth; one who never feels
The wanton stings and motions of the sense. Ib. 57
- 21 Our doubts are traitors,
And make us lose the good we oft might win,
By fearing to attempt. Ib. 77
- 22 We must not make a scarecrow of the law,
Setting it up to fear the birds of prey,
And let it keep one shape, till custom make it
Their perch and not their terror. Ib. ii. i. i
- 23 'Tis one thing to be tempted, Escalus,
Another thing to fall. I not deny,
The jury, passing on the prisoner's life,
May in the sworn twelve have a thief or two Guiltier than him they try. Ib. 17
- 24 Some rise by sin, and some by virtue fall. Ib. 38
- 25 This will last out a night in Russia,
When nights are longest there. Ib. [144]
- 26 I am
At war 'twixt will and will not. Ib. ii. 32
- 27 Condemn the fault and not the actor of it? Ib. 37
- 28 No ceremony that to great ones 'longs,
Not the king's crown, nor the deputed sword,
The marshal's truncheon, nor the judge's robe,
Become them with one half so good a grace
As mercy does. Ib. 59
- 29 Why, all the souls that were were forfeit once;
And He that might the vantage best have took,
Found out the remedy. How would you be,
If He, which is the top of judgment, should
But judge you as you are? Ib. 73
- 30 O! it is excellent
To have a giant's strength, but it is tyrannous
To use it like a giant. Ib. 107
- 31 Merciful Heaven!
Thou rather with thy sharp and sulphurous bolt
Split'st the unwedgeable and gnarled oak
Than the soft myrtle; but man, proud man,
Drest in a little brief authority,
Most ignorant of what he's most assur'd,
His glassy essence, like an angry ape,
Plays such fantastic tricks, before high heaven,
As make the angels weep. Ib. 114
- 32 Great men may jest with saints; 'tis wit in them,
But, in the less foul profanation. Ib. 127
- 33 That in the captain's but a choleric word,
Which in the soldier is flat blasphemy. Ib. 130
- 34 I am that way going to temptation,
Where prayers cross. Ib. 158
- 35 Having waste ground enough,
Shall we desire to raze the sanctuary
And pitch our evils there? Ib. 170

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 O cunning enemy, that, to catch a saint,
With saints dost bait thy hook! Most dangerous
Is that temptation that doth goad us on
To sin in loving virtue Measure for Measure, II. ii. 180
- 2 When I would pray and think, I think and pray
To several subjects. Heaven hath my empty words
Ib. iv. 1
- 3 CLAUDIO:
The miserable have no other medicine
But only hope:
I have hope to live, and am prepar'd to die.
DUKE:
Be absolute for death; either death or life
Shall thereby be the sweeter Reason thus with life:
If I do lose thee, I do lose a thing
That none but fools would keep, a breath thou art
Servile to all the skyey influences. Ib. iii. 1. 2
- 4 If thou art rich, thou'rt poor,
For, like an ass whose back with ingots bows,
Thou bear'st thy heavy riches but a journey,
And death unloads thee. Ib. 25
- 5 Thou hast nor youth nor age;
But, as it were, an after-dinner's sleep,
Dreaming on both. Ib. 32
- 6 Palsied eld. Ib. 35
- 7 Dar'st thou die?
The sense of death is most in apprehension,
And the poor beetle, that we tread upon,
In corporal sufferance finds a pang as great
As when a giant dies. Ib. 75
- 8 If I must die,
I will encounter darkness as a bride,
And hug it in mine arms. Ib. 81
- 9 CLAUDIO:
Death is a fearful thing.
ISABELLA:
And shamed life a hateful.
CLAUDIO:
Ay, but to die, and go we know not where;
To lie in cold obstruction and to rot;
This sensible warm motion to become
A kneaded clod; and the delighted spirit
To bathe in fiery floods, or to reside
In thrilling region of thick-ribb'd ice,
To be imprisoned in the viewless winds,
And blown with restless violence round about
The pendant world! Ib. 114
- 10 The weariest and most loathed worldly life
That age, ache, penury, and imprisonment
Can lay on nature, is a paradise
To what we fear of death. Ib. 127
- 11 O, fie, fie, fie!
Thy sin's not accidental, but a trade. Ib. 146
- 12 The hand that hath made you fair hath made you good. Ib. [182]
- 13 Virtue is bold, and goodness never fearful. Ib. [214]
- 14 There, at the moated grange, resides this dejected
Mariana. Ib. [279]
- 15 A very superficial, ignorant, unweighing fellow.
Ib. ii. [151]
- 16 Take, O take those lips away,
That so sweetly were forsworn;
And those eyes, the break of day,
Lights that do mislead the morn:
But my kisses bring again, bring again;
Seals of love, but seal'd in vain, seal'd in vain.
Measure for Measure, iv. i. 1
- 17 'Though music oft hath such a charm
To make bad good, and good provoke to harm. Ib. 16
- 18 He will discredit our mystery. Ib. ii. [29]
- 19 Every true man's apparel fits your thief. Ib. [46]
- 20 Look, here's the warrant, Claudio, for thy death:
'Tis now dead midnight, and by eight to-morrow
Thou must be made immortal. Ib. [66]
- 21 A man that apprehends death no more dreadfully
but as a drunken sleep Ib. [148]
- 22 Look, the unfolding star calls up the shepherd.
Ib. [219]
- 23 I am a kind of burr; I shall stick. Ib. iii. [193]
- 24 A fortified residence 'gainst the tooth of time,
And razure of oblivion. Ib. v. 1. 12
- 25 Let the devil
Be sometime honour'd for his burning throne
Ib. [289]
- 26 Haste still pays haste, and leisure answers leisure;
Like doth quit like, and Measure still for Measure.
Ib. [411]
- 27 They say best men are moulded out of faults,
And, for the most, become much more the better
For being a little bad. Ib. [440]
- 28 In sooth I know not why I am so sad:
It wearies me, you say it wearies you;
But how I caught it, found it, or came by it,
What stuff 'tis made of, whereof it is born,
I am to learn. The Merchant of Venice, i. i. 1
- 29 There, where your argosies with portly sail,—
Like signors and rich burghers on the flood,
Or, as it were, the pageants of the sea,—
Do overpeer the petty traffickers. Ib. 9
- 30 Nature hath fram'd strange fellows in her time
Some that will evermore peep through their eyes
And laugh like parrots at a bagpiper:
And other of such vinegar aspect
That they'll not show their teeth in way of smile,
Though Nestor swear the jest be laughable. Ib. 51
- 31 I hold the world but as the world, Gratiano;
A stage where every man must play a part,
And mine a sad one. Ib. 77
- 32 Why should a man, whose blood is warm within,
Sit like his grandsire cut in alabaster? Ib. 83
- 33 There are a sort of men whose visages
Do cream and mantle like a standing pond. Ib. 88
- 34 As who should say, 'I am Sir Oracle,
And when I ope my lips let no dog bark!'
O, my Antonio, I do know of these,
That therefore only are reputed wise,
For saying nothing. Ib. 93
- 35 Fish not, with this melancholy bait,
For this fool gudgeon, this opinion. Ib. 101
- 36 Silence is only commendable
In a neat's tongue dried and a maid not vendible
Ib. 111

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Gratiano speaks an infinite deal of nothing, more than any man in all Venice. His reasons are as two grains of wheat, hid in two bushels of chaff; you shall seek all day ere you find them; and, when you have them, they are not worth the search.
The Merchant of Venice, I. i. 114
- 2 My purse, my person, my extremest means
Lie all unlock'd to your occasions. Ib. [139]
- 3 Sometimes from her eyes
I did receive fair speechless messages Ib. [164]
- 4 By my troth, Nerissa, my little body is aware of this great world. Ib. II. i
- 5 They are as sick that surfeit with too much, as they that starve with nothing Ib. [5]
- 6 Superfluity comes sooner by white hairs, but competency lives longer. Ib. [9]
- 7 If to do were as easy as to know what were good to do, chapels had been churches, and poor men's cottages princes' palaces Ib. [13]
- 8 It is a good divine that follows his own instructions, I can easier teach twenty what were good to be done, than be one of the twenty to follow mine own teaching Ib. [15]
- 9 He doth nothing but talk of his horse Ib. [43]
- 10 God made him, and therefore let him pass for a man Ib. [59]
- 11 If I should marry him, I should marry twenty husbands Ib. [66]
- 12 I think he bought his doublet in Italy, his round hose in France, his bonnet in Germany, and his behaviour everywhere Ib. [78]
- 13 I will do anything, Nerissa, ere I will be married to a sponge. Ib. [105]
- 14 I dote on his very absence Ib. [118]
- 15 Ships are but boards, sailors but men, there be land-rats and water-rats, land-thieves and water-thieves Ib. III [22]
- 16 I will buy with you, sell with you, talk with you, walk with you, and so following, but I will not eat with you, drink with you, nor pray with you
What news on the Rialto? Ib. [36]
- 17 How like a fawning publican he looks!
I hate him for he is a Christian,
But more for that in low simplicity
He lends out money gratis, and brings down
The rate of usance here with us in Venice
If I can catch him once upon the hip,
I will feed fat the ancient grudge I bear him.
He hates our sacred nation, and he rails,
Even there where merchants most do congregate,
On me, my bargains, and my well-won thrift.
Ib. [12]
- 18 The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose Ib. [99]
- 19 A goodly apple rotten at the heart.
O, what a goodly outside falsehood hath! Ib. [102]
- 20 Signior Antonio, many a time and oft
In the Rialto you have rated me Ib. [107]
- 21 For sufferance is the badge of all our tribe. Ib. [111]
- 22 'Hath a dog money? Is it possible
A cur can lend three thousand ducats?' or Shall I bend low, and in a bondman's key,
With bated breath, and whispering humbleness,
Say this.—
'Fair sir, you spit on me on Wednesday last;
You spurn'd me such a day; another time
You call'd me dog, and for these courtesies
I'll lend you thus much moneys?'
The Merchant of Venice, I. iii [122]
- 23 For when did friendship take
A breed for barren metal of his friend? Ib. [134]
- 24 O father Abram! what these Christians are,
Whose own hard dealing teaches them suspect
The thoughts of others! Ib. [161]
- 25 I like not fair terms and a villain's mind. Ib. [180]
- 26 Mislike me not for my complexion,
The shadow'd livery of the burnished sun Ib. II. i. 1
- 27 An honest man's son,—or rather an honest woman's son,—for, indeed, my father did something smack, something grow to, he had a kind of taste,—well, my conscience says, 'Launcelot, budge not.' 'Budge,' says the fiend, 'Budge not,' says my conscience. 'Conscience,' say I, 'you counsel well,' 'fiend,' say I, 'you counsel well.' Ib. II [16]
- 28 O heavens! this is my true-begotten father. Ib. [36]
- 29 An honest exceeding poor man. Ib. [54]
- 30 The very staff of my age, my very prop Ib. [71]
- 31 It is a wise father that knows his own child. Ib. [83]
- 32 Truth will come to light, murder cannot be hid long. Ib. [86]
- 33 Lord worshipp'd might he be! What a beard hast thou got! Ib. [101]
- 34 There is some ill a-brewing towards my rest,
For I did dream of money-bags to-night. Ib. V. 17
- 35 'Then it was not for nothing that my nose fell a-bleeding on Black Monday. Ib. [24]
- 36 And the vice squealing of the wry-neck'd fife. Ib. [30]
- 37 But love is blind, and lovers cannot see
The pretty follies that themselves commit. Ib. VI. 36
- 38 What! must I hold a candle to my shames? Ib. 41
- 39 Men that hazard all
Do it in hope of fair advantages.
A golden mind stoops not to shows of dross. Ib. VII. 18
- 40 Pause there, Morocco. Ib. 24
- 41 Young in limbs, in judgment old. Ib. 71
- 42 My daughter! O my ducats! O my daughter!
Fled with a Christian! O my Christian ducats! Ib. VIII 15
- 43 The fool multitude, that choose by show. Ib. IX 26
- 44 Like the martlet,
Builds in the weather on the outward wall,
Even in the force and road of casualty.
I will not choose what many men desire,
Because I will not jump with common spirits
And rank me with the barbarous multitude Ib. 28

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Let none presume
To wear an undeserved dignity.
O' that estates, degrees, and offices
Were not deriv'd corruptly, and that clear honour
Were purchased by the merit of the wearer!
The Merchant of Venice, II. ix. 39
- 2 The portrait of a blinking idiot. Ib. 54
- 3 The fire seven times tried this.
Seven times tried that judgment is
That did never choose amiss.
Some there be that shadows kiss;
Such have but a shadow's bliss. Ib. 63
- 4 Thus hath the candle sing'd the moth.
O, these deliberate fools! Ib. 79
- 5 The ancient saying is no heresy:
'Hanging and wiving goes by destiny.' Ib. 82
- 6 The Goodwins, I think they call the place; a very dangerous flat, and fatal, where the carcasses of many a tall ship lie buried, as they say, if my gossip Report be an honest woman of her word.
Ib. III. I. [4]
- 7 Let him look to his bond. Ib. [51, 52, 54]
- 8 Hath not a Jew eyes? hath not a Jew hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions? fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same winter and summer, as a Christian is? If you prick us, do we not bleed? if you tickle us, do we not laugh?
if you poison us, do we not die? and if you wrong us, shall we not revenge? Ib. [63]
- 9 The villany you teach me I will execute, and it shall go hard but I will better the instruction.
Ib. [76]
- 10 Thou stick'st a dagger in me. Ib. [118]
- 11 TUBAL:
One of them showed me a ring that he had of your daughter for a monkey.
SHYLOCK:
I would not have given it for a wilderness of monkeys.
Ib. [126]
- 12 He makes a swan-like end
Fading in music. Ib. II. 44
- 13 Tell me where is fancy bred,
Or in the heart or in the head?
How begot, how nourished?
Reply, reply.
It is engender'd in the eyes,
With gazing fed; and fancy dies
In the cradle where it lies.
Let us all ring fancy's knell:
I'll begin it,—Ding, dong, bell. Ib. 63
- 14 So may the outward shows be least themselves:
The world is still deceived with ornament.
In law, what plea so tainted and corrupt
But, being season'd with a gracious voice,
Obscures the show of evil? In religion,
What damned error, but some sober brow
Will bless it and approve it with a text,
Hiding the grossness with fair ornament? Ib. 73
- 15 Ornament is but the guiled shore
To a most dangerous sea; the beauteous scarf
Veiling an Indian beauty; in a word,
The seeming truth which cunning times put on
To entrap the wisest
The Merchant of Venice, III. II. 97
- 16 Thou pale and common drudge
'Tween man and man. Ib. 103
- 17 Rash-embrac'd despair,
And shuddering fear, and green-ey'd jealousy. Ib. 109
- 18 What demi-god
Hath come so near creation? Ib. 115
- 19 An unlesson'd girl, unschool'd, unpractis'd;
Happy in this, she is not yet so old
But she may learn, happier than this,
She is not bred so dull but she can learn. Ib. 160
- 20 I wish you all the joy that you can wish. Ib. 191
- 21 My eyes, my lord, can look as swift as yours.
You saw the mistress, I beheld the maid Ib. 198
- 22 Here are a few of the unpleasant'st words
That ever blotted paper! Ib. 252
- 23 I will have my bond. Ib. III. 17
- 24 This comes too near the praising of myself. Ib. IV. 22
- 25 How every fool can play upon the word! Ib. V. [48]
- 26 Wilt thou show the whole wealth of thy wit in an instant? I pray thee, understand a plain man in his plain meaning. Ib. [62]
- 27 I'll not answer that:
But say it is my humour. Ib. IV. I. 42
- 28 A harmless necessary cat. Ib. 55
- 29 I am not bound to please thee with my answer. Ib. 65
- 30 What judgment shall I dread, doing no wrong?
Ib. 89
- 31 I am a tainted wether of the flock,
Meetest for death: the weakest kind of fruit
Drops earliest to the ground. Ib. 114
- 32 I never knew so young a body with so old a head. Ib. [163]
- 33 PORTIA:
Then must the Jew be merciful.
SHYLOCK:
On what compulsion must I? tell me that.
PORTIA:
The quality of mercy is not strain'd,
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
Upon the place beneath: it is twice bless'd;
It blesseth him that gives and him that takes:
'Tis mightiest in the mightiest: it becomes
The throned monarch better than his crown;
His sceptre shows the force of temporal power,
The attribute to awe and majesty,
Wherein doth sit the dread and fear of kings;
But mercy is above this sceptred sway,
It is enthroned in the hearts of kings,
It is an attribute to God himself,
And earthly power doth then show likest God's
When mercy seasons justice. Therefore, Jew,
Though justice be thy plea, consider this,
That in the course of justice none of us
Should see salvation: we do pray for mercy,
And that same prayer doth teach us all to render
The deeds of mercy. Ib. [182]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 My deeds upon my head! I crave the law.
The Merchant of Venice, iv. i. [206]
- 2 Wrest once the law to your authority.
To do a great right, do a little wrong Ib. [215]
- 3 'Twill be recorded for a precedent,
And many an error by the same example
Will rush into the state. Ib. [220]
- 4 A Daniel come to judgment! yea, a Daniel!
O wise young judge, how I do honour thee! Ib. [223]
- 5 An oath, an oath, I have an oath in heaven.
Shall I lay perjury upon my soul?
No, not for Venice. Ib. [228]
- 6 I charge you by the law,
Whereof you are a well-deserving pillar,
Proceed to judgment. Ib. [238]
- 7 Is it so nominated in the bond? Ib. [260]
- 8 'Tis not in the bond. Ib. [263]
- 9 For herein Fortune shows herself more kind
Than is her custom it is still her use
To let the wretched man outlive his wealth,
To view with hollow eye and wrinkled brow
An age of poverty. Ib. [268]
- 10 The court awards it, and the law doth give it. Ib. [301]
- 11 Thyself shalt see the act;
For, as thou urgest justice, be assur'd
Thou shalt have justice, more than thou desir'st Ib. [315]
- 12 A second Daniel, a Daniel, Jew!
Now, infidel, I have thee on the hip. Ib. [334]
- 13 I thank thee, Jew, for teaching me that word Ib. [342]
- 14 You take my house when you do take the prop
That doth sustain my house; you take my life
When you do take the means whereby I live Ib. [376]
- 15 He is well paid that is well satisfied. Ib. [416]
- 16 You taught me first to beg, and now methinks
You teach me how a beggar should be answer'd. Ib. [440]
- 17 LORENZO:
In such a night
Troilus methinks mounted the Trojan walls,
And sigh'd his soul toward the Grecian tents,
Where Cressid lay that night.
JESSICA:
In such a night
Did Thisbe fearfully o'ertrip the dew,
And saw the lion's shadow ere himself,
And ran dismay'd away.
LORENZO:
In such a night
Stood Dido with a willow in her hand
Upon the wild sea-banks, and waft her love
To come again to Carthage.
JESSICA:
In such a night
Medea gather'd the enchanted herbs
That did renew old Æson. Ib. v. i. 3
- 18 How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank!
Here will we sit, and let the sounds of music
Creep in our ears: soft stillness and the night
Become the touches of sweet harmony.
Sit, Jessica: look, how the floor of heaven
Is thick inlaid with patines of bright gold.
There's not the smallest orb which thou behold'st
But in his motion like an angel sings,
Still quiring to the young-eyed cherubins,
Such harmony is in immortal souls;
But whilst this muddy vesture of decay
Doth grossly close it in, we cannot hear it.
The Merchant of Venice, v. i. 54
- 19 I am never merry when I hear sweet music. Ib. 69
- 20 Therefore the poet
Did feign that Orpheus drew trees, stones, and floods;
Since nought so stockish, hard, and full of rage,
But music for the time doth change his nature.
The man that hath no music in himself,
Nor is not mov'd with concord of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils,
The motions of his spirit are dull as night,
And his affections dark as Erebus:
Let no such man be trusted. Ib. 79
- 21 PORTIA:
How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world.
NERISSA:
When the moon shone, we did not see the candle.
PORTIA:
So doth the greater glory dim the less:
A substitute shines brightly as a king
Until a king be by, and then his state
Empties itself, as doth an inland brook
Into the main of waters. Ib. 90
- 22 The crow doth sing as sweetly as the lark
When neither is attended, and I think
The nightingale, if she should sing by day,
When every goose is cackling, would be thought
No better a musician than the wren.
How many things by season season'd are
To their right praise and true perfection!
Peace, ho! the moon sleeps with Endymion,
And would not be awak'd! Ib. 102
- 23 This night methinks is but the daylight sick. Ib. 124
- 24 For a light wife doth make a heavy husband. Ib. 130
- 25 These blessed candles of the night. Ib. 220
- 26 I will make a Star-Chamber matter of it.
The Merry Wives of Windsor, I. i. 1
- 27 She has brown hair, and speaks small like a woman. Ib. [48]
- 28 Pribbles and prabbles. Ib. [56]
- 29 Drink down all unkindness. Ib. [203]
- 30 I had rather than forty shillings I had my Book of Songs and Sonnets here. Ib. [205]
- 31 I will make an end of my dinner; there's pippins and seese to come. Ib. ii. [12]
- 32 'Convey,' the wise it call. 'Steal!' foh! a fico for the phrase! Ib. iii. [30]
- 33 Here will be an old abusing of God's patience, and the king's English. Ib. iv. [5]
- 34 We burn daylight. Ib. ii. i. [54]
- 35 There's the humour of it. Ib. [139]
- 36 Faith, thou hast some crotchets in thy head now. Ib. [158]
- 37 Why, then the world's mine oyster,
Which I with sword will open. Ib. ii. 2

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Marry, this is the short and the long of it.
The Merry Wives of Windsor, II. II. [62]
- 2 Like a fair house built upon another man's ground
Ib. [229]
- 3 Ah, sweet Anne Page!
Ib. III. I. [40]
- 4 I cannot tell what the dickens his name is.
Ib. II. [20]
- 5 He capers, he dances, he has eyes of youth, he writes verses, he speaks holiday, he smells April and May.
Ib. [71]
- 6 O, what a world of vile ill-favour'd faults
Looks handsome in three hundred pounds a year!
Ib. IV. [32]
- 7 If it be my luck, so; if not, happy man be his dole!
Ib. [67]
- 8 If I be served such another trick, I'll have my brains ta'en out, and buttered, and give them to a dog for a new year's gift.
Ib. V. [7]
- 9 I have a kind of alacrity in sinking.
Ib. [13]
- 10 As good luck would have it.
Ib. [86]
- 11 A man of my kidney.
Ib. [119]
- 12 Vengeance of Jenny's case!
Ib. IV. I. [65]
- 13 So curses all Eve's daughters, of what complexion
soever.
Ib. II. [24]
- 14 This is the third time; I hope good luck lies in odd numbers. . . . There is divinity in odd numbers, either in nativity, chance or death.
Ib. V. I. 2
- 15 Fairies, black, grey, green, and white,
You moonshine revellers, and shades of night.
Ib. V. [43]
- 16 To live a barren sister all your life,
Chanting faint hymns to the cold fruitless moon.
A Midsummer Night's Dream, I. I. 72
- 17 But earthlier happy is the rose distill'd,
Than that which withering on the virgin thorn
Grows, lives, and dies, in single blessedness.
Ib. 76
- 18 Ay me! for aught that ever I could read,
Could ever hear by tale or history,
The course of true love never did run smooth.
Ib. 132
- 19 O hell! to choose love by another's eye.
Ib. 140
- 20 If there were a sympathy in choice,
War, death, or sickness did lay siege to it,
Making it momentary as a sound,
Swift as a shadow, short as any dream,
Brief as the lightning in the collied night,
That, in a spleen, unfolds both heaven and earth,
And ere a man hath power to say, 'Behold!'
The jaws of darkness do devour it up:
So quick bright things come to confusion.
Ib. 141
- 21 Your tongue's sweet air
More tuneable than lark to shepherd's ear,
When wheat is green, when hawthorn buds appear.
Ib. 183
- 22 Love looks not with the eyes, but with the mind,
And therefore is wing'd Cupid painted blind.
Ib. 234
- 23 The most lamentable comedy, and most cruel death of Pyramus and Thisby.
Ib. II. [11]
- 24 Masters, spread yourselves.
Ib. [16]
- 25 A part to tear a cat in, to make all split.
A Midsummer Night's Dream, I. II. [32]
- 26 This is Ercole's vein.
Ib. [43]
- 27 I'll speak in a monstrous little voice.
Ib. [55]
- 28 I am slow of study.
Ib. [70]
- 29 I will roar, that I will do any man's heart good to hear me.
Ib. [73]
- 30 I will aggravate my voice so that I will roar you as gently as any sucking dove, I will roar you as
'twere any nightingale.
Ib. [84]
- 31 A proper man, as one shall see in a summer's day.
Ib. [89]
- 32 Hold, or cut bow-strings.
Ib. [115]
- 33 Over hill, over dale,
Thorough bush, thorough brier,
Over park, over pale,
Thorough flood, thorough fire.
Ib. II. I. 2
- 34 The cowslips tall her pensioners be;
In their gold coats spots you see,
Those be rubies, fairy favours,
In those freckles live their savours.
Ib. 10
- 35 I must go seek some dew-drops here,
And hang a pearl in every cowslip's ear.
Ib. 14
- 36 The middle summer's spring.
Ib. 82
- 37 Therefore the moon, the governess of floods,
Pale in her anger, washes all the air,
That rheumatic diseases do abound.
And thorough this distemperature we see
The seasons alter: hoary-headed frosts
Fall in the fresh lap of the crimson rose.
Ib. 103
- 38 Since once I sat upon a promontory,
And heard a mermaid on a dolphin's back
Uttering such dulcet and harmonious breath,
That the rude sea grew civil at her song,
And certain stars shot madly from their spheres,
To hear the sea-maid's music.
Ib. 149
- 39 But I might see young Cupid's fiery shaft
Quench'd in the chaste beams of the wat'ry moon,
And the imperial votaress passed on,
In maiden meditation, fancy-free.
Yet mark'd I where the bolt of Cupid fell:
It fell upon a little western flower,
Before milk-white, now purple with love's wound,
And maidens call it, Love-in-idleness.
Ib. 161
- 40 I'll put a girdle round about the earth
In forty minutes.
Ib. 175
- 41 I know a bank whereon the wild thyme blows,
Where oxlips and the nodding violet grows
Quite over-canopied with luscious woodbine,
With sweet musk-roses, and with eglantine:
There sleeps Titania some time of the night,
Lull'd in these flowers with dances and delight;
And there the snake throws her enamell'd skin,
Weed wide enough to wrap a fairy in.
Ib. 249
- 42 Some to kill cankers in the musk-rose buds,
Some war with rere-mice for their leathern wings,
To make my small elves coats.
Ib. II. 3
- 43 The clamorous owl, that nightly hoots, and wonders
At our quaint spirits.
Ib. 6
- 44 You spotted snakes with double tongue,
Thorny hedge-hogs, be not seen;
Newts, and blind-worms, do no wrong;
Come not near our fairy queen.
Ib. 9

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Weaving spiders come not here;
Hence, you long-legg'd spinners, hence!
Beetles black, approach not near,
Worm nor snail, do no offence
A Midsummer Night's Dream, II. II. 20
- 2 This green plot shall be our stage, this hawthornbrake our tiring-house. Ib. III. I. [3]
- 3 God shield us!—a lion among ladies, is a most dreadful thing; for there is not a more fearful wild-fowl than your lion living. Ib. [32]
- 4 What hempen home-spuns have we swaggering here,
So near the cradle of the fairy queen? Ib. [82]
- 5 Bless thee, Bottom! bless thee! thou art translated
Ib. [124]
- 6 The throstle with his note so true,
The wren with little quill. Ib. [133]
- 7 As wild geese that the creeping fowler eye,
Or russet-pated choughs, many in sort,
Rising and cawing at the gun's report,
Sever themselves, and madly sweep the sky.
Ib. II. 20
- 8 Lord, what fools these mortals be! Ib. 115
- 9 So we grew together,
Like to a double cherry, seeming parted,
But yet an union in partition,
Two lovely berries moulded on one stem. Ib. 208
- 10 For night's swift dragons cut the clouds full fast,
And yonder shines Aurora's harbinger;
At whose approach, ghosts, wandering here and there,
Troop home to churchyards. Ib. 379
- 11 Cupid is a knavish lad,
Thus to make poor females mad. Ib. 440
- 12 Jack shall have Jill;
Nought shall go ill;
The man shall have his mare again,
And all shall be well. Ib. 461
- 13 I must to the barber's, mounsieur, for methinks I am marvellous hairy about the face. Ib. IV. I. [25]
- 14 I have a reasonable good ear in music: let us have the tongs and the bones. Ib. [32]
- 15 Methinks I have a great desire to a bottle of hay good hay, sweet hay, hath no fellow. Ib. [37]
- 16 But, I pray you, let none of your people stir me: I have an exposition of sleep come upon me. Ib. [43]
- 17 But as the fierce vexation of a dream. Ib. [75]
- 18 My Oberon! what visions have I seen!
Methought I was enamour'd of an ass. Ib. [82]
- 19 Then, my queen, in silence sad,
Trip we after the night's shade;
We the globe can compass soon,
Swifter than the wandering moon. Ib. [101]
- 20 HIPPOLYTA:
I was with Hercules and Cadmus once,
When in a wood of Crete they bay'd the bear
With hounds of Sparta: never did I hear . . .
So musical a discord, such sweet thunder.
THESEUS:
My hounds are bred out of the Spartan kind,
So flew'd, so sanded; and their heads are hung
With ears that sweep away the morning dew;
Crook-knee'd, and dew-lapp'd like Thessalian bulls;
Slow in pursuit, but match'd in mouth like bells.
Ib. [118]
- 21 Saint Valentine is past:
Begin these wood-birds but to couple now?
A Midsummer Night's Dream, IV. I. [145]
- 22 I have had a dream, past the wit of man to say what dream it was. Ib. [211]
- 23 The eye of man hath not heard, the ear of man hath not seen, man's hand is not able to taste, his tongue to conceive, nor his heart to report, what my dream was Ib. [218]
- 24 The lunatic, the lover, and the poet,
Are of imagination all compact
One sees more devils than vast hell can hold,
That is, the madman; the lover, all as frantic,
Sees Helen's beauty in a brow of Egypt:
The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven;
And, as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.
Such tricks hath strong imagination,
That, if it would but apprehend some joy,
It comprehends some bringer of that joy;
Or in the night, imagining some fear,
How easy is a bush suppos'd a bear! Ib. v. I. 7
- 25 What revels are in hand? Is there no play,
To ease the anguish of a torturing hour? Ib. 36
- 26 Very tragical mirth. Ib. [57]
- 27 For never anything can be amiss,
When simpleness and duty tender it. Ib. [82]
- 28 That is the true beginning of our end.
Consider then we come but in despite.
We do not come as minding to content you,
Our true intent is. All for your delight,
We are not here. Ib. [111]
- 29 Whereat, with blade, with bloody blameful blade,
He bravely broach'd his boiling bloody breast
Ib. [148]
- 30 The best in this kind are but shadows, and the worst are no worse, if imagination amend them. Ib. [215]
- 31 A very gentle beast, and of a good conscience.
Ib. [233]
- 32 Well roared, Lion. Ib. [272]
- 33 This passion, and the death of a dear friend, would go near to make a man look sad. Ib. [295]
- 34 The iron tongue of midnight hath told twelve;
Lovers, to bed; 'tis almost fairy time. Ib. [372]
- 35 Now the hungry lion roars,
And the wolf behowls the moon;
Whilst the heavy ploughman snores,
All with weary task fordone. Ib. II. I
- 36 Not a mouse
Shall disturb this hallow'd house:
I am sent with broom before,
To sweep the dust behind the door. Ib. 17
- 37 A victory is twice itself when the achiever brings home full numbers.
Much Ado About Nothing, I. I. [8]
- 38 He hath indeed better bettered expectation than you must expect of me to tell you how. Ib. [15]
- 39 He is a very valiant trencher-man. Ib. [52]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 I see, lady, the gentleman is not in your books.
Much Ado About Nothing, I. i. [79]
- 2 BEATRICE:
I wonder that you will still be talking, Signior
Benedick: nobody marks you.
BENEDICK:
What! my dear Lady Disdain, are you yet living?
Ib. [121]
- 3 Shall I never see a bachelor of three-score again?
Ib. [209]
- 4 BENEDICK:
I will live a bachelor.
DON PEDRO:
I shall see thee, ere I die, look pale with love.
BENEDICK:
With anger, with sickness, or with hunger, my lord;
not with love. Ib. [256]
- 5 In time the savage bull doth bear the yoke. Ib. [271]
- 6 Benedick the married man. Ib. [278]
- 7 What need the bridge much broader than the flood?
Ib. [326]
- 8 Would it not grieve a woman to be over-mastered with a piece of valiant dust? to make an account of her life to a clod of wayward marl? Ib. II. i [64]
- 9 Wooing, wedding, and repenting, is as a Scotch jig,
a measure, and a cinque-pace. Ib. [77]
- 10 I have a good eye, uncle: I can see a church by daylight. Ib. [86]
- 11 Speak low, if you speak love Ib. [104]
- 12 Friendship is constant in all other things
Save in the office and affairs of love. Ib. [184]
- 13 She speaks poniards, and every word stabs: if her breath were as terrible as her terminations, there were no living near her; she would infect to the north star. Ib. [257]
- 14 Silencè is the perfectest herald of joy. I were but little happy, if I could say how much. Ib. [319]
- 15 Speak, cousin, or, if you cannot, stop his mouth with a kiss. Ib. [322]
- 16 There was a star danced, and under that was I born.
Ib. [351]
- 17 Lie ten nights awake, carving the fashion of a new doublet. Ib. III. [18]
- 18 Note this before my notes;
There's not a note of mine that's worth the noting.
Ib. [57]
- 19 Is it not strange that sheep's guts should hale souls out of men's bodies? Ib. [62]
- 20 Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more,
Men were deceivers ever;
One foot in sea, and one on shore,
To one thing constant never.
Then sigh not so,
But let them go,
And be you blithe and bonny,
Converting all your sounds of woe
Into Hey nonny, nonny.
Sing no more ditties, sing no mo
Of dumps so dull and heavy;
The fraud of men was ever so,
Since summer first was leavy.
Ib. [65]
- 21 Sits the wind in that corner? Much Ado, II. III. [108]
- 22 Doth not the appetite alter? A man loves the meat in his youth that he cannot endure in his age.
Ib. [258]
- 23 Paper bullets of the brain Ib. [261]
- 24 The world must be peopled. When I said I would die a bachelor, I did not think I should live till I were married. Ib. [262]
- 25 Disdain and scorn ride sparkling in her eyes
Ib. III. i. 51
- 26 One doth not know
How much an ill word may empoison liking. Ib. 85
- 27 Contempt, farewell! and maiden pride, adieu!
No glory lives behind the back of such.
And, Benedick, love on; I will requite thee,
Taming my wild heart to thy loving hand. Ib. 109
- 28 He hath a heart as sound as a bell, and his tongue is the clapper; for what his heart thinks his tongue speaks. Ib. II. [12]
- 29 BENEDICK:
I have the toothache.
DON PEDRO:
What! sigh for the toothache? Ib. [21]
- 30 Well, every one can master a grief but he that has it.
Ib. [28]
- 31 A' brushes his hat a mornings; what should that bode? Ib. [41]
- 32 The barber's man hath been seen with him; and the old ornament of his cheek hath already stuffed tennis-balls. Ib. [45]
- 33 Are you good men and true? Ib. III. 1
- 34 To be a well-favoured man is the gift of fortune; but to write and read comes by nature. Ib. [14]
- 35 Well, for your favour, sir, why, give God thanks, and make no boast of it; and for your writing and reading, let that appear when there is no need of such vanity. You are thought here to be the most senseless and fit man for the constable of the watch.
Ib. [19]
- 36 You shall comprehend all vagrom men. Ib. [25]
- 37 SECOND WATCH:
How, if a' will not stand?
DOGBERRY:
Why, then, take no note of him, but let him go; and presently call the rest of the watch together, and thank God you are rid of a knave. Ib. [28]
- 38 For the watch to babble and to talk is most tolerable and not to be endured. Ib. [36]
- 39 If they make you not then the better answer, you may say they are not the men you took them for.
Ib. [49]
- 40 The most peaceable way for you, if you do take a thief, is, to let him show himself what he is and steal out of your company. Ib. [61]
- 41 I know that Deformed. Ib. [132]
- 42 I thank God, I am as honest as any man living, that is an old man and no honestier than I. Ib. v. [15]
- 43 Comparisons are odorous. Ib. [18]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 If I were as tedious as a king, I could find in my heart to bestow it all of your worship
Much Ado About Nothing, III. v. [23]
- 2 A good old man, sir; he will be talking. as they say, 'when the age is in, the wit is out.'
Ib. [36]
- 3 Well, God's a good man.
Ib. [39]
- 4 O! what men dare do! what men may do! what men daily do, not knowing what they do! Ib. IV. i. [19]
For it so falls out
That what we have we prize not to the worth
Whiles we enjoy it, but being lack'd and lost,
Why, then we rack the value, then we find
The virtue that possession would not show us
Whiles it was ours.
Ib. [219]
- 6 The idea of her life shall sweetly creep
Into his study of imagination,
And every lovely organ of her life
Shall come apparell'd in more precious habit,
More moving-delicate, and full of life
Into the eye and prospect of his soul.
Ib. [226]
- 7 Write down that they hope they serve God: and write God first; for God defend but God should go before such villains! Masters, it is proved already that you are little better than false knaves, and it will go near to be thought so shortly.
Ib. II. [21]
- 8 Yea, marry, that's the effest way.
Ib. [39]
- 9 Flat burglary as ever was committed.
Ib. [54]
- 10 O that he were here to write me down an ass! but, masters, remember that I am an ass; though it be not written down, yet forget not that I am an ass.
Ib. [80]
- 11 A fellow that hath had losses; and one that hath two gowns, and everything handsome about him
Ib. [90]
- 12 Patch grief with proverbs.
Ib. v. i. 17
- 13 For there was never yet philosopher
That could endure the toothache patiently.
Ib. 35
- 14 In a false quarrel there is no true valour.
Ib. [121]
- 15 What though care killed a cat, thou hast mettle enough in thee to kill care.

Ib. 24
- 23 This counter-caster.
Ib. 31
- 24 'Tis the curse of the service,
Preferment goes by letter and affection,
Not by the old gradation, where each second
Stood heir to the first.
Ib. 35
- 25 I follow him to serve my turn upon him;
We cannot all be masters, nor all masters
Cannot be truly follow'd.
Ib. 42
- 26 Wears out his time, much like his master's ass,
For nought but provender, and when he's old,
cashier'd;
Whip me such honest knaves.
Othello, I. i. 47
- 27 In following him, I follow but myself
Ib. 58
- 28 But I will wear my heart upon my sleeve
For daws to peck at: I am not what I am.
Ib. 64
- 29 An old black ram
Is tupping your white ewe.
Ib. 88
- 30 'Zounds! sir, you are one of those that will not serve
God if the devil bid you.
Ib. 108
- 31 Your daughter and the Moor are now making the beast with two backs.
Ib. [117]
- 32 The gross clasps of a lascivious Moor.
Ib. [127]
- 33 An extravagant and wheeling stranger
Of here and every where.
Ib. [137]
- 34 I do hate him as I do hell-pains.
Ib. [155]
- 35 I must show out a flag and sign of love,
Which is indeed but sign.
Ib. [157]
- 36 Though in the trade of war I have slain men,
Yet do I hold it very stuff o' the conscience
To do no contriv'd murder. I lack iniquity
Sometimes to do me service.
Ib. II. 1
- 37 I fetch my life and being
From men of royal siege.
Ib. 21
- 38 I would not my unhoused free condition
Put into circumscription and confine
For the sea's worth.
Ib. 26
- 39 My parts, my title, and my perfect soul
Shall manifest me rightly.
Ib. 31
- 40 Keep up your bright swords, for the dew will rust
them.
Ib. 59
- 41 The wealthy curled darlings of our nation.
Ib. 68
- 42 The sooty bosom
Of such a thing as thou.
Ib. 70
- 43 My particular grief
Is of so flood-gate and o'erbearing nature
That it engulfs and swallows other sorrows
And it is still itself.
Ib. III. 55
- 44 The bloody book of law
You shall yourself read in the bitter letter
After your own sense.
Ib. 67
- 45 Most potent, grave, and reverend signiors,
My very noble and approv'd good masters,
That I have ta'en away this old man's daughter,
It is most true; true, I have married her:
The very head and front of my offending
Hath this extent, no more. Rude am I in my speech,
And little bless'd with the soft phrase of peace;
For since these arms of mine had seven years' pith,
Till now some nine moons wasted, they have us'd
Their dearest action in the tented field;
And little of this great world can I speak,
More than pertains to feats of broil and battle;
And therefore little shall I grace my cause
In speaking for myself. Yet, by your gracious patience,
I will a round unvarnish'd tale deliver
Of my whole course of love; what drugs, what charms,
What conjuration, and what mighty magic,
For such proceeding I am charg'd withal,
I won his daughter.
Ib. 76

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 A maiden never bold;
Of spirit so still and quiet, that her motion
Blush'd at herself. Othello, 1. iii. 94
- 2 Her father lov'd me; oft invited me;
Still question'd me the story of my life
From year to year, the battles, sieges, fortunes
That I have pass'd.
I ran it through, even from my boyish days
To the very moment that he bade me tell it,
Wherein I spake of most disastrous chances,
Of moving accidents by flood and field,
Of hair-breadth 'scape i' the imminent deadly breach,
Of being taken by the insolent foe
And sold to slavery, of my redemption thence
And portance in my travels' history,
Wherein of antres vast and deserts idle,
Rough quarries, rocks and hills whose heads touch
heaven,
It was my hint to speak, such was the process;
And of the Cannibals that each other eat,
'The Anthropophagi, and men whose heads
Do grow beneath their shoulders 'This to hear
Would Desdemona seriously incline Ib 125
- 3 And often did beguile her of her tears,
When I did speak of some distressful stroke
'That my youth suffer'd. My story being done,
She gave me for my pains a world of sighs
She swore, in faith, 'twas strange, 'twas passing strange,
'Twas pitiful, 'twas wondrous pitiful
She wish'd she had not heard it, yet she wish'd
That heaven had made her such a man; she thank'd me,
And bade me, if I had a friend that lov'd her,
I should but tell him how to tell my story,
And that it would woo her. Upon this hint I spake.
She lov'd me for the dangers I had pass'd,
And I lov'd her that she did pity them
'This only is the witchcraft I have us'd. Ib 156
- 4 I do perceive here a divided duty. Ib 181
- 5 To mourn a mischief that is past and gone
Is the next way to draw new mischief on Ib 204
- 6 The robb'd that smiles steals something from the thief Ib 208
- 7 But words are words, I never yet did hear
'That the bruised heart was pierced through the ear Ib 218
- 8 The tyrant custom, most grave senators,
Hath made the flinty and steel couch of war
My thrice-driven bed of down. Ib [230]
- 9 My heart's subdu'd
Even to the very quality of my lord. Ib [252]
- 10 I saw Othello's visage in his mind. Ib [254]
- 11 A moth of peace. Ib [258]
- 12 BRABANTIO
She has deceiv'd her father, and may thee.
OTHELLO
My life upon her faith! Ib [295]
- 13 I will incontinently drown myself. Ib [307]
- 14 It is silliness to live when to live is torment, and then have we a prescription to die when death is our physician. Ib [310]
- 15 Virtue! a fig! 'tis in ourselves that we are thus, or thus.
Our bodies are our gardens, to the which our wills are gardeners Othello, 1. iii. [323]
- 16 Put money in thy purse. Ib [345]
- 17 The food that to him now is as luscious as locusts, shall be to him shortly as bitter as coloquintida. Ib [354]
- 18 There are many events in the womb of time which will be delivered. Ib [377]
- 19 Thus do I ever make my fool my purse. Ib [389]
- 20 He holds me well,
'The better shall my purpose work on him Ib [396]
- 21 Iamed to make women false Ib [404]
- 22 The Moor is of a free and open nature,
That thinks men honest that but seem to be so Ib [405]
- 23 I have 't, it is engender'd, hell and night
Must bring this monstrous birth to the world's light Ib [409]
- 24 Our great captain's captain. Ib 11. 1 74
- 25 You are pictures out of doors,
Bells in your parlours, wild cats in your kitchens,
Saints in your injuries, devils being offended, Players in your housewifery, and housewives in your beds Ib 109
- 26 Do not put me to 't,
For I am nothing if not critical Ib 118
- 27 I am not merry, but I do beguile
The thing I am by seeming otherwise. Ib 122
- 28 IAGO
She never yet was foolish that was fair,
For even her folly help'd her to an heir
DESDEMONA
These are old fond paradoxes to make fools laugh i'
the alehouse. Ib 136
- 29 IAGO
She that was ever fair and never proud,
Had tongue at will and yet was never loud,
Never lack'd gold and yet went never gay,
Fled from her wish and yet said 'Now I may,'
She that being anger'd, her revenge being nigh,
Bade her wrong stay and her displeasure fly,
She that in wisdom never was so frail
To change the cod's head for the salmon's tail,
She that could think and ne'er disclose her mind,
See suits following and not look behind,
She was a wight, if ever such wight were,— DESDEMONA
'To do what?
IAGO
To suckle fools and chronicle small beer.
DESDEMONA
O most lame and impotent conclusion! Ib 148
- 30 With as little a web as this will I ensnare as great a fly
as Cassio. Ib [160]
- 31 OTHELLO
If it were now to die,
'Twere now to be most happy, for I fear
My soul hath her content so absolute
That not another comfort like to this
Succeeds in unknown fate.

SHAKESPEARE

- DESEMONA:
 The heavens forbid
 But that our loves and comforts should increase
 Even as our days do grow! Othello, II. 1 [192]
- 1 A slipper and subtle knave, a finder-out of occasions
Ib. [247]
- 2 A pestilent complete knave! and the woman hath found him already. Ib. [253]
- 3 This poor trash of Venice. Ib. [315]
- 4 Make the Moor thank me, love me, and reward me
 For making him egregiously an ass. Ib. [320]
- 5 Let's teach ourselves that honourable stop,
 Not to outsport discretion. Ib. iii. 2
- 6 She is sport for Jove. Ib. [17]
- 7 I have very poor and unhappy brains for drinking
 I could well wish courtesy would invent some other custom of entertainment. Ib. [34]
- 8 My boat sails freely, both with wind and stream.
Ib. [66]
- 9 And let me the canakin clink:
 A soldier's a man;
 A life's but a span;
 Why then let a soldier drink. Ib. [73]
- 10 England, where indeed they are most potent in potting. Ib. [79]
- 11 King Stephen was a worthy peer,
 His breeches cost him but a crown;
 He held them sixpence all too dear,
 With that he call'd the tailor lown. Ib. [93]
- 12 'Tis pride that pulls the country down. Ib. [99]
- 13 Well, God's above all; and there be souls must be saved, and there be souls must not be saved.
Ib. [106]
- 14 The lieutenant is to be saved before the ancient.
Ib. [115]
- 15 He is a soldier fit to stand by Cæsar
 And give direction. Ib. [128]
- 16 Silence that dreadful bell! it frights the isle
 From her propriety. Ib. [177]
- 17 But men are men, the best sometimes forget. Ib. [243]
- 18 Thy honesty and love doth mince this matter.
Ib. [249]
- 19 Cassio, I love thee;
 But never more be officer of mine. Ib. [250]
- 20 Reputation, reputation, reputation! O! I have lost my reputation. I have lost the immortal part of myself, and what remains is bestial. My reputation, Iago, my reputation! Ib. [264]
- 21 O thou invisible spirit of wine! if thou hast no name to be known by, let us call thee devil! Ib. [285]
- 22 O God! that men should put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains; that we should,
 with joy, pleasance, revel, and applause, transform ourselves into beasts. Ib. [293]
- 23 CASSIO:
 Every inordinate cup is unblessed, and the ingredient is a devil.
- IAGO:
 Come, come; good wine is a good familiar creature if it be well used; exclaim no more against it.
Ib. [312]
- 24 How poor are they that have not patience!
 What wound did ever heal but by degrees?
Othello, II. III [379]
- 25 O! thereby hangs a tail. Ib. III. 1. [8]
- 26 Talk him out of patience. Ib. III. 23
- 27 Excellent wretch! Perdition catch my soul
 But I do love thee! and when I love thee not,
 Chaos is come again. Ib. 90
- 28 By heaven, he echoes me,
 As if there were some monster in his thought
 Too hideous to be shown. Ib. 106
- 29 Men should be what they seem;
 Or those that be not, would they might seem none!
Ib. 126
- 30 Good name in man and woman, dear my lord,
 Is the immediate jewel of their souls,
 Who steals my purse steals trash; 'tis something,
 nothing;
 'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands;
 But he that filches from me my good name
 Robs me of that which not enriches him,
 And makes me poor indeed. Ib. 155
- 31 O! beware, my lord, of jealousy;
 It is the green-ey'd monster which doth mock
 The meat it feeds on. Ib. 165
- 32 But, O! what damned minutes tells he o'er
 Who dotes, yet doubts, suspects, yet soundly loves!
Ib. 169
- 33 Poor and content is rich, and rich enough. Ib. 172
- 34 Think'st thou I'd make a life of jealousy,
 To follow still the changes of the moon
 With fresh suspicions? No; to be once in doubt
 Is once to be resolved. Ib. 177
- 35 In Venice they do let heaven see the pranks
 They dare not show their husbands; their best conscience
 Is not to leave 't undone, but keep 't unknown.
Ib. 202
- 36 I humbly do beseech you of your pardon
 For too much loving you. Ib. 212
- 37 This fellow's of exceeding honesty.
 If I do prove her haggard,
 Though that her jesses were my dear heart-strings,
 I'd whistle her off and let her down the wind,
 To prey at fortune. Ib. 260
- 38 For I am declin'd
 Into the vale of years. Ib. 265
- 39 O curse of marriage!
 That we can call these delicate creatures ours,
 And not their appetites. I had rather be a toad,
 And live upon the vapour of a dungeon,
 Than keep a corner in the thing I love
 For others' uses. Ib. 268
- 40 If she be false, O! then heaven mocks itself.
 I'll not believe it. Ib. 278
- 41 Trifles light as air
 Are to the jealous confirmations strong
 As proofs of holy writ. Ib. 323
- 42 Not poppy, nor mandragora,
 Nor all the drowsy syrups of the world,
 Shall ever medicine thee to that sweet sleep
 Which thou ow'dst yesterday. Ib. 331

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Avaunt! be gone! thou hast set me on the rack,
I swear 'tis better to be much abus'd
Than but to know 't a little. Othello, III. iii. 336
- 2 He that is robb'd, not wanting what is stol'n,
Let him not know 't and he's not robb'd at all. Ib. 343
- 3 I had been happy, if the general camp,
Pioners and all, had tasted her sweet body,
So I had nothing known O! now, for ever
Farewell the tranquil mind, farewell content!
Farewell the plumed troop and the big wars
That make ambition virtue! O, farewell!
Farewell the neighing steed and the shrill trump,
The spirit-stirring drum, the ear-piercing fife,
The royal banner, and all quality,
Pride, pomp, and circumstance of glorious war!
And, O you mortal engines, whose rude throats
The immortal Jove's dread clamours counterfeit,
Farewell! Othello's occupation's gone! Ib. 346
- 4 Be sure of it; give me the ocular proof. Ib. 361
- 5 Never pray more; abandon all remorse;
On horror's head horrors accumulate. Ib. 370
- 6 O wretched fool!
That liv'st to make thine honesty a vice.
O monstrous world! Take note, take note, O world!
To be direct and honest is not safe. Ib. 376
- 7 By the world,
I think my wife be honest and think she is not,
I think that thou art just and think thou art not. Ib. 384
- 8 There are a kind of men so loose of soul
That in their sleeps will mutter their affairs. Ib. 417
- 9 But this denoted a foregone conclusion. Ib. 429
- 10 Swell, bosom, with thy fraught,
For 'tis of aspics' tongues! Ib. 450
- 11 O! blood, blood, blood! Ib. 452
- 12 Like to the Pontick sea,
Whose icy current and compulsive course
Ne'er feels retiring ebb, but keeps due on
To the Propontic and the Hellespont,
Even so my bloody thoughts, with violent pace,
Shall ne'er look back, ne'er ebb to humble love,
Till that a capable and wide revenge
Swallow them up. Ib. 454
- 13 For here's a young and sweating devil here,
That commonly rebels. Ib. iv. 43
- 14 The hearts of old gave hands,
But our new heraldry is hands not hearts. Ib. 47
- 15 That handkerchief
Did an Egyptian to my mother give. Ib. 56
- 16 'Tis true; there's magic in the web of it;
A sibyl, that had number'd in the world
The sun to course two hundred compasses,
In her prophetic fury sew'd the work;
The worms were hallow'd that did breed the silk,
And it was dy'd in mummy which the skilful
Conserv'd of maidens' hearts. Ib. 70
- 17 But jealous souls will not be answer'd so;
They are not ever jealous for the cause,
But jealous for they are jealous. Ib. 158
- 18 What! keep a week away? seven days and nights?
Eight score eight hours? and lovers' absent hours,
More tedious than the dial eight score times?
O, weary reckoning! Othello, III. iv. 172
- 19 I do attend here on the general,
And think it no addition nor my wish
To have him see me woman'd. Ib. 192
- 20 O! it comes o'er my memory,
As doth the raven o'er the infected house,
Boding to all Ib. iv. i. 20
- 21 Many worthy and chaste dames even thus,
All guiltless, meet reproach. Ib. 47
- 22 To beguile many and be beguil'd by one. Ib. 98
- 23 They laugh that win. Ib. [123]
- 24 I would have him nine years a-killing. Ib. [186]
- 25 My heart is turned to stone; I strike it, and it hurts
my hand. Ib. [190]
- 26 O! the world hath not a sweeter creature; she might lie by an emperor's side and command him tasks. Ib. [192]
- 27 O, she will sing the savageness out of a bear Ib. [198]
- 28 But yet the pity of it, Iago! O! Iago, the pity of it, Iago! Ib. [205]
- 29 The justice of it pleases. Ib. [221]
- 30 O well-painted passion! Ib. [268]
- 31 Goats and monkeys! Ib. [274]
- 32 Whose solid virtue
The shot of accident nor dart of chance
Could neither graze nor pierce? Ib. [277]
- 33 Your mystery, your mystery; nay, dispatch. Ib. ii. 29
- 34 Had it pleas'd heaven
To try me with affliction, had he rain'd
All kinds of sores, and shames, on my bare head,
Steep'd me in poverty to the very lips,
Given to captivity me and my utmost hopes,
I should have found in some part of my soul
A drop of patience; but, alas! to make me
The fixed figure for the time of scorn
To point his slow and moving finger at;
Yet could I bear that too, well, very well.
But there, where I have garner'd up my heart,
Where either I must live or bear no life,
The fountain from the which my current runs
Or else dries up; to be discarded thence!
Or keep it as a cistern for foul toads
To knot and gender in! Turn thy complexion there,
Patience, thou young and rose-lipp'd cherubin;
Ay, there, look grim as hell! Ib. 46
- 35 O thou weed!
Who art so lovely fair and smell'st so sweet
That the sense aches at thee, would thou hadst ne'er been born! Ib. 66
- 36 Heaven stops the nose at it and the moon winks. Ib. 76
- 37 I took you for that cunning whore of Venice
That married with Othello. You, mistress,
That have the office opposite to Saint Peter,
And keep the gate of hell! Ib. 88

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 I will be hang'd, if some eternal villain,
Some busy and insinuating rogue,
Some cogging cozening slave, to get some office,
Have not devis'd this slander. Othello, iv. ii. 130
- 2 O heaven! that such companions thou'dst unfold,
And put in every honest hand a whip
To lash the rascals naked through the world,
Even from the east to the west! Ib. 141
- 3 Unkindness may do much;
And his unkindness may defeat my life,
But never taint my love. Ib. 159
- 4 Why, now I see there's mettle in thee, and even from this instant do build on thee a better opinion than ever before. Ib. [207]
- 5 EMILIA:
I would you had never seen him.
DESDEMONA.
So would not I, my love doth so approve him. Ib. iii. 18
- 6 The poor soul sat sighing by a sycamore tree,
Sing all a green willow,
Her hand on her bosom, her head on her knee,
Sing willow, willow, willow.
The fresh streams ran by her, and murmur'd her moans;
Sing willow, willow, willow.
Her salt tears fell from her, and soften'd the stones;—
Sing willow, willow, willow.
Sing all a green willow must be my garland. Ib. [41]
- 7 DESDEMONA: Mine eyes do itch;
Doth that bode weeping?
EMILIA:
'Tis neither here nor there. Ib. [59]
- 8 Who would not make her husband a cuckold to make him a monarch? Ib. [76]
- 9 He hath a daily beauty in his life
That makes me ugly Ib. v. i. 19
- 10 This is the night
That either makes me or fordoes me quite. Ib. 128
- 11 It is the cause, it is the cause, my soul;
Let me not name it to you, you chaste stars!
It is the cause. Yet I'll not shed her blood,
Nor scar that whiter skin of hers than snow,
And smooth as monumental alabaster.
Yet she must die, else she'll betray more men.
Put out the light, and then put out the light:
If I quench thee, thou flaming minister,
I can again thy former light restore,
Should I repent me; but once put out thy light,
Thou cunning'st pattern of excelling nature,
I know not where is that Promethean heat
That can thy light relume. When I have pluck'd the rose,
I cannot give it vital growth again,
It needs must wither: I'll smell it on the tree.
O balmy breath, that dost almost persuade Justice to break her sword! One more, one more.
Be thus when thou art dead, and I will kill thee,
And love thee after. One more, and this the last:
So sweet was ne'er so fatal. I must weep,
But they are cruel tears; this sorrow's heavenly,
It strikes where it doth love. Ib. ii. i
- 12 If you bethink yourself of any crime
Unreconcil'd as yet to heaven and grace,
Solicit for it straight. Othello, v. ii. 26
- 13 Alas! why gnaw you so your nether lip?
Some bloody passion shakes your very frame;
These are portents, but yet, I hope, I hope
They do not point on me. Ib. 43
- 14 For to deny each article with oath
Cannot remove nor choke the strong conception
That I do groan withal. Ib. 54
- 15 Had all his hairs been lives, my great revenge
Had stomach for them all. Ib. 74
- 16 It is the very error of the moon;
She comes more near the earth than she was wont,
And makes men mad. Ib. 107
- 17 Not Cassio kill'd! then murder's out of tune,
And sweet revenge grows harsh. Ib. 113
- 18 A guiltless death I die. Ib. 120
- 19 Nobody; I myself; farewell. Ib. 122
- 20 OTHELLO:
She's like a liar gone to burning hell;
'Twas I that kill'd her.
EMILIA:
O! the more angel she,
And you the blacker devil. Ib. 127
- 21 Nay, had she been true,
If heaven would make me such another world
Of one entire and perfect chrysolite,
I'd not have sold her for it. Ib. 141
- 22 She was too fond of her most filthy bargain. Ib. 155
- 23 Thou hast not half the power to do me harm
As I have to be hurt. Ib. 160
- 24 You told a lie, an odious damned lie;
Upon my soul, a lie, a wicked lie. Ib. 178
- 25 Curse his better angel from his side,
And fall to reprobation. Ib. 206
- 26 With that recognizance and pledge of love. Ib. 212
- 27 Are there no stones in heaven
But what serve for the thunder? Ib. 232
- 28 Every puny whipster gets my sword. Ib. 242
- 29 I will play the swan,
And die in music. Ib. 245
- 30 Who can control his fate? Ib. 264
- 31 Here is my journey's end, here is my butt,
And very sea-mark of my utmost sail. Ib. 266
- 32 O ill-starr'd wench!
Pale as thy smock! when we shall meet at compt,
This look of thine will hurl my soul from heaven,
And fiends will snatch at it. Cold, cold, my girl!
Even like thy chastity.
O! cursed, cursed slave. Whip me, ye devils,
From the possession of this heavenly sight!
Blow me about in winds! roast me in sulphur!
Wash me in steep-down gulfs of liquid fire!
O Desdemona! Desdemona! dead! Ib. 271
- 33 I look down towards his feet; but that's a fable.
If that thou be'st a devil, I cannot kill thee. Ib. 285
- 34 An honourable murderer, if you will;
For nought did I in hate, but all in honour. Ib. 293

- 2 OMMILO.
Will you, I pray, demand that demi-devil
Why he hath thus ensnair'd my soul and body?
160.
Demand me nothing: what you know, you know
From this time forth I never will speak a word
Othello, v. ii. 300
- 2 I have done the state some service, and they know 't,
No more of that. I pray you, in your letters,
When you shall these unlucky deeds relate,
Speak of me as I am, nothing extenuate,
Not set down aught in malice: then, must you speak
Of one that lov'd not wisely but too well,
Of one not easily jealous, but, being wrought,
Perplex'd in the extreme, or one whose hand,
Like the base Indian, threw a pearl away
Richer than all his tribe, of one whose subdued eyes,
Albeit unused to the melting mood,
Drop tears as fast as the Arabian trees
Their medicinal gum. Set you down this,
And say besides, that in Aleppo once,
Where a malignant and a turban'd Turk
Beat a Venetian and traduc'd the state,
I took by the throat the circumcised dog,
And smote him thus. Ib 338
- 3 All that's spoke is marred. Ib 356
- 4 I kiss'd thee ere I kill'd thee. Ib 357
- 5 See, where she comes apparell'd like the spring
Pericles, i. i. 12
- 6 Few love to hear the sins they love to act Ib 92
- 7 O you gods!
Why do you make us love your goodly gifts,
And snatch them straight away? Ib iii. 1. 22
- 8 Old John of Gaunt, time-honour'd Lancaster
King Richard II, i. i. 1
- 9 Let's purge this choler without letting blood Ib 153
- 10 The purest treasure mortal times afford
Is spotless reputation, that away,
Men are but gilded loam or painted clay.
A jewel in a ten-times-runn'd-up chest
Is a bold spirit in a lover's breast.
Much honour is my life, both grow in one;
Take honour from me, and my life is done. Ib 177
- 11 We were not born to sue, but to command Ib 196
- 12 Stay, stay, the king hath thrown his warder down
Ib iii. 118
- 13 This must my comfort be,
That sun that warms you here shall shine on me
Ib 144
- 14 The language I have learn'd these forty years,
My native English, now I must forego,
And now my tongue's use is to me no more
Than an unstunged viol or a harp Ib 159
- 15 I am too old to fawn upon a nurse,
Too far in years to be a pupil now. Ib 170
- 16 How long a time lies in one little word!
Four lagging winters and four wanton springs
End in a word, such is the breath of kings. Ib 213
- 17 'Things sweet to taste prove in digestion sour. Ib 236
- 18 Boast of nothing else
But that I was a journeyman to grief? Ib 273
- 19 All places that the eye of heaven visits
Are to a wise man ports and happy havens.
Teach thy necessity to reason thus,
There is no virtue like necessity
King Richard II, i. iii. 275
- 20 O! who can hold a fire in his hand
By thinking on the frosty Caucasus?
Or clove the hungry edge of appetite,
By bare imagination or a feast?
Or wallow naked in December snow
By thinking on fantastic summer's heat?
O, no! the apprehension of the good
Gives but the greater feeling to the worse. Ib 294
- 21 Methinks I am a prophet new inspir'd,
And thus expiring do foretell of him
His rash fierce blaze of riot cannot last,
For violent fires soon burn out themselves,
Small showers last long, but sudden storms are short;
He tires betimes that spurs too fast betimes
Ib ii. 1. 31
- 22 This royal throne of kings, this scepter'd isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall,
Or as a moat defensive to a house,
Against the envy of less happier lands,
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England,
This nurse, this teeming womb of royal kings,
Fear'd by their breed and famous by their birth,
Renowned for their deeds as far from home,
For Christian service and true chivalry,—
As is the sepulchre in stubborn Jewry
Of the world's ransom, blessed Mary's Son
This land of such dear souls, this dear, dear land.
Ib 40
- 23 England, bound in with the triumphant sea Ib 61
- 24 That England, that was wont to conquer others,
Hath made a shameful conquest of itself. Ib 65
- 25 Can sick men play so nicely with their names? Ib 84
- 26 Lay aside life-harming heaviness,
And entertain a cheerful disposition. Ib ii. 3
- 27 Believe me, noble lord,
I am a stranger here in Gloucestershire
These high wild hills and rough uneven ways
Draw out our miles and make them wearisome
Ib iii. 2
- 28 I count myself in nothing else so happy
As in a soul remembering my good friends. Ib 46
- 29 Bloody with spurring, fiercely-red with haste Ib 58
- 30 Grace me no grace, nor uncle me no uncle. Ib 87
- 31 The caterpillars of the commonwealth Ib 166
- 32 Things past redress are now with me past care. Ib 171
- 33 Eating the bitter bread of banishment. Ib iii. 1. 21
- 34 I weep for joy
To stand upon my kingdom once again.
Dear earth, I do salute thee with my hand,
Though rebels wound thee with their horses' hoofs.
Ib ii. 4

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Not all the water in the rough rude sea
Can wash the balm from an anointed king;
The breath of worldly men cannot depose
The deputy elected by the Lord.
For every man that Bolingbroke hath press'd
To lift shrewd steel against our golden crown,
God for his Richard hath in heavenly pay
A glorious angel, then, if angels fight, Weak men must fall, for heaven still guards the right. King Richard II, III. ii. 54
- 2 O! call back yesterday, bid time return. Ib. 69
- 3 Is not the king's name twenty thousand names?
Arm, arm, my name! A puny subject strikes
At thy great glory. Ib. 85
- 4 The worst is death, and death will have his day. Ib. 103
- 5 Sweet love, I see, changing his property,
Turns to the sourest and most deadly hate Ib. 135
- 6 Of comfort no man speak
Let's talk of graves, of worms, and epitaphs;
Make dust our paper, and with rainy eyes
Write sorrow on the bosom of the earth
Let's choose executors, and talk of wills. Ib. 144
- 7 For God's sake, let us sit upon the ground
And tell sad stories of the death of kings.
How some have been depos'd, some slain in war,
Some haunted by the ghosts they have depos'd,
Some poison'd by their wives, some sleeping kill'd;
All murder'd for within the hollow crown
That rounds the mortal temples of a king
Keeps Death his court, and there the antick sits,
Scoffing his state and grinning at his pomp;
Allowing him a breath, a little scene,
To monarchize, be fear'd, and kill with looks,
Infusing him with self and vain conceit
As if this flesh which walls about our life
Were brass impregnable; and humour'd thus Comes at the last, and with a little pin
Bores through his castle wall, and farewell king!
Ib. 155
- 8 See, see, King Richard doth himself appear,
As doth the blushing discontented sun
From out the fiery portal of the east. Ib. iii. 62
- 9 O! that I were as great
As is my grief, or lesser than my name,
Or that I could forget what I have been,
Or not remember what I must be now. Ib. 136
- 10 What must the king do now? Must he submit?
The king shall do it. must he be depos'd?
The king shall be contented: must he lose
The name of king? o' God's name, let it go.
I'll give my jewels for a set of beads,
My gorgeous palace for a hermitage,
My gay apparel for an almsman's gown,
My figur'd goblets for a dish of wood,
My sceptre for a palmer's walking staff,
My subjects for a pair of carved saints,
And my large kingdom for a little grave,
A little little grave, an obscure grave;
Or I'll be buried in the king's highway,
Some way of common trade, where subjects' feet
May hourly trample on their sovereign's head;
For on my heart they tread now whilst I live;
And buried once, why not upon my head? Ib. 143
- 11 You make a leg. Ib. 175
- 12 Go, bind thou up yon dangling apricocks,
Which, like unruly children, make their sire
Stoop with oppression of their prodigal weight.
King Richard II, III. iv. 29
- 13 Old Adam's likeness, set to dress this garden. Ib. 73
- 14 Here did she fall a tear, here, in this place,
I'll set a bank of rue, sour herb of grace;
Rue, even for ruth, here shortly shall be seen,
In the remembrance of a weeping queen. Ib. 104
- 15 If I dare eat, or drink, or breathe, or live,
I dare meet Surrey in a wilderness,
And spit upon him, whilst I say he lies,
And lies, and lies. Ib. iv. 1. 73
- 16 And there at Venice gave
His body to that pleasant country's earth,
And his pure soul unto his captain Christ,
Under whose colours he had fought so long. Ib. 97
- 17 Peace shall go sleep with Turks and infidels. Ib. 139
- 18 God save the king! Will no man say, amen?
Am I both priest and clerk? Well then, amen. Ib. 172
- 19 Give me the crown. Here, cousin, seize the crown,
Here cousin,
On this side my hand and on that side thine.
Now is this golden crown like a deep well
That owes two buckets filling one another;
The emptier ever dancing in the air,
The other down, unseen, and full of water:
That bucket down and full of tears am I,
Drinking my griefs, whilst you mount up on high. Ib. 181
- 20 You may my glories and my state depose,
But not my griefs, still am I king of those. Ib. 192
- 21 Now mark me how I will undo myself. Ib. 203
- 22 With mine own tears I wash away my balm,
With mine own hands I give away my crown. Ib. 207
- 23 God pardon all oaths that are broke to me!
God keep all vows unbroke are made to thee! Ib. 214
- 24 A mockery king of snow. Ib. 260
- 25 An if my word be sterling yet in England. Ib. 264
- 26 Julius Cæsar's ill-erected tower. Ib. v. i. 2
- 27 I am sworn brother, sweet,
To grim Necessity, and he and I
Will keep a league till death. Ib. 20
- 28 That were some love but little policy. Ib. 84
- 29 As in a theatre, the eyes of men,
After a well-grac'd actor leaves the stage,
Are idly bent on him that enters next,
Thinking his prattle to be tedious. Ib. ii. 23
- 30 Who are the violets now
That strew the green lap of the new come spring?
Ib. 46
- 31 Give me my boots I say. Ib. 77 and 87
- 32 He prays but faintly and would be denied. Ib. iii. 103
- 33 I have been studying how I may compare
This prison where I live unto the world. Ib. v. 1
- 34 How sour sweet music is,
When time is broke, and no proportion kept!
So is it in the music of men's lives. Ib. 42

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Mount, mount, my soul! thy seat is up on high,
Whilst my gross flesh sinks downwards, here to die.
King Richard II, v. v. 112
- 2 Now is the winter of our discontent
Made glorious summer by this sun of York.
King Richard III, i. 1. 1
- 3 Our stern alarums changed to merry meetings;
Our dreadful marches to delightful measures. Ib. 7
- 4 He capers nimbly in a lady's chamber
To the lascivious pleasing of a lute. Ib. 12
- 5 This weak piping time of peace. Ib. 24
- 6 And therefore, since I cannot prove a lover, . . .
I am determined to prove a villain. Ib. 28
- 7 No beast so fierce but knows some touch of pity.
Ib. ii. 71
- 8 Was ever woman in this humour woo'd?
Was ever woman in this humour won? Ib. 229
- 9 Fram'd in the prodigality of Nature. Ib. 245
- 10 By silken, sly, insinuating Jacks. Ib. iii. 53
- 11 Since every Jack became a gentleman
There's many a gentle person made a Jack. Ib. 72
- 12 And thus I clothe my naked villany
With odd old ends stol'n forth of holy writ,
And seem a saint when most I play the devil. Ib. 336
- 13 O, I have pass'd a miserable night,
So full of ugly sights, of ghastly dreams,
That, as I am a Christian faithful man,
I would not spend another such a night,
Though 'twere to buy a world of happy days,
So full of dismal terror was the time! Ib. iv. 2
- 14 Lord, Lord! methought what pain it was to drown:
What dreadful noise of water in mine ears!
What sights of ugly death within mine eyes!
Methought I saw a thousand fearful wracks;
A thousand men that fishes gnaw'd upon;
Wedges of gold, great anchors, heaps of pearl,
Inestimable stones, unvalu'd jewels,
All scatter'd in the bottom of the sea.
Some lay in dead men's skulls; and in those holes
Where eyes did once inhabit, there were crept
As 'twere in scorn of eyes, reflecting gems,
That woo'd the slimy bottom of the deep,
And mock'd the dead bones that lay scatter'd by. Ib. 21
- 15 The empty, vast, and wandering air. Ib. 39
- 16 Clarence is come,—false, fleeting, perjur'd Clarence. Ib. 55
- 17 As snow in harvest. Ib. [252]
- 18 Woe to the land that's govern'd by a child!
Ib. ii. iii. 11
- 19 So wise so young, they say, do never live long.
Ib. iii. i. 79
- 20 I moralize two meanings in one word. Ib. 83
- 21 My Lord of Ely, when I was last in Holborn,
I saw good strawberries in your garden there.
Ib. iv. 31
- 22 Talk'st thou to me of 'ifs'? Thou art a traitor:
Off with his head! Ib. 74
- 23 High-reaching Buckingham grows circumspect.
Ib. iv. ii. 31
- 24 I am not in the giving vein to-day.
King Richard III, iv. ii. 115
- 25 The sons of Edward sleep in Abraham's bosom.
Ib. iii. 38
- 26 Let not the heavens hear these tell-tale women
Rail on the Lord's anointed. Ib. iv. 150
- 27 A grievous burthen was thy birth to me;
Tetchy and wayward was thy infancy. Ib. 168
- 28 An honest tale speeds best being plainly told. Ib. 359
- 29 Harp not on that string. Ib. 365
- 30 Relenting fool, and shallow, changing woman!
Ib. 432
- 31 Is the chair empty? is the sword unsway'd?
Is the king dead? the empire unpossess'd? Ib. 470
- 32 Thus far into the bowels of the land
Have we march'd on without impediment.
Ib. v. ii. 3
- 33 True hope is swift, and flies with swallow's wings;
Kings it makes gods, and meaner creatures kings.
Ib. 23
- 34 The king's name is a tower of strength. Ib. iii. 12
- 35 Give me another horse! bind up my wounds!
Have mercy, Jesu! Soft! I did but dream.
O coward conscience, how dost thou afflict me!
Ib. 178
- 36 My conscience hath a thousand several tongues,
And every tongue brings in a several tale,
And every tale condemns me for a villain. Ib. 194
- 37 I shall despair. There is no creature loves me;
And if I die, no soul will pity me:
Nay, wherefore should they, since that I myself
Find in myself no pity to myself? Ib. 201
- 38 By the apostle Paul, shadows to-night
Have struck more terror to the soul of Richard
Than can the substance of ten thousand soldiers.
Ib. 217
- 39 Jockey of Norfolk, be not too bold,
For Dickon thy master is bought and sold. Ib. 305
- 40 A thing devised by the enemy. Ib. 307
- 41 Conscience is but a word that cowards use,
Devis'd at first to keep the strong in awe. Ib. 310
- 42 A horse! a horse! my kingdom for a horse! Ib. iv. 7
- 43 Slave! I have set my life upon a cast,
And I will stand the hazard of the die.
I think there be six Richmonds in the field. Ib. 9
- 44 A pair of star-cross'd lovers.
Romeo and Juliet, Prologue, 6
- 45 The two hours' traffic of our stage. Ib. 12
- 46 ABRAHAM:
Do you bite your thumb at us, sir?
SAMPSON:
Is the law of our side if I say ay?
GREGORY:
No.
SAMPSON:
No, sir, I do not bite my thumb at you, sir; but I bite
my thumb, sir. Ib. i. i. [52]
- 47 Gregory, remember thy swashing blow. Ib. [68]
- 48 Saint-seducing gold, Ib. [220]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 And 'tis not hard, I think,
For men so old as we to keep the peace.
Romeo and Juliet, 1. ii. 2
- 2 PARIS.
Younger than she are happy mothers made.
CAPULET
And too soon marr'd are those so early made Ib. 12
- 3 And then my husband—God be with his soul!
A' was a merry man—took up the child:
'Yea,' quoth he, 'dost thou fall upon thy face?
Thou wilt fall backward when thou hast more wit;
Wilt thou not, Jule?' and, by my halidom,
The pretty wretch left crying, and said 'Ay.'
Ib. 111. 39
- 4 Pretty fool, it stunted and said 'Ay'. Ib. 48
- 5 I am proverb'd with a grandsire phrase,
I'll be a candle-holder, and look on. Ib. 1v. 37
- 6 Come, we burn daylight, ho! Ib. 43
- 7 O! then, I see, Queen Mab hath been with you . . .
She is the fairies' midwife, and she comes
In shape no bigger than an agate-stone
On the forefinger of an alderman,
Drawn with a team of little atomies
Athwart men's noses as they lie asleep.
Her waggon-spokes made of long spinners' legs;
The cover, of the wings of grasshoppers;
The traces, of the smallest spider's web,
The collars, of the moonshine's watery beams;
Her whip, of cricket's bone; the lash, of film;
Her waggoner, a small grey-coated gnat,
Not half so big as a round little worm
Prick'd from the lazy finger of a maid,
Her chariot is an empty hazel-nut,
Made by the joiner squirrel or old grub,
Time out o' mind the fairies' coach-makers.
And in this state she gallops night by night
Through lovers' brains, and then they dream of love;
O'er courtiers' knees, that dream on curtsies straight;
O'er lawyers' fingers, who straight dream on fees,
O'er ladies' lips, who straight on kisses dream;
Which oft the angry Mab with blisters plagues,
Because their breaths with sweetmeats tainted are.
Sometimes she gallops o'er a courtier's nose,
And then dreams he of smelling out a suit;
And sometimes comes she with a tithe-pig's tail,
Tickling a parson's nose as a' lies asleep,
Then dreams he of another benefice;
Sometimes she driveth o'er a soldier's neck,
And then dreams he of cutting foreign throats,
Of breaches, ambuscadoes, Spanish blades,
Of healths five fathom deep; and then anon
Drums in his ear, at which he starts and wakes;
And, being thus frightened, swears a prayer or two,
And sleeps again. This is that very Mab
That plats the manes of horses in the night;
And bakes the elf-locks in foul sluttish hairs,
Which once untangled much misfortune bodes;
This is the hag, when maids lie on their backs,
That presses them and learns them first to bear,
Making them women of good carriage. Ib. 53
- 8 For you and I are past our dancing days. Ib. v. [35]
- 9 O! she doth teach the torches to burn bright.
It seems she hangs upon the cheek of night
Like a rich jewel in an Ethiop's ear;
Beauty too rich for use, for earth too dear. Ib. [48]
- 10 We have a trifling foolish banquet towards. Ib. [126]
- 11 My only love sprung from my only hate!
Romeo and Juliet, 1. v. [142]
- 12 Young Adam Cupid, he that shot so trim
When King Cophetua lov'd the beggar-maid.
Ib. 11. 13
- 13 He jests at scars, that never felt a wound.
But, soft! what light through yonder window breaks?
It is the east, and Juliet is the sun. Ib. 11. 1
- 14 See! how she leans her cheek upon her hand:
O! that I were a glove upon that hand,
That I might touch that cheek. Ib. 23
- 15 O Romeo, Romeo! wherefore art thou Romeo?
Ib. 33
- 16 What's in a name? that which we call a rose
By any other name would smell as sweet. Ib. 43
- 17 For stony limits cannot hold love out. Ib. 67
- 18 Thou know'st the mask of night is on my face,
Else would a maiden blush bepaint my cheek. Ib. 85
- 19 Fain would I dwell on form, fain, fain deny
What I have spoke: but farewell compliment!
Ib. 88
- 20 At lovers' perjuries,
They say, Jove laughs O gentle Romeo!
If thou dost love, pronounce it faithfully:
Or if thou think'st I am too quickly won,
I'll frown and be perverse and say thee nay,
So thou wilt woo; but else, not for the world
In truth, fair Montague, I am too fond. Ib. 92
- 21 I'll prove more true
Than those that have more cunning to be strange.
Ib. 100
- 22 ROMEO:
Lady, by yonder blessed moon I swear
That tips with silver all these fruit-tree tops,— JULIET.
O! swear not by the moon, the inconstant moon,
That monthly changes in her circled orb,
Lest that thy love prove likewise variable. Ib. 107
- 23 Do not swear at all;
Or, if thou wilt, swear by thy gracious self,
Which is the god of my idolatry. Ib. 112
- 24 It is too rash, too unadvis'd, too sudden;
Too like the lightning, which doth cease to be Ere one can say it lightens. Sweet, good-night!
This bud of love, by summer's ripening breath,
May prove a beauteous flower when next we meet.
Ib. 118
- 25 Love goes toward love, as schoolboys from their books;
But love from love, toward school with heavy looks.
Ib. 156
- 26 O! for a falconer's voice,
To lure this tassel-gentle back again.
Bondage is hoarse, and may not speak aloud,
Else would I tear the cave where Echo lies. Ib. 158
- 27 It is my soul that calls upon my name:
How silver-sweet sound lovers' tongues by night,
Like softest music to attending ears! Ib. 164
- 28 'Tis almost morning; I would have thee gone;
And yet no further than a wanton's bird,
Who lets it hop a little from her hand,
Like a poor prisoner in his twisted gyves,
And with a silk thread plucks it back again,
So loving-jealous of his liberty. Ib. 176

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 JULIET.
Yet I should kill thee with much cherishing
Good-night, good-night! parting is such sweet sorrow
That I shall say good-night till it be morrow.
ROMEO
Sleep dwell upon thine eyes, peace in thy breast!
Would I were sleep and peace, so sweet to rest!
Romeo and Juliet, II. II. 183
- 2 Wisely and slow, they stumble that run fast.
Ib. III. 94
- 3 One, two, and the third in your bosom. Ib. IV. [24]
- 4 O flesh, flesh, how art thou fishified! Ib. [41]
- 5 I am the very pink of courtesy. Ib. [63]
- 6 A gentleman, nurse, that loves to hear himself talk, and will speak more in a minute than he will stand to in a month. Ib. [156]
- 7 Two may keep counsel, putting one away. Ib. [211]

Towards Phœbus' lodging. Ib. II. I
- 18 Come, civil night,
Thou sober-suited matron, all in black. Ib. 10
- 19 For thou wilt lie upon the wings of night,
Whiter than new snow on a raven's back. Ib. 18
- 20 Give me my Romeo: and, when he shall die,
Take him and cut him out in little stars,
And he will make the face of heaven so fine
That all the world will be in love with night,
And pay no worship to the garish sun. Ib. 21
- 21 He was not born to shame:
Upon his brow shame is ashamed to sit. Ib. 91
- 22 Romeo, come forth; come forth, thou fearful man:
Affliction is enamour'd of thy parts,
And thou art wedded to calamity. Ib. III. I

- 25 Hang up philosophy!
Unless philosophy can make a Juliet. Ib. 56
- 26 Wilt thou be gone? it is not yet near day:
It was the nightingale, and not the lark,
That pierc'd the fearful hollow of thine ear;
Nightly she sings on yon pomegranate tree:
Believe me, love, it was the nightingale. Ib. V. I

- 33 All things that we ordained festival,
Turn from their office to black funeral;
Our instruments to melancholy bells,
Our wedding cheer to a sad burial feast,
Our solemn hymns to sullen dirges change,
Our bridal flowers serve for a buried corse,
And all things change them to the contrary. Ib. V. 84

Is crimson in thy lips and in thy cheeks,
And death's pale flag is not advanced there. Ib. 94
- 44 Shall I believe
That unsubstantial Death is amorous,
And that the lean abhorred monster keeps
Thee here in dark to be his paramour?
For fear of that I still will stay with thee,
And never from this palace of dim night
Depart again: here, here will I remain
With worms that are thy chambermaids; O! here
Will I set up my everlasting rest,
And shake the yoke of inauspicious stars
From this world-wearied flesh. Eyes, look your last!
Arms, take your last embracement, lips, O you
The doors of breath, seal with a righteous kiss
A dateless bargain to engrossing death! Ib. 102

Conqueror. The Taming of the Shrew, Induction I. [4]
- 46 As Stephen Sly, and old John Naps of Greece,
And Peter Turf, and Henry Pimpernell,
And twenty more such names and men as these,
Which never were nor no man ever saw. Ib. II. [95]
- 47 No profit grows where is no pleasure ta'en;
In brief, sir, study what you most affect. Ib. I. I. 39
- 48 There's small choice in rotten apples. Ib. [137]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Nothing comes amiss, so money comes withal.
The Taming of the Shrew, I. ii. [82]
- 2 O! this learning, what a thing it is. Ib. [163]
- 3 She is your treasure, she must have a husband;
I must dance bare-foot on her wedding day,
And, for your love to her, lead apes in hell.
Ib. II. i. 32
- 4 Say that she rail; why then I'll tell her plain
She sings as sweetly as a nightingale.
Say that she frown, I'll say she looks as clear
As morning roses newly wash'd with dew.
Say she be mute and will not speak a word;
Then I'll commend her volubility,
And say she uttereth piercing eloquence. Ib. 171
- 5 And thereby hangs a tale. Ib. IV. i. [59]
- 6 He kills her in her own humour. Ib. [183]
- 7 She shall watch all night.
And if she chance to nod I'll rail and brawl,
And with the clamour keep her still awake.
This is the way to kill a wife with kindness. Ib. [208]
- 8 What say you to a piece of beef and mustard?
Ib. III [23]
- 9 And as the sun breaks through the darkest clouds,
So honour peereth in the meanest habit. Ib. [175]
- 10 PETRUCHIO.
It shall be what o'clock I say it is.
HORTENSIO:
Why, so this gallant will command the sun. Ib. [197]
- 11 O vile,
Intolerable, not to be endur'd! Ib. V. II. 93
- 12 A woman mov'd is like a fountain troubled,
Muddy, ill-seeming, thick, bereft of beauty. Ib. 143
- 13 Such duty as the subject owes the prince,
Even such a woman oweth to her husband. Ib. 156
- 14 I am asham'd that women are so simple
To offer war where they should kneel for peace.
Ib. 162
- 15 What cares these roarers for the name of king?
The Tempest, I. i. [18]
- 16 He hath no drowning mark upon him; his complexion is perfect gallows. Ib. [33]
- 17 Now would I give a thousand furlongs of sea for an acre of barren ground. Ib. [70]
- 18 The wills above be done! but I would fain die a dry death. Ib. [72]
- 19 O! I have suffer'd
With those that I saw suffer: a brave vessel,
Who had, no doubt, some noble creatures in her,
Dash'd all to pieces. O! the cry did knock Against my very heart. Poor souls, they perish'd.
Ib. II. 5
- 20 What seest thou else
In the dark backward and abysm of time? Ib. 49
- 21 Your tale, sir, would cure deafness. Ib. 106
- 22 My library
Was dukedom large enough. Ib. 109
- 23 Knowing I lov'd my books, he furnish'd me,
From mine own library with volumes that
I prize above my dukedom. Ib. 166
- 24 From the still-vexed Bermoothes. Ib. 229
- 25 I will be correspondent to command
And do my spiriting gently. The Tempest, I. II. 297
- 26 You taught me language, and my profit on't
Is, I know how to curse: the red plague rid you,
For learning me your language! Ib. 363
- 27 Fill all thy bones with aches. Ib. 370
- 28 Come unto these yellow sands,
And then take hands.
Curtisied when you have, and kiss'd,—
The wild waves whist,—
Foot it featly here and there;
And, sweet sprites, the burden bear.
Hark, hark!
Bow, wow,
The watch-dogs bark.
Bow, wow,
Hark, hark! I hear
The strain of strutting Chanticleer
Cock-a-diddle-dow. Ib. 375
- 29 This music crept by me upon the waters,
Allaying both their fury, and my passion,
With its sweet air. Ib. 389
- 30 Full fathom five thy father lies;
Of his bones are coral made:
Those are pearls that were his eyes:
Nothing of him that doth fade,
But doth suffer a sea-change
Into something rich and strange.
Sea-nymphs hourly ring his knell:
Ding-dong.
Hark! now I hear them,—ding-dong, bell. Ib. 394
- 31 The fringed curtains of thine eye advance,
And say what thou seest yond. Ib. 405
- 32 At the first sight
They have changed eyes. Ib. 437
- 33 There's nothing ill can dwell in such a temple:
If the ill spirit have so fair a house,
Good things will strive to dwell with 't. Ib. 454
- 34 Look, he's winding up the watch of his wit, by and by it will strike. Ib. II. I. [12]
- 35 What's past is prologue. Ib. [261]
- 36 They'll take suggestion as a cat laps milk. Ib. [296]
- 37 Open-ey'd conspiracy
His time doth take. Ib. [309]
- 38 A very ancient and fish-like smell. Ib. II. [27]
- 39 When they will not give a doit to relieve a lame beggar, they will lay out ten to see a dead Indian. Ib. [33]
- 40 Misery acquaints a man with strange bedfellows. Ib. [42]
- 41 Well, here's my comfort. [Drinks.] Ib. [48]
- 42 For she had a tongue with a tang. Ib. [53]
- 43 'Ban, 'Ban, Ca-Caliban,
Has a new master—Get a new man. Ib. [197]
- 44 For several virtues
Have I lik'd several women; never any
With so full soul but some defect in her
Did quarrel with the noblest grace she ow'd,
And put it to the foil. Ib. III. I. 42

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 FERDINAND:
Here's my hand.
MIRANDA:
And mine, with my heart in 't. The Tempest, III. i. 89
- 2 Thou deboshed fish thou. Ib. ii. [30]
- 3 Flout 'em, and scout 'em; and scout 'em, and flout
'em;
Thought is free. Ib. [133]
- 4 He that dies pays all debts. Ib. [143]
- 5 The isle is full of noises,
Sounds and sweet airs, that give delight, and hurt
not. Ib. [147]
- 6 Spongy April. Ib. iv. 1. 65
- 7 You sun-burn'd sicklemen, of August weary. Ib. 134
- 8 Our revels now are ended. These our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits and
Are melted into air, into thin air:
And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep. Ib. 148
- 9 I do begin to have bloody thoughts. Ib. [221]
- 10 With foreheads villanous low. Ib. [252]
- 11 Now does my project gather to a head. Ib. v. i. 1
- 12 Demi-puppets, that
By moonshine do the green sour ringlets make Whereof the ewe not bites. Ib. 36
- 13 Deeper than did ever plummet sound,
I'll drown my book. Ib. 56
- 14 Where the bee sucks, there suck I
In a cowslip's bell I lie;
There I couch when owls do cry.
On the bat's back I do fly
After summer merrily:
Merrily, merrily shall I live now
Under the blossom that hangs on the bough. Ib. 88
- 15 O brave new world,
That has such people in 't. Ib. 183
- 16 Retire me to my Milan, where Every third thought shall be my grave. Ib. [310]
- 17 'Tis not enough to help the feeble up,
But to support him after. Timon of Athens, I. i. 108
- 18 He that loves to be flattered is worthy o' the flatterer. Ib. [233]
- 19 The strain of man's bred out
Into baboon and monkey. Ib. [260]
- 20 I wonder men dare trust themselves with men. Ib. ii. [45]
- 21 Immortal gods, I crave no pelf;
I pray for no man but myself. Ib. [64]
- 22 Like madness is the glory of this life. Ib. [141]
- 23 Men shut their doors against a setting sun Ib. [152]
- 24 Nothing emboldens sin so much as mercy. Ib. III. v. 3
- 25 Uncover, dogs, and lap. Ib. vi. [96]
- 26 You fools of fortune, trencher-friends time's flies.
Timon of Athens, III. vi. [107]
- 27 We have seen better days. Ib. iv. ii. 27
- 28 O! the fierce wretchedness that glory brings us. Ib. 30
- 29 He has almost charmed me from my profession, by persuading me to it. Ib. iii. [457]
- 30 My long sickness
Of health and living now begins to mend,
And nothing brings me all things. Ib. v. i. [191]
- 31 Life's uncertain voyage. Ib. [207]
- 32 Timon hath made his everlasting mansion
Upon the beached verge of the salt flood;
Who once a day with his embossed froth
The turbulent surge shall cover. Ib. [220]
- 33 She is a woman, therefore may be woo'd;
She is a woman, therefore may be won;
She is Lavinia, therefore must be lov'd.
What, man! more water glideth by the mill
Than wots the miller of; and easy it is
Of a cut loaf to steal a shive, we know.
Titus Andronicus, II. i. 82
- 34 Come, and take choice of all my library,
And so beguile thy sorrow. Ib. iv. i. 34
- 35 The eagle suffers little birds to sing,
And is not careful what they mean thereby. Ib. iv. [82]
- 36 If one good deed in all my life I did,
I do repent it from my very soul. Ib. v. iii. [189]
- 37 The ravish'd Helen, Menelaus' queen,
With wanton Paris sleeps.
Troilus and Cressida, Prologue, 9
- 38 PANDARUS:
He that will have a cake out of the wheat must tarry
the grinding.
TROILUS:
Have I not tarried?
PANDARUS:
Ay, the grinding; but you must tarry the bolting.
TROILUS:
Have I not tarried?
PANDARUS:
Ay, the bolting; but you must tarry the leavening.
TROILUS:
Still have I tarried.
PANDARUS:
Ay, to the leavening; but here's yet in the word
'hereafter' the kneading, the making of the cake,
the heating of the oven, and the baking; nay, you must stay the cooling too, or you may chance to burn your lips. Ib. I. i. [15]
- 39 O! that her hand,
In whose comparison all whites are ink,
Writing their own reproach; to whose soft seizure
The cygnet's down is harsh, and spirit of sense
Hard as the palm of ploughman. Ib. [57]
- 40 I have had my labour for my travail. Ib. [73]
- 41 Women are angels, wooing:
Things won are done; joy's soul lies in the doing;
That she belov'd knows nought that knows not this:
Men prize the thing ungain'd more than it is. Ib. ii. [310]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 The sea being smooth
How many shallow bauble boats dare sail
Upon her patient breast.
Troilus and Cressida, I. iii. 34
- 2 The heavens themselves, the planets, and this centre
Observe degree, priority, and place,
Insisture, course, proportion, season, form,
Office, and custom, in all line of order. Ib. 85
- 3 O! when degree is shak'd,
Which is the ladder to all high designs,
The enterprise is sick. Ib. 101
- 4 Take but degree away, untune that string,
And, hark! what discord follows; each thing meets
In mere oppugnancy. Ib. 109
- 5 The general's disdain'd
By him one step below, he by the next,
That next by him beneath; so every step,
Exemplary by the first pace that is sick
Of his superior, grows to an envious fever
Of pale and bloodless emulation. Ib. 129
- 6 Like a strutting player, whose conceit
Lies in his hamstring, and doth think it rich
To hear the wooden dialogue and sound
'Twixt his stretch'd footing and the scaffoldage. Ib. 153
- 7 But we are soldiers;
And may that soldier a mere recreant prove,
That means not, hath not, or is not in love! Ib. 286
- 8 And in such indexes, although small pricks
To their subsequent volumes, there is seen
The baby figure of the giant mass
Of things to come at large. Ib. 343
- 9 Mongrel beef-witted lord. Ib. II. i. [14]
- 10 Who wears his wit in his belly, and his guts in his head. Ib. [78]
- 11 The wound of peace is surety,
Surety secure. Ib. II. i. 14
- 12 TROILUS:
What is aught, but as 'tis valued?
HECTOR:
But value dwells not in particular will;
It holds his estimate and dignity
As well wherein 'tis precious of itself
As in the prize. 'Tis mad idolatry
To make the service greater than the god. Ib. 52
- 13 Young men, whom Aristotle thought Unfit to hear moral philosophy. Ib. 166
- 14 Thus to persist
In doing wrong extenuates not wrong,
But makes it much more heavy. Ib. 186
- 15 I am giddy, expectation whirls me round.
The imaginary relish is so sweet
That it enchants my sense. Ib. III. ii. [17]
- 16 To be wise, and love,
Exceeds man's might. Ib. [163]
- 17 Time hath, my lord, a wallet at his back,
Wherein he puts alms for oblivion,
A great-siz'd monster of ingratitudes:
Those scraps are good deeds past; which are devour'd
As fast as they are made, forgot as soon
As done. Ib. III. i. 145
- 18 Perseverance, dear my lord,
Keeps honour bright to have done, is to hang Quite out of fashion, like a rusty mail
In monumental mockery.
Troilus and Cressida, III. iii. 150
- 19 For honour travels in a strait so narrow
Where one but goes abreast. Ib. 154
- 20 Time is like a fashionable host
That slightly shakes his parting guest by the hand,
And with his arms outstretch'd, as he would fly,
Grasps in the comer. welcome ever smiles,
And farewell goes out sighing. Ib. 165
- 21 Beauty, wit,
High birth, vigour of bone, desert in service,
Love, friendship, charity, are subjects all
To envious and calumniating time.
One touch of nature makes the whole world kin,
That all with one consent praise new-born gawds. Ib. 171
- 22 And give to dust that is a little guilt
More laud than guilt o'er-dusted. Ib. 178
- 23 A plague of opinion! a man may wear it on both sides, like a leather jerkin. Ib. [267]
- 24 How my achievements mock me! Ib. IV. ii. [72]
- 25 Sometimes we are devils to ourselves
When we will tempt the frailty of our powers,
Presuming on their changeful potency. Ib. IV. [95]
- 26 Fie, fie upon her!
There's language in her eye, her cheek, her lip,
Nay, her foot speaks; her wanton spirits look out
At every joint and motive of her body. Ib. V. 54
- 27 What's past, and what's to come, is strew'd with husks
And formless ruin of oblivion. Ib. 165
- 28 The end crowns all,
And that old common arbitrator, Time,
Will one day end it. Ib. 223
- 29 Words, words, mere words, no matter from the heart.
Ib. V. iii. [109]
- 30 If music be the food of love, play on;
Give me excess of it, that, surfeiting,
The appetite may sicken, and so die.
That strain again! it had a dying fall.
O! it came o'er my ear like the sweet sound
That breathes upon a bank of violets,
Stealing and giving odour! Enough! no more:
'Tis not so sweet now as it was before.
O spirit of love! how quick and fresh art thou,
That notwithstanding thy capacity
Receiveth as the sea, nought enters there,
Of what validity and pitch soe'er,
But falls into abatement and low price,
Even in a minute so full of shapes is fancy,
That it alone is high fantastical. Twelfth Night, I. i. 1
- 31 O! when mine eyes did see Olivia first,
Methought she purg'd the air of pestilence.
That instant was I turn'd into a hart,
And my desires, like fell and cruel hounds,
E'er since pursue me. Ib. 19
- 32 The element itself, till seven years' heat,
Shall not behold her face at ample view;
But, like a cloistress, she will veiled walk,
And water once a day her chamber round
With eye-offending brine. Ib. 26

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Away before me to sweet beds of flowers;
Love-thoughts lie rich when canopied with bowers.
Twelfth Night, 1. 1. 40
- 2 And what should I do in Illyria?
My brother he is in Elysium. Ib. ii. 2
- 3 O my poor brother! Ib. 6
- 4 He's as tall a man as any's in Illyria. Ib. iii. [21]
- 5 Speaks three or four languages word for word without book. Ib. [28]
- 6 Methinks sometimes I have no more wit than a Christian or an ordinary man has, but I am a great eater of beef, and I believe that does harm to my wit Ib. [90]
- 7 SIR ANDREW:
I would I had bestowed that time in the tongues that I have in fencing, dancing, and bear-baiting. O! had I but followed the arts!
SIR TOBY:
Then hadst thou had an excellent head of hair. Ib. [99]
- 8 Wherefore are these things hid? wherefore have these gifts a curtain before 'em? are they like to take dust, like Mistress Mall's picture? why dost thou not go to church in a galliard, and come home in a coranto? My very walk should be a jig. Ib. [135]
- 9 Is it a world to hide virtues in? Ib. [142]
- 10 Diana's lip
Is not more smooth and rubious; thy small pipe
Is as the maiden's organ, shrill and sound;
And all is semblative a woman's part. Ib. iv. 31
- 11 Many a good hanging prevents a bad marriage. Ib. v. [20]
- 12 What says Quinapalus? 'Better a witty fool than a foolish wit.' Ib. [37]
- 13 Virtue that transgresses is but patched with sin; and sin that amends is but patched with virtue. Ib. [52]
- 14 Good my mouse of virtue, answer me. Ib. [68]
- 15 O! you are sick of self-love, Malvolio. Ib. [96]
- 16 A plague o' these pickle herring! Ib. [127]
- 17 Not yet old enough for a man, nor young enough for a boy; as a squash is before 'tis a peascod, or a codling when 'tis almost an apple: 'tis with him in standing water, between boy and man. He is very well-favoured, and he speaks very shrewishly: one would think his mother's milk were scarce out of him. Ib. [166]
- 18 I would be loath to cast away my speech, for besides that it is excellently well penned, I have taken great pains to con it. Ib. [184]
- 19 I can say little more than I have studied, and that question's out of my part. Ib. [191]
- 20 OLIVIA:
'Tis in grain, sir; 'twill endure wind and weather.
VIOLA:
'Tis beauty truly blent, whose red and white
Nature's own sweet and cunning hand laid on:
Lady, you are the cruell'st she alive
If you will lead these graces to the grave
And leave the world no copy. Ib. [257]
- 21 Item, Two lips, indifferent red; Item, Two grey eyes with lids to them, Item, One neck, one chin, and so forth Twelfth Night, 1. v. [268]
- 22 Make me a willow cabin at your gate,
And call upon my soul within the house;
Write loyal cantons of contemned love,
And sing them loud even in the dead of night;
Halloo your name to the reverberate hills,
And make the babbling gossip of the air
Cry out, 'Olivia'. Ib. [289]
- 23 Farewell, fair cruelty. Ib. [309]
- 24 'What is your parentage?'
'Above my fortune, yet my state is well:
I am a gentleman.' Ib. [310]
- 25 She is drowned already, sir, with salt water, though I seem to drown her remembrance again with more. Ib. ii. 1 [31]
- 26 I am yet so near the manners of my mother, that upon the least occasion more mine eyes will tell tales of me. Ib. [42]
- 27 Not to be a-bed after midnight is to be up betimes. . . . To be up after midnight and to go to bed then, is early, so that to go to bed after midnight is to go to bed betimes. Ib. iii [1 and 7]
- 28 O mistress mine! where are you roaming?
O! stay and hear, your true love's coming,
That can sing both high and low.
Trip no further, pretty sweeting;
Journeys end in lovers meeting,
Every wise man's son doth know.
What is love? 'tis not hereafter;
Present mirth hath present laughter;
What's to come is still unsure:
In delay there lies no plenty;
Then come kiss me, sweet and twenty,
Youth's a stuff will not endure. Ib. [42]
- 29 Am not I consanguineous? am I not of her blood? Tillyvally, lady! Ib. [85]
- 30 He does it with a better grace, but I do it more natural. Ib. [91]
- 31 Is there no respect of place, persons, nor time, in you? Ib. [100]
- 32 SIR TOBY:
Dost thou think, because thou art virtuous, there shall be no more cakes and ale?
CLOWN:
Yes, by Saint Anne, and ginger shall be hot i' the mouth too. Ib. [124]
- 33 MARIA:
Marry, sir, sometimes he is a kind of puritan.
SIR ANDREW:
O, if I thought that, I'd beat him like a dog! Ib. [153]
- 34 I will drop in his way some obscure epistles of love; wherein by the colour of his beard, the shape of his leg, the manner of his gait, the expressure of his eye, forehead, and complexion, he shall find himself most feelingly personated. Ib. [171]
- 35 My purpose is, indeed, a horse of that colour. Ib. [184]

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Now, good Cesario, but that piece of song,
That old and antique song we heard last night;
Methought it did relieve my passion much,
More than light airs and recollected terms
Of these most brisk and giddy-paced times.
Come, but one verse. Twelfth Night, II. iv. 2
- 2 DUKE.
If ever thou shalt love,
In the sweet pangs of it remember me;
For such as I am all true lovers are:
Unstaid and skittish in all motions else,
Save in the constant image of the creature
That is belov'd How dost thou like this tune?
VIOLA:
It gives a very echo to the seat
Where love is enthron'd. Ib. 15
- 3 Let still the woman take
An elder than herself, so wears she to him,
So sways she level in her husband's heart:
For, boy, however we do praise ourselves,
Our fancies are more giddy and unfirm,
More longing, wavering, sooner lost and worn,
Than women's are. Ib. 29
- 4 Then let thy love be younger than thyself,
Or thy affection cannot hold the bent. Ib. 36
- 5 Mark it, Cesario; it is old and plain.
The spinsters and the knitters in the sun
And the free maids that weave their thread with bones
Do use to chant it: it is silly sooth,
And dallies with the innocence of love,
Like the old age. Ib. 43
- 6 Come away, come away, death,
And in sad cypress let me be laid;
Fly away, fly away, breath:
I am slain by a fair cruel maid.
My shroud of white, stuck all with yew,
O! prepare it.
My part of death no one so true
Did share it.
Not a flower, not a flower sweet,
On my black coffin let there be strown;
Not a friend, not a friend greet
My poor corse, where my bones shall be thrown.
A thousand thousand sighs to save,
Lay me, O! where
Sad true lover never find my grave,
To weep there. Ib. 51
- 7 Now, the melancholy god protect thee, and the tailor make thy doublet of changeable taffeta, for thy mind is a very opal. Ib. [74]
- 8 Get thee to yond same sovereign cruelty:
Tell her, my love, more noble than the world,
Prizes not quantity of dirty lands. Ib. [82]
- 9 There is no woman's sides
Can bide the beating of so strong a passion
As love doth give my heart; no woman's heart
So big, to hold so much; they lack retention.
Alas! their love may be call'd appetite,
No motion of the liver, but the palate,
That suffer surfeit, cloyment, and revolt;
But mine is all as hungry as the sea,
And can digest so much. Ib. [95]
- 10 DUKE:
And what's her history?
- VIOLA:
A blank, my lord. She never told her love,
But let concealment, like a worm i' the bud,
Feed on her damask cheek: she pin'd in thought;
And with a green and yellow melancholy,
She sat like patience on a monument,
Smiling at grief. Was not this love indeed?
We men may say more, swear more, but, indeed,
Our shows are more than will, for still we prove
Much in our vows, but little in our love.
Twelfth Night, II. iv. [111]
- 11 I am all the daughters of my father's house,
And all the brothers too. Ib. [122]
- 12 How now, my metal of India! Ib. v. [17]
- 13 Here comes the trout that must be caught with tickling Ib. [25]
- 14 Contemplation makes a rare turkey-cock of him.
how he jets under his advanced plumes! Ib. [35]
- 15 In my branched velvet gown. Ib. [54]
- 16 Now is the woodcock near the gin. Ib. [93]
- 17 I may command where I adore. Ib. [116]
- 18 But be not afraid of greatness: some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them. Ib. [158]
- 19 Let thy tongue tang arguments of state; put thyself into the trick of singularity. She thus advises thee that sighs for thee. Remember who commended thy yellow stockings, and wished to see thee ever cross-gartered. Ib. [165]
- 20 Jove and my stars be praised! Here is yet a postscript.
Ib. [189]
- 21 He will come to her in yellow stockings, and 'tis a colour she abhors, and cross-gartered, a fashion
she detests. Ib. [220]
- 22 Now Jove, in his next commodity of hair, send thee
a beard. Ib. III. i. [51]

Twelfth Night, V. I. [388]
- 27 When that I was and a little tiny boy,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain;
A foolish thing was but a toy,
For the rain it raineth every day.
But when I came to man's estate,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain;
'Gainst knaves and thieves men shut their gates,
For the rain it raineth every day
But when I came, alas! to wive,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain;
By swaggering could I never thrive,
For the rain it raineth every day.
But when I came unto my beds,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain;
With toss-pots still had drunken heads,
For the rain it raineth every day
A great while ago the world begun,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain;
But that's all one, our play is done,
And we'll strive to please you every day.

That all our swains commend her?
Holy, fair, and wise is she,
The heaven such grace did lend her,
That she might admired be.
Is she kind as she is fair?
For beauty lives with kindness:
Love doth to her eyes repair,
To help him of his blindness;
And, being help'd, inhabits there.

- 18 Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?
Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,
And summer's lease hath all too short a date
Sometimes too hot the eye of heaven shines,
And often is his gold complexion dimm'd;
And every fair from fair sometime declines,
By chance, or nature's changing course untrimm'd,
But thy eternal summer shall not fade,
Nor lose possession of that fair thou ow'st,
Nor shall death brag thou wander'st in his shade,
When in eternal lines to time thou grow'st,
So long as men can breathe or eyes can see,
So long lives this, and this gives life to thee. Ib 18
- 19 My glass shall not persuade me I am old,
So long as youth and thou are of one date,
But when in thee time's furrows I behold,
Then look I death my days should expiate. Ib 22

- 24 When in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes
I all alone beweep my outcast state,
And trouble deaf heaven with my bootless cries,
And look upon myself and curse my fate,
Wishing me like to one more rich in hope,
Featur'd like him, like him with friends possess'd,
Desiring this man's art, and that man's scope,
With what I most enjoy contented least;
Yet in these thoughts myself almost despising,
Happy I think on thee,—and then my state,
Like to the lark at break of day arising
From sullen earth, sings hymns at heaven's gate,
For thy sweet love remember'd such wealth brings
That then I scorn to change my state with kings Ib 29
- 25 When to the sessions of sweet silent thought
I summon up remembrance of things past,
I sigh the lack of many a thing I sought,
And with old woes new wail my dear times' waste
Then can I drown an eye, unus'd to flow,
For precious friends hid in death's dateless night,
And weep afresh love's long since cancell'd woe,
And moan the expense of many a vanish'd sight
Then can I grieve at grievances foregone,
And heavily from woe to woe tell o'er
The sad account of fore-bemoaned moan,
Which I new pay as if not paid before
But if the while I think on thee, dear friend,
All losses are restor'd and sorrows end. Ib 30
- 26 But since he died, and poets better prove,
Theirs for their style I'll read, his for his love. Ib 32

SHAKESPEARE

- 1 Like stones of worth they thinly placed are,
Or captain jewels in the carconet. Sonnets, 52
- 2 What is your substance, whereof are you made,
That millions of strange shadows on you tend? Ib. 53
- 3 You in Grecian tires are painted new. Ib.
- 4 The spring and foison of the year. Ib.
- 5 O! how much more doth beauty beauteous seem
By that sweet ornament which truth doth give! Ib. 54
- 6 Not marble, nor the gilded monuments
Of princes, shall outlive this powerful rhyme Ib. 55
- 7 Being your slave, what should I do but tend Upon the hours and times of your desire?
I have no precious time at all to spend,
Nor services to do, till you require.
Nor dare I chide the world-without-end hour
Whilst I, my sovereign, watch the clock for you,
Nor think the bitterness of absence sour
When you have bid your servant once adieu;
Nor dare I question with my jealous thought
Where you may be, or your affairs suppose,
But like a sad slave, stay and think of nought
Save, where you are, how happy you make those.
So true a fool is love that in your will,
Though you do anything, he thinks no ill. Ib. 57
- 8 Like as the waves make towards the pebbled shore,
So do our minutes hasten to their end. Ib. 60
- 9 Time doth transfix the flourish set on youth
And delves the parallels in beauty's brow. Ib.
- 10 Sin of self-love possesseth all mine eye Ib. 62
- 11 When I have seen by Time's fell hand defac'd
The rich-proud cost of outworn buried age. Ib. 64
- 12 When I have seen the hungry ocean gain Advantage on the kingdom of the shore. Ib.
- 13 Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea,
But sad mortality o'ersways their power,
How with this rage shall beauty hold a plea,
Whose action is no stronger than a flower? Ib. 65
- 14 Tir'd with all these, for restful death I cry,
As to behold desert a beggar born,
And needy nothing trimm'd in jollity,
And purest faith unhappily forsworn,
And gilded honour shamefully misplac'd,
And maiden virtue rudely strumpeted,
And right perfection wrongfully disgrac'd,
And strength by lumping sway disabled,
And art made tongue-tied by authority,
And folly—doctor-like—controlling skill,
And simple truth miscall'd simplicity,
And captive good attending captain ill:
Tir'd with all these, from these I would be gone,
Save that, to die, I leave my love alone. Ib. 66
- 15 No longer mourn for me when I am dead
Than you shall hear the surly sullen bell
Give warning to the world that I am fled
From this vile world, with vilest worms to dwell. Ib. 71
- 16 That time of year thou mayst in me behold
When yellow leaves, or none, or few, do hang
Upon those boughs which shake against the cold,
Bare ruin'd choirs, where late the sweet birds sang.
- In me thou see'st the twilight of such day
As after sunset fadeth in the west;
Which by and by black night doth take away,
Death's second self, that seals up all in rest. Sonnets, 73
- 17 This thou perceiv'st, which makes thy love more
strong,
To love that well which thou must leave ere long. Ib.
- 18 So all my best is dressing old words new. Ib. 76
- 19 Like unletter'd clerk, still cry 'Amen'. Ib. 85
- 20 Was it the proud full sail of his great verse,
Bound for the prize of all too precious you,
That did my ripe thoughts in my brain inhearse,
Making their tomb the womb wherein they grew? Ib. 86
- 21 That affable familiar ghost
Which nightly gulls him with intelligence. Ib.
- 22 Farewell! thou art too dear for my possessing,
And like enough thou know'st thy estimate
The charter of thy worth gives thee releasing;
My bonds in thee are all determinate.
For how do I hold thee but by thy granting?
And for that riches where is my deserving?
The cause of this fair gift in me is wanting,
And so my patent back again is swerving.
Thyself thou gav'st, thy own worth then not knowing,
Or me, to whom thou gav'st it, else mistaking;
So thy great gift, upon misprision growing,
Comes home again, on better judgment making.
Thus have I had thee, as a dream doth flatter,
In sleep a king, but, waking, no such matter. Ib. 87
- 23 Ah, do not, when my heart hath 'scap'd this sorrow,
Come in the rearward of a conquer'd woe;
Give not a windy night a rainy morrow,
To linger out a purpos'd overthrow. Ib. 90
- 24 They that have power to hurt and will do none,
That do not do the thing they most do show,
Who, moving others, are themselves as stone,
Unmoved, cold, and to temptation slow. Ib. 94
- 25 They are the lords and owners of their faces,
Others but stewards of their excellence.
The summer's flower is to the summer sweet,
Though to itself it only live and die. Ib.
- 26 Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds. Ib.
- 27 How like a winter hath my absence been
From thee, the pleasure of the fleeting year!
What freezings have I felt, what dark days seen!
What old December's bareness every where! Ib. 97
- 28 From you have I been absent in the spring,
When proud-pied April, dress'd in all his trim,
Hath put a spirit of youth in every thing. Ib. 98
- 29 To me, fair friend, you never can be old,
For as you were when first your eye I ey'd,
Such seems your beauty still. Three winters cold
Have from the forests shook three summers' pride,
Three beauteous springs to yellow autumn turn'd
In process of the seasons have I seen,
Three April perfumes in three hot Junes burn'd,
Since first I saw you fresh, which yet are green.
Ah! yet doth beauty, like a dial-hand,
Steal from his figure, and no pace perceiv'd;
So your sweet hue, which methinks still doth stand,

SHAKESPEARE

- Hath motion, and mine eye may be deceiv'd:
For fear of which, hear this, thou age unbred:
Ere you were born was beauty's summer dead
Sonnets, 101
- 1 And beauty, making beautiful old rhyme. Ib 106
- 2 Not mine own fears, nor the prophetic soul
Of the wide world dreaming on things to come,
Can yet the lease of my true love control,
Suppos'd as forfeit to a confin'd doom
The mortal moon hath her eclipse endur'd,
And the sad augurs mock their own presage. Ib 107
- 3 And thou in this shalt find thy monument,
When tyrants' crests and tombs of brass are spent. Ib
- 4 O! never say that I was false of heart,
'Though absence seem'd my flame to qualify. Ib 109
- 5 'Alas! 'tis true I have gone here and there,
And made myself a motley to the view,
God's mine own thoughts, sold cheap what is most dear
Made old offences of affections new;
Most true it is that I have look'd on truth
Askance and strangely, but, by all above,
'These blenches gave my heart another youth,
And worse essays prov'd thee my best of love
Ib 110
- 6 My nature is subdu'd
To what it works in, like the dyer's hand,
Pity me, then, and wish I were renew'd. Ib 111
- 7 Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments Love is not love
Which alters when it alteration finds,
Or bends with the remover to remove:
O, no! it is an ever-fixed mark,
'That looks on tempests and is never shaken,
It is the star to every wandering bark,
Whose worth's unknown, although his height be taken
Love's not Time's fool, though rosy lips and cheeks
Within his bending sickle's compass come,
Love alters not with his brief hours and weeks,
But bears it out even to the edge of doom.
If this be error, and upon me prov'd,
I never writ, nor no man ever lov'd Ib 116
- 8 What potions have I drunk of Siren tears,
Distill'd from lunbecks foul as hell within. Ib 119
- 9 O benefit of ill! now I find true
'That better is by evil still made better. Ib
- 10 'Tis better to be vile than vile esteem'd,
When not to be receives reproach of being. Ib 121
- 11 'The expense of spirit in a waste of shame
Is lust in action; and till action, lust
Is perjur'd, murderous, bloody, full of blame,
Savage, extreme, rude, cruel, not to trust. Ib 129
- 12 Mad in pursuit, and in possession so;
Had, having, and in quest to have, extreme,
A bliss in proof,—and prov'd, a very woe;
Before, a joy propos'd; behind, a dream.
All this the world well knows, yet none knows well
To shun the heaven that leads men to this hell. Ib
- 13 My mistress' eyes are nothing like the sun;
Coral is far more red than her lips' red:
If snow be white, why then her breasts are dun;
If hairs be wires, black wires grow on her head
Ib 130
- 14 And yet, by heaven, I think my love as rare
As any she belied with false compare. Sonnets, 130
- 15 Whoever hath her wish, thou hast thy Will,
And Will to boot, and Will in over-plus Ib 135
- 16 When my love swears that she is made of truth,
I do believe her, though I know she lies Ib 138
- 17 Lo, as a careful housewife runs to catch
One of her feather'd creatures broke away. Ib 143
- 18 Two loves I have of comfort and despair,
Which like two spirits do suggest me still.
The better angel is a man right fair,
'The worse spirit a woman colour'd ill. Ib 141
- 19 Yet this shall I ne'er know, but live in doubt,
Till my bad angel fire my good one out Ib
- 20 Poor soul, the centre of my sinful earth,
[Fool'd by] these rebel powers that thee array,
Why dost thou pine within and suffer dearth,
Painting thy outward walls so costly gay?
Why so large cost, having so short a lease,
Dost thou upon thy fading mansion spend? Ib 146
- 21 So shalt thou feed on Death, that feeds on men,
And Death once dead, there's no more dying then Ib
- 22 For I have sworn thee fair, and thought thee bright,
Who art as black as hell, as dark as night Ib 147
- 23 Love is too young to know what conscience is,
Yet who knows not conscience is born of love? Ib 151
- 24 The first heir of my invention.
Venus and Adonis, Preface.
- 25 Hunting he lov'd, but love he laugh'd to scorn.
Ib l. 4
- 26 Bid me discourse, I will enchant thine ear,
Or like a fairy trip upon the green,
Or, like a nymph, with long dishevell'd hair,
Dance on the sands, and yet no footing seen:
Love is a spirit all compact of fire,
Not gross to sink, but light, and will aspire. Ib l. 145
- 27 Round-hoof'd, short-jointed, fetlocks shag and long,
Broad breast, full eye, small head and nostril wide,
High crest, short ears, straight legs and passing
strong,
Thin mane, thick tail, broad buttock, tender hide:
Look, what a horse should have he did not lack,
Save a proud rider on so proud a back Ib l. 295
- 28 By this, poor Wat, far off upon a hill,
Stands on his hinder legs with listening ear,
'To hearken if his foes pursue him still. Ib l. 697
- 29 Good friend, for Jesu's sake forbear
To dig the dust enclosed here
Blest be the man that spares these stones,
And curst be he that moves my bones.
Shakespeare's Epitaph (chosen by himself for his tomb at Stratford-on-Avon)
- 30 Item, I give unto my wife my second best bed, with the furniture. Will, 1616

- 1 O Britannia, the pride of the ocean,
The home of the brave and the free,
The shrine of the sailor's devotion,
No land can compare unto thee!

- 2 All great truths begin as blasphemies.
Annajanska (1919), p. 262
- 3 One man that has a mind and knows it, can always beat ten men who havnt and dont.
The Apple Cart (1930), Act I
- 4 What Englishman will give his mind to politics as long as he can afford to keep a motor car? Ib.
- 5 I never resist temptation, because I have found that things that are bad for me do not tempt me.
Ib. Act II
- 6 You can always tell an old soldier by the inside of his holsters and cartridge boxes. The young ones carry pistols and cartridges the old ones, grub.
Arms and the Man, Act I
- 7 I never apologize. Ib. Act III
- 8 You're not a man, you're a machine. Ib.
- 9 When a stupid man is doing something he is ashamed of, he always declares that it is his duty.
Cæsar and Cleopatra, Act III
- 10 He who has never hoped can never despair.
Ib. Act IV
- 11 A man of great common sense and good taste,—meaning thereby a man without originality or moral courage. Ib. Notes. Julius Cæsar
- 12 We have no more right to consume happiness without producing it than to consume wealth without producing it. Candida, Act I
- 13 Do you think that the things people make fools of themselves about are any less real and true than the things they behave sensibly about? Ib.
- 14 It is easy—terribly easy—to shake a man's faith in himself. To take advantage of that to break a man's spirit is devil's work. Ib.
- 15 I'm only a beer teetotaller, not a champagne tee-
totaller. Ib. Act III
- 16 The worst sin towards our fellow creatures is not to hate them, but to be indifferent to them: that's the essence of inhumanity. The Devil's Disciple, Act II
- 17 I never expect a soldier to think. Ib. Act III
- 18 The British soldier can stand up to anything except the British War Office. Ib.
- 19 Stimulate the phagocytes.
The Doctor's Dilemma (1906), Act I
- 20 All professions are conspiracies against the laity. Ib.

- 21 I believe in Michael Angelo, Velasquez, and Rembrandt, in the might of design, the mystery of color,
the redemption of all things by Beauty everlasting,
and the message of Art that has made these hands
blessed. The Doctor's Dilemma (1906), Act IV
- 22 With the single exception of Homer, there is no eminent writer, not even Sir Walter Scott, whom I can despise so entirely as I despise Shakespeare when I measure my mind against his . . . It would positively be a relief to me to dig him up and throw stones at him.

- 23 Parentage is a very important profession; but no test of fitness for it is ever imposed in the interest of the children.
Everybody's Political What's What, ch. ix, p. 74
- 24 It's all that the young can do for the old, to shock
them and keep them up to date.
Fanny's First Play (1911), Induction
- 25 You don't expect me to know what to say about a play when I don't know who the author is, do you?
. . . If it's by a good author, it's a good play, naturally.
That stands to reason. Ib. Epilogue
- 26 What God hath joined together no man shall ever put asunder God will take care of that.
Getting Married (1911), p. 216
- 27 When you loved me I gave you the whole sun and stars to play with. I gave you eternity in a single moment, strength of the mountains in one clasp of your arms, and the volume of all the seas in one impulse of your soul. Ib. p. 278
- 28 We possessed all the universe together; and you ask me to give you my scanty wages as well. I have given you the greatest of all things; and you ask me to give you little things. I gave you your own soul: you ask me for my body as a plaything. Was it not enough? Was it not enough? Ib.
- 29 I cannot bear men and women.
Heartbreak House (1919), Act II
- 30 Go anywhere in England, where there are natural, wholesome, contented, and really nice English people, and what do you always find? That the stables are the real centre of the household.
Ib. Act III
- 31 The captain is in his bunk, drinking bottled ditch-water; and the crew is gambling in the fore-castle.
She will strike and sink and split. Do you think the laws of God will be suspended in favour of England because you were born in it? Ib.
- 32 Money is indeed the most important thing in the world; and all sound and successful personal and national morality should have this fact for its basis.
The Irrational Knot (1905), Preface, p. xiv
- 33 Though the Life Force supplies us with its own purpose, it has no other brains to work with than those it has painfully and imperfectly evolved in our heads. Ib. p. xxv
- 34 Reminiscences make one feel so deliciously aged and
sad. Ib. ch. 14

- 12 A lifetime of happiness no man alive could bear it it would be hell on earth. Ib Act I
- 13 The more things a man is ashamed of, the more respectable he is Ib
- 14 Vitality in a woman is a blind fury of creation Ib
- 15 The true artist will let his wife starve, his children go barefoot, his mother chudge for his living at seventy, sooner than work at anything but his art Ib
- 16 Is the devil to have all the passions as well as all the good runes? Ib,
- 17 Never mind her; go on talking. Ib
- 18 You think that you are Ann's suitor, that you are the pursuer and she the pursued, that it is your part to woo, to persuade, to prevail, to overcome Fool. it is you who are the pursued, the marked-down quarry, the destined prey. Ib, Act II
- 19 Mariv Ann, and at the end of a week you'll find no more inspiration in her than in a plate of muffins Ib.
- 20 Hell is full of musical amateurs music is the brandy of the damned. Ib, Act III
- 21 An Englishman thinks he is moral when he is only uncomfortable Ib.
- 22 As an old soldier I admit the cowardice it's as universal as seasickness, and matters just as little. Ib.
- 23 When the military man approaches, the world locks up its spoons and packs off its womankind. Ib.
- 24 What is virtue but the Trade Unionism of the married? Ib.
- 25 Those who talk most about the blessings of marriage and the constancy of its vows are the very people who declare that if the chain were broken and the prisoners left free to choose, the whole social fabric would fly asunder. You cannot have the argument both ways. If the prisoner is happy, why lock him in? If he is not, why pretend that he is? Man and Superman (1903), Act III
- 26 There are two tragedies in life. One is not to get your heart's desire The other is to get it Ib Act IV

MARY WOLLSTONECRAFT SHELLEY

1797-1851

12 Mrs. Shelley was choosing a school for her son, and asked the advice of this lady, who gave for advice—to use her own words to me—"Just the sort of banality, you know, one does come out with: "Oh, send him somewhere where they will teach him to think for himself!" . . . Mrs. Shelley answered:
"Teach him to think for himself? Oh, my God, teach him rather to think like other people!"

PERCY BYSSHE SHELLEY

1792-1822

13 It might make one in love with death, to think that one should be buried in so sweet a place.

Adonais. Preface

14 I weep for Adonais—he is dead!
O, weep for Adonais! though our tears
Thaw not the frost which binds so dear a head!
Ib. I

15 Most musical of mourners, weep again!
Lament anew, Urania!—He died,
Who was the Sire of an immortal strain,
Blind, old, and lonely, when his country's pride,
The priest, the slave, and the liberticide,
Trampled and mocked with many a loathed rite
Of lust and blood; he went, unterrified,
Into the gulf of death, but his clear Sprite
Yet reigns o'er earth, the third among the sons of light. Ib. IV

16 But now, thy youngest, dearest one, has perished—
The nursling of thy widowhood. Ib. VI

17 To that high Capital, where kingly Death
Keeps his pale court in beauty and decay,
He came. Ib. VII

18 He will awake no more, oh, never more! Ib. VIII

19 The quick Dreams,
The passion-winged Ministers of thought. Ib. IX

20 Lost Angel of a ruin'd Paradise!
She knew not 'twas her own; as with no stain
She faded, like a cloud which had outwept its rain.
Ib. X

21 Desires and Adorations,
Wingèd Persuasions and veiled Destinies,
Splendours, and Glooms, and glimmering Incarnations
Of hopes and fears, and twilight Phantasies;
And Sorrow, with her family of Sighs,
And Pleasure, blind with tears, led by the gleam
Of her own dying smile instead of eyes,
Came in slow pomp. Ib. XIII

22 Ah, woe is me! Winter is come and gone,
But grief returns with the revolving year. Ib. XVIII

23 The great morning of the world when first
God dawned on Chaos. Ib. XIX

24 Alas! that all we loved of him should be,
But for our grief, as if it had not been,
And grief itself be mortal! Ib. XXI

25 Whence are we, and why are we? Of what scene
The actors or spectators? Ib.

26 As long as skies are blue, and fields are green,
Evening must usher night, night urge the morrow,
Month follow month with woe, and year wake year to sorrow. Ib.

27 Why didst thou leave the trodden paths of men
Too soon, and with weak hands though mighty heart
Dare the unpastured dragon in his den?
Defenceless as thou wert, oh, where was then
Wisdom the mirrored shield, or scorn the spear?
Ib. XXVII

28 The herded wolves, bold only to pursue;
The obscene ravens, clamorous o'er the dead.
Ib. XXVIII

SHELLEY

- 1 The Pilgrim of Eternity, whose fame
Over his living head like Heaven is bent,
An early but enduring monument,
Came, veiling all the lightnings of his song
In sorrow. Adonais, xxx
- 2 A pard-like Spirit, beautiful and swift—
A Love in desolation masked,—a Power
Girt round with weakness;—it can scarce uplift
The weight of the superincumbent hour,
It is a dying lamp, a falling shower,
A breaking billow,—even whilst we speak
Is it not broken? Ib. xxxiii
- 3 A herd-abandoned deer struck by the hunter's dart
Ib. xxxiii
- 4 Our Adonais has drunk poison—oh!
What deaf and viperous murderer could crown
Life's early cup with such a draught of woe?
Ib. xxxvi
- 5 He wakes or sleeps with the enduring dead;
Thou canst not soar where he is sitting now—
Dust to the dust! but the pure spirit shall flow
Back to the burning fountain whence it came,
A portion of the Eternal. Ib. xxxviii
- 6 He hath awakened from the dream of life—
'Tis we, who lost in stormy visions, keep
With phantoms an unprofitable strife,
And in mad trance, strike with our spirit's knife
Invulnerable nothings Ib. xxxix
- 7 He has out-soared the shadow of our night;
Envy and calumny and hate and pain,
And that unrest which men miscall delight,
Can touch him not and torture not again;
From the contagion of the world's slow stain
He is secure, and now can never mourn
A heart grown cold, a head grown grey in vain
Ib. xl
- 8 He lives, he wakes,—'tis Death is dead, not he.
Ib. xli
- 9 He is made one with Nature: there is heard
His voice in all her music, from the moan
Of thunder, to the song of night's sweet bird. Ib. xlii
- 10 He is a portion of the loveliness
Which once he made more lovely. Ib. xliii
- 11 The inheritors of unfulfilled renown
Rose from their thrones, built beyond mortal thought,
Far in the Unapparent. Ib. xlv
- 12 Sublimely mild, a Spirit without spot. [Sidney.] Ib.
- 13 Oblivion as they rose shrank like a thing reprov'd.
Ib.
- 14 What Adonais is, why fear we to become? Ib. li
- 15 The One remains, the many change and pass;
Heaven's light forever shines, Earth's shadows fly;
Life, like a dome of many-coloured glass,
Stains the white radiance of Eternity. Ib. lii
- 16 The soul of Adonais, like a star,
Beacons from the abode where the Eternal are.
Ib. lv
- 17 The lone Chorasman shore. Alastor, l. 272
- 18 But thou art fled
Like some frail exhalation. Ib. l. 686
- 19 Pale despair and cold tranquillity,
Nature's vast frame, the web of human things,
Birth and the grave, that are not as they were. Alastor, l. 718
- 20 Arethusa arose
From her couch of snows
In the Acroceranian mountains,—
From cloud and from crag,
With many a jag,
Shepherding her bright fountains. Arethusa
- 21 Like friends once parted
Grown single-hearted. Ib.
- 22 'Do you not hear the Aziola cry?
Methinks she must be nigh,'
Said Mary as we sate
In dusk, ere stars were lit, or candles brought;
And I, who thought
This Aziola was some tedious woman,
Asked, 'Who is Aziola?' The Aziola
- 23 Give yourself no unnecessary pain,
My dear Lord Cardinal. Here, Mother, tie
My girdle for me, and bind up this hair
In any simple knot; ay, that does well.
And yours I see is coming down. How often
Have we done this for one another; now
We shall not do it any more. My Lord,
We are quite ready. Well, 'tis very well
The Cenci, v. iv. 158
- 24 A widow bird sate mourning for her love
Upon a wintry bough;
The frozen wind crept on above,
The freezing stream below.
There was no leaf upon the forest bare,
No flower upon the ground,
And little motion in the air
Except the mill-wheel's sound.
Charles the First, sc. v. l. 10
- 25 I bring fresh showers for the thirsting flowers,
From the seas and the streams;
I bear light shade for the leaves when laid
In their noonday dreams. The Cloud
- 26 I wield the flail of the lashing hail,
And whiten the green plains under,
And then again I dissolve it in rain,
And laugh as I pass in thunder. Ib.
- 27 I sift the snow on the mountains below,
And their great pines groan aghast,
And all the night 'tis my pillow white,
While I sleep in the arms of the blast.
Sublime on the towers of my skiey bowers,
Lightning my pilot sits;
In a cavern under is fettered the thunder,
It struggles and howls at fits. Ib.
- 28 And I all the while bask in Heaven's blue smile,
Whilst he is dissolving in rains. Ib.
- 29 That orb'd marden, with white fire laden,
Whom mortals call the Moon,
Glides glimmering o'er my fleece-like floor,
By the midnight breezes strewn;
And wherever the beat of her unseen feet,
Which only the angels hear,
May have broken the woof of my tent's thin roof,
The stars peep behind her and peer;
And I laugh to see them whirl and flee
Like a swarm of golden bees,

SHELLEY

- When I widen the rent in my wind-built tent,
Till the calm rivers, lakes, and seas,
Like strips of the sky fallen through me on high,
Are each paved with the moon and these.
The Cloud
- 1 I am the daughter of Earth and Water,
And the nursling of the Sky,
I pass through the pores of the ocean and shores;
I change, but I cannot die.
For after the rain when with never a stain
The pavilion of Heaven is bare,
And the winds and sunbeams with their convex gleams
Build up the blue dome of air,
I silently laugh at my own cenotaph,
And out of the caverns of rain,
Like a child from the womb, like a ghost from the tomb,
I arise and unbuild it again. Ib.
How wonderful is Death,
Death and his brother Sleep!
One pale as yonder wan and horned moon,
With lips of lurid blue,
The other glowing like the vital morn,
When throned on ocean's wave
It breathes over the world.
Yet both so passing strange and wonderful!
The Daemon of the World, Part 1, l. 1
- 3 My Song, I fear that thou wilt find but few
Who fitly shall conceive thy reasoning,
Of such hard matter dost thou entertain.
Epipsychidion Advertisement
- 4 My last delight! tell them that they are dull,
And bid them own that thou art beautiful. Ib.
- 5 Sweet as stops
Of planetary music heard in trance. Ib. l. 85
- 6 The spirit of the worm beneath the sod
In love and worship, blends itself with God. Ib. l. 128
- 7 The fields of Immortality. Ib. l. 133
- 8 Are we not formed, as notes of music are,
For one another, though dissimilar. Ib. l. 142
- 9 I never was attached to that great sect,
Whose doctrine is, that each one should select
Out of the crowd a mistress or a friend,
And all the rest, though fair and wise, commend
To cold oblivion. Ib. l. 149
- 10 Who travel to their home among the dead
By the broad highway of the world, and so
With one chained friend, perhaps a jealous foe,
The dreariest and the longest journey go. Ib. l. 156
- 11 True Love in this differs from gold and clay,
That to divide is not to take away. Ib. l. 160
- 12 A ship is floating in the harbour now,
A wind is hovering o'er the mountain's brow;
There is a path on the sea's azure floor,
No keel has ever ploughed that path before. Ib. l. 408
- 13 An isle under Ionian skies,
Beautiful as a wreck of Paradise. Ib. l. 422
- 14 Day and night, aloof, from the high towers
And terraces, the Earth and Ocean seem
To sleep in one another's arms, and dream
Of waves, flowers, clouds, woods, rocks, and all that we Read in their smiles, and call reality. Ib. l. 508
- 15 I pant, I sink, I tremble, I expire!
Epipsychidion, l. 591
- 16 Chameleons feed on light and air.
Poets' food is love and fame. An Exhortation
- 17 And bloody Faith the foulest birth of time.
Feelings of a Republican
- 18 Time's printless torrent grew
A scroll of crystal, blazoning the name
Of Adonais! Fragment on Keats
- 19 My head is wild with weeping.
Fragment: My head is wild
- 20 My spirit like a charmed bark doth swim
Upon the liquid waves of thy sweet singing.
Fragment: To One Singing
- 21 Good-night? ah! no; the hour is ill
Which severs those it should unite;
Let us remain together still,
Then it will be good night. Good Night
- 22 To hearts which near each other move
From evening close to morning light,
The night is good, because, my love,
They never say good-night. Ib.
- 23 Life may change, but it may fly not;
Hope may vanish, but can die not;
Truth be veiled, but still it burneth,
Love repulsed,—but it returneth! Hellas, l. 34
- 24 Let there be light! said Liberty,
And like sunrise from the sea,
Athens arose! Ib. l. 682
- 25 The world's great age begins anew,
The golden years return,
The earth doth like a snake renew
Her winter weeds outworn;
Heaven smiles, and faiths and empires gleam,
Like wrecks of a dissolving dream.
A brighter Hellas rears its mountains
From waves serener far;
A new Peneus rolls his fountains
Against the morning star.
Where fairer Tempes bloom, there sleep
Young Cyclads on a sunnier deep.
A loftier Argo cleaves the main,
Fraught with a later prize;
Another Orpheus sings again,
And loves, and weeps, and dies.
A new Ulysses leaves once more
Calypso for his native shore. Ib. l. 1060
- 26 Riddles of death Thebes never knew. Ib. l. 1083
- 27 Another Athens shall arise,
And to remoter time
Bequeath, like sunset to the skies,
The splendour of its prime;
And leave, if nought so bright may live,
All earth can take or Heaven can give.
Saturn and Love their long repose
Shall burst, more bright and good
Than all who fell, than One who rose,
Than many unsubdued:
Not gold, not blood, their altar dowers,
But votive tears and symbol flowers.

SHELLEY

- Oh cease! must hate and death return?
Cease! must men kill and die?
Cease! drain not to its dregs the urn
Of bitter prophecy
The world is weary of the past,
Oh, might it die or rest at last! Hellas, l. 1090
- 1 I am the eye with which the Universe
Beholds itself and knows itself divine;
All harmony of instrument or verse,
All prophecy, all medicine is mine,
All light of art or nature,—to my song
Victory and praise in its own right belong. Hymn of Apollo
- 2 I pursued a maiden and clasped a reed
Gods and men, we are all deluded thus!
It breaks in our bosom and then we bleed. Hymn of Pan
- 3 The awful shadow of some unseen Power
Floats though unseen among us,—visiting
This various world with its inconstant wing
As summer winds that creep from flower to flower. Hymn to Intellectual Beauty
- 4 Spirit of Beauty, that dost consecrate
With thine own hues all thou dost shine upon
Of human thought or form. Ib
- 5 While yet a boy I sought for ghosts, and sped
Through many a listening chamber, cave and ruin,
And starlight wood, with fearful steps pursuing
Hopes of high talk with the departed dead.
I called on poisonous names with which our youth is fed Ib
- 6 The day becomes more solemn and serene
When noon is past—there is a harmony
In autumn, and a lustre in its sky,
Which through the summer is not heard or seen,
As if it could not be, as if it had not been! Ib
- 7 I arise from dreams of thee
In the first sweet sleep of night.
When the winds are breathing low,
And the stars are shining bright
I arise from dreams of thee,
And a spirit in my feet
Hath led me—who knows how?
To thy chamber window, Sweet!

The wandering airs they faint
On the dark, the silent stream—
The Champak odours fail
Like sweet thoughts in a dream;
The nightingale's complaint,
It dies upon her heart,—
As I must on thine,
Oh, beloved as thou art!

Oh lift me from the grass!
I die! I faint! I fail!
Let thy love in kisses rain
On my lips and eyelids pale.
My cheek is cold and white, alas!
My heart beats loud and fast,—
Oh! press it to thine own again,
Where it will break at last. The Indian Serenade
- 8 Best and brightest, come away!
Fairer far than this fair day. To Jane. The Invitation
- 9 I am gone into the fields
To take what this sweet hour yields;—
Reflection, you may come to-morrow,
Sit by the fireside with Sorrow —
You with the unpaid bill, Despair,—
You, tiresome verse-reciter, Care,—
I will pay you in the grave,—
Death will listen to your stave. To Jane. The Invitation
- 10 The daisy-star that never sets,
And wind-flowers, and violets,
Which yet join not scent to hue. Ib.
- 11 Soothed by every azure breath
That under Heaven is blown. To Jane. The Recollection
- 12 Less oft is peace in Shelley's mind,
Than calm in waters, seen Ib
- 13 I love all waste
And solitary places, where we taste
The pleasure of believing what we see
Is boundless, as we wish our souls to be Julian and Maddalo, l. 14
- 14 Thou Paradise of exiles, Italy! Ib l. 57
- 15 It is our will
That thus enchains us to permitted ill—
We might be otherwise—we might be all
We dream of happy, high, majestic! Ib. l. 170
- 16 Me—who am as a nerve o'er which do creep
The else unfelt oppressions of this earth Ib. l. 449
- 17 Most wretched men
Are cradled into poetry by wrong
They learn in suffering what they teach in song Ib l. 543
- 18 O world! O life! O time!
On whose last steps I climb,
Trembling at that where I had stood before,
When will return the glory of your prime?
No more—Oh, never more! A Lament
- 19 Fresh spring, and summer, and winter hoar,
Move my faint heart with grief, but with delight
No more—Oh never more! Ib.
- 20 When the lamp is shattered
The light in the dust lies dead—
When the cloud is scattered
The rainbow's glory is shed.
When the lute is broken,
Sweet tones are remembered not,
When the lips have spoken,
Loved accents are soon forgot. Lines. When the Lamp
- 21 When hearts have once mingled
Love first leaves the well-built nest,
The weak one is singled
To endure what it once possessed.
O Love! who bewailest
The frailty of all things here,
Why choose you the frailest
For your cradle, your home, and your bier? Ib.
- 22 Many a green isle needs must be
In the deep wide sea of misery,
Or the inanner, worn and wan,
Never thus could voyage on Lines written amongst the Euganean Hills, l. 1
- 23 Ay, many flowering islands lie
In the waters of wide Agony. Ib. l. 66

SHELLEY

- 1 Beneath is spread like a green sea
The waveless plain of Lombardy,
Bounded by the vaporous air,
Islanded by cities fair;
Underneath Day's azure eyes
Ocean's nursling, Venice lies,
A peopled labyrinth of walls,
Amphitrite's destined halls.
Lines written amongst the Euganean Hills, l. 90
- 2 Sun-girt city, thou hast been
Ocean's child, and then his queen;
Now is come a darker day,
And thou soon must be his prey. Ib. l. 115
- 3 My spirit which so long
Darkened this swift stream of song. Ib. l. 311
- 4 Peopling the lone universe. Ib. l. 319
- 5 Other flowering isles must be
In the sea of Life and Agony. Ib. l. 335
- 6 What! alive, and so bold, O earth?
Lines written on hearing the News of the Death of Napoleon
- 7 The fountains mingle with the river,
And the rivers with the ocean,
The winds of heaven mix for ever
With a sweet emotion,
Nothing in the world is single;
All things, by a law divine,
In one another's being mingle.
Why not I with thine?—
See the mountains kiss high Heaven
And the waves clasp one another;
No sister-flower would be forgiven
If it disdained its brother,
And the sunlight clasps the earth
And the moonbeams kiss the sea:
What are all these kissings worth
If thou kiss not me? Love's Philosophy
- 8 Under the roof of blue Italian weather.
Letter to Maria Gisborne, l. 147
- 9 London, that great sea, whose ebb and flow
At once is deaf and loud, and on the shore
Vomits its wrecks, and still howls on for more.
Ib. l. 193
- 10 You will see Coleridge—he who sits obscure
In the exceeding lustre and the pure
Intense irradiation of a mind,
Which, through its own internal lightning blind,
Flags wearily through darkness and despair—
A cloud-encircled meteor of the air,
A hooded eagle among blinking owls.
You will see Hunt—one of those happy souls
Which are the salt of the earth, and without whom
This world would smell like what it is—a tomb.
Ib. l. 202
- 11 Have you not heard
When a man marries, dies, or turns Hindoo,
His best friends hear no more of him? Ib. l. 235
- 12 The milk-white Snowdonian antelope
Matched with this cameleopard. Ib. l. 239
- 13 His fine wit
Makes such a wound, the knife is lost in it.
[T. L. Peacock.] Ib. l. 240
- 14 Wit and sense,
Virtue and human knowledge, all that might
Make this dull world a business of delight,
Are all combined in Horace Smith.
Letter to Maria Gisborne, l. 247
- 15 I met Murder in the way—
He had a mask like Castlereagh.
The Mask of Anarchy, 11
- 16 Ye are many—they are few. Ib. xxxviii
- 17 Its horror and its beauty are divine.
The 'Medusa' of Leonardo da Vinci
- 18 Some say that gleams of a remoter world
Visit the soul in sleep,—that death is slumber,
And that its shapes the busy thoughts outnumber
Of those who wake and live Mont Blanc, l. 49
- 19 Art thou pale for weariness
Of climbing heaven, and gazing on the earth,
Wandering companionless
Among the stars that have a different birth,—
And ever changing, like a joyless eye
That finds no object worth its constancy? To the Moon
- 20 Nought may endure but Mutability. Mutability
- 21 Swiftly walk over the western wave,
Spirit of Night!
Out of the misty eastern cave,
Where, all the long and lone daylight,
Thou wovest dreams of joy and fear,
Which make thee terrible and dear,—
Swift be thy flight! To Night
- 22 Wrap thy form in a mantle gray,
Star-inwrought!
Blind with thine hair the eyes of Day;
Kiss her until she be wearied out,
Then wander o'er city, and sea, and land,
Touching all with thine opiate wand—
Come, long-sought! Ib.
- 23 Thy brother Death came, and cried,
Wouldst thou me?
Thy sweet child Sleep, the filmy-eyed,
Murmured like a noontide bee,
Shall I nestle near thy side?
Wouldst thou me? Ib.
- 24 Death will come when thou art dead,
Soon, too soon—
Sleep will come when thou art fled,
Of neither would I ask the boon
I ask of thee, beloved Night—
Swift be thine approaching flight,
Come soon, soon! Ib.
- 25 A glorious people vibrated again
The lightning of the nations. Ode to Liberty, l. 1
- 26 My soul spurned the chains of its dismay,
And in the rapid plumes of song
Clothed itself, sublime and strong,
(As a young eagle soars the morning clouds among.)
Ib. l. 5
- 27 When o'er the Aegean main
Athens arose: a city such as vision
Builds from the purple crags and silver towers
Of battlemented cloud, as in derision
Of kingliest masonry: the ocean-floors
Pave it; the evening sky pavilions it;
Its portals are inhabited
By thunder-zoned winds. Ib. l. 60

SHELLEY

- 1 Within the surface of Time's fleeting river
Its wrinkled image lies, as then it lay
Immovably unquiet, and for ever
It trembles, but it cannot pass away!
Ode to Liberty, l. 76
- 2 I stood within the City disinterred;
And heard the autumnal leaves like light footfalls
Of spirits passing through the streets; and heard
The Mountain's slumbrous voice at intervals
Thrill through those roofless halls.
Ode to Naples, l. 1
- 3 Long lost, late won, and yet but half-regained.
Ib. l. 58
- 4 O wild West Wind, thou breath of Autumn's being,
Thou, from whose unseen presence the leaves dead
Are driven, like ghosts from an enchanter fleeing,
Yellow, and black, and pale, and hectic red,
Pestilence-stricken multitudes. O thou,
Who chariotest to their dark wintry bed
The winged seeds, where they lie cold and low,
Each like a corpse within its grave, until Thine azure sister of the spring shall blow
Her clarion o'er the dreaming earth, and fill (Driving sweet buds like flocks to feed in air)
With living hues and odours plain and hill.
Wild Spirit, which art moving everywhere;
Destroyer and preserver; hear, oh, hear!
Ode to the West Wind, l. 1
- 5 Shook from the tangled boughs of Heaven and Ocean,
Angels of rain and lightning. Ib. l. 17
- 6 Like the bright hair uplifted from the head
Of some fierce Maenad. Ib. l. 20
- 7 Thou dirge
Of the dying year, to which this closing night
Will be the dome of a vast sepulchre. Ib. l. 23
- 8 Thou who didst waken from his summer dreams
The blue Mediterranean, where he lay,
Lulled by the coil of his crystalline streams
Beside a pumice isle in Baiae's bay,
And saw in sleep old palaces and towers
Quivering within the wave's intenser day,
All overgrown with azure moss and flowers
So sweet, the sense faints picturing them. Ib. l. 29
- 9 Far below
The sea-blooms and the oozy woods which wear
The sapless foliage of the ocean, know
Thy voice, and suddenly grow gray with fear,
And tremble and despoil themselves. Ib. l. 38
- 10 If I were a dead leaf thou mightest bear;
If I were a swift cloud to fly with thee;
A wave to pant beneath thy power, and share
The impulse of thy strength, only less free
Than thou, O uncontrollable! If even
I were as in my boyhood, and could be
The comrade of thy wanderings over Heaven,
As then, when to outstrip thy skiey speed
Scarce seemed a vision; I would ne'er have striven
As thus with thee in prayer in my sore need,
Oh, lift me as a wave, a leaf, a cloud!
I fall upon the thorns of life! I bleed! Ib. l. 43
- 11 Make me thy lyre, even as the forest is:
What if my leaves are falling like its own?
The tumult of thy mighty harmonies
Will take from both a deep, autumnal tone,
Sweet though in sadness. Be thou, Spirit fierce,
My spirit! Be thou me, impetuous one!
Drive my dead thoughts over the universe
Like withered leaves to quicken a new birth!
And, by the incantation of this verse,
Scatter, as from an unextinguished hearth
Ashes and sparks, my words among mankind!
Be through my lips to unawakened earth
The trumpet of a prophecy! O, Wind,
If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?
Ode to the West Wind, 57
- 12 Or anything, as the learned Boar observed.
Oedipus Tyrannus, II. i. 105
- 13 I met a traveller from an antique land
Who said Two vast and trunkless legs of stone
Stand in the desert. Ozymandias
- 14 My name is Ozymandias, king of kings
Look on my works, ye Mighty, and despair! Ib.
- 15 Nothing beside remains. Round the decay
Of that colossal wreck, boundless and bare
The lone and level sands stretch far away Ib.
- 16 Hell is a city much like London—
A populous and smoky city.
Peter Bell the Third, pt. 3. Hell, i
- 17 But from the first 'twas Peter's drift
To be a kind of moral eunuch,
He touched the hem of Nature's shift,
Felt faint—and never dared uplift
The closest, all-concealing tunic. Ib. pt. 4. Sin, xi
- 18 Ere Babylon was dust,
The Magus Zoroaster, my dead child,
Met his own image walking in the garden,
That apparition, sole of men, he saw.
Prometheus Unbound, I, l. 191
- 19 Dreams and the light imaginings of men,
And all that faith creates or love desires,
Terrible, strange, sublime and beauteous shapes. Ib. 200
- 20 Cruel he looks, but calm and strong,
Like one who does, not suffers wrong. Ib. 238
- 21 It doth repent me: words are quick and vain;
Grief for awhile is blind, and so was mine.
I wish no living thing to suffer pain. Ib. 303
- 22 Kingly conclaves stern and cold
Where blood with guilt is bought and sold. Ib. 530
- 23 See a disenchanted nation
Springs like day from desolation;
To Truth its state is dedicate,
And Freedom leads it forth, her mate. Ib. 567
- 24 The good want power, but to weep barren tears.
The powerful goodness want; worse need for them.
The wise want love; and those who love want wisdom. Ib. 625
- 25 Thy words are like a cloud of winged snakes;
And yet I pity those they torture not. Ib. 632
- 26 Peace is in the grave.
The grave hides all things beautiful and good:
I am a God and cannot find it there. Ib. 638

SHELLEY

- 1 The dust of creeds outworn.
Prometheus Unbound, I. 697
- 2 On a poet's lips I slept
Dreaming like a love-adept
In the sound his breathing kept;
Nor seeks nor finds he mortal blisses,
But feeds on the aerial kisses
Of shapes that haunt thought's wildernesses.
He will watch from dawn to gloom
The lake-reflected sun illumine
The yellow bees in the ivy-bloom,
Nor heed, nor see, what things they be;
But from these create he can
Forms more real than living man,
Nurslings of immortality! Ib. 737
- 3 That sense, which when the winds of Spring
In rarest visitation, or the voice
Of one beloved heard in youth alone,
Fills the faint eyes with falling tears which dim
The radiant looks of unbewailing flowers,
And leaves this peopled earth a solitude
When it returns no more. Ib. II iv. 12
- 4 To be
Omnipotent but friendless is to reign. Ib. 47
- 5 He gave man speech, and speech created thought,
Which is the measure of the universe. Ib. 73
- 6 All spirits are enslaved which serve things evil. Ib. 110
- 7 Fate, Time, Occasion, Chance, and Change? To these
All things are subject but eternal Love. Ib. 119
- 8 My coursers are fed with the lightning,
They drunk of the whirlwind's stream,
And when the red morning is bright'ning
They bathe in the fresh sunbeam. Ib. 163
- 9 Life of Life! thy lips enkindle
With their love the breath between them;
And thy smiles before they dwindle
Make the cold air fire; then screen them
In those looks, where whoso gazes
Faints, entangled in their mazes.
Child of Light! thy limbs are burning
Through the vest which seems to hide them;
As the radiant lines of morning
Through the clouds ere they divide them;
And this atmosphere divinest
Shrouds thee wheresoe'er thou shinest. Ib. v. 48
- 10 My soul is an enchanted boat,
Which, like a sleeping swan, doth float
Upon the silver waves of thy sweet singing. Ib. 72
- 11 Death is the veil which those who live call life:
They sleep, and it is lifted. Ib. III. III. 113
- 12 The loathsome mask has fallen, the man remains
Sceptreless, free, uncircumscribed, but man
Equal, unclassed, tribeless, and nationless,
Exempt from awe, worship, degree, the king
Over himself; just, gentle, wise: but man
Passionless?—no, yet free from guilt or pain,
Which were, for his will made or suffered them,
Nor yet exempt, though ruling them like slaves,
From chance, and death, and mutability,
The clogs of that which else might oversoar
The loftiest star of unascended heaven,
Pinnacled dim in the intense inane. Ib. 193
- 13 Familiar acts are beautiful through love. Ib. IV. 403
- 14 Language is a perpetual Orphic song,
Which rules with Daedal harmony a throng
Of thoughts and forms, which else senseless and shapeless were. Prometheus Unbound, IV. 415
- 15 Elysian, windless, fortunate abodes
Beyond Heaven's constellated wilderness. Ib. 531
- 16 A traveller from the cradle to the grave
Through the dim night of this immortal day. Ib. 551
- 17 To suffer woes which Hope thinks infinite;
To forgive wrongs darker than death or night;
To defy Power, which seems omnipotent,
To love, and bear; to hope till Hope creates
From its own wreck the thing it contemplates,
Neither to change, nor falter, nor repent,
This, like thy glory, Titan, is to be
Good, great and joyous, beautiful and free;
This is alone Life, Joy, Empire and Victory. Ib. 570
- 18 How wonderful is Death,
Death and his brother Sleep! Queen Mab, c. I, l. 1
- 19 That sweet bondage which is freedom's self. Ib. c. 9, l. 76
- 20 I dreamed that, as I wandered by the way,
Bare Winter suddenly was changed to Spring,
And gentle odours led my steps astray,
Mixed with a sound of water's murmuring
Along a shelving bank of turf, which lay
Under a copse, and hardly dared to fling
Its green arms round the bosom of the stream,
But kissed it and then fled, as thou mightst in dream. The Question
- 21 There grew pied wind-flowers and violets,
Daisies, those pearly Arcturi of the earth,
The constellated flower that never sets. Ib.
- 22 And in the warm hedge grew lush eglantine,
Green cowbind and the moonlight-coloured may,
And cherry-blossoms, and white cups, whose wine
Was the bright dew, yet drained not by the day;
And wild roses, and ivy serpentine,
With its dark buds and leaves, wandering astray;
And flowers azure, black, and streaked with gold,
Fairer than any wakened eyes behold. Ib.
- 23 And nearer to the river's trembling edge
There grew broad flag-flowers, purple, pranked with white,
And starry river buds among the sedge,
And floating water-lilies, broad and bright. Ib.
- 24 With hue like that when some great painter dips
His pencil in the gloom of earthquake and eclipse.
The Revolt of Islam, c. 5. xxiii
- 25 A Sensitive Plant in a garden grew.
The Sensitive Plant, pt. I, l. 1
- 26 And the rose like a nymph to the bath addressed,
Which unveiled the depth of her glowing breast,
Till, fold after fold, to the fainting air
The soul of her beauty and love lay bare. Ib. l. 29
- 27 And the jessamine faint, and the sweet tuberose,
The sweetest flower for scent that blows. Ib. l. 37
- 28 It is a modest creed, and yet
Pleasant if one considers it,
To own that death itself must be Like all the rest, a mockery. Ib. Conclusion

SHELLEY

- 1 Hail to thee, blithe Spirit!
Bird thou never wert,
That from Heaven, or near it,
Pourest thy full heart
In profuse strains of unpremeditated art.
To a Skylark
- 2 And singing still dost soar, and soaring ever singest
Ib.
- 3 Like an unbodied joy whose race is just begun. Ib.
- 4 Thou art unseen, but yet I hear thy shrill delight.
Ib.
- 5 Keen as are the arrows
Of that silver sphere,
Whose intense lamp narrows
In the white dawn clear
Until we hardly see,—we feel that it is there. Ib.
- 6 Like a Poet hidden
In the light of thought,
Singing hymns unbidden,
Till the world is wrought
To sympathy with hopes and fears it heeded not:
Like a high-born maiden
In a palace-tower,
Soothing her love-laden
Soul in secret hour
With music sweet as love, which overflows her bower.
Ib.
- 7 Chorus Hymeneal,
Or triumphal chant,
Matched with thine would be all
But an empty vaunt,
A thing wherein we feel there is some hidden want.
Ib.
- 8 What objects are the fountains
Of thy happy strain?
What fields, or waves, or mountains?
What shapes of sky or plain?
What love of thine own kind? what ignorance of pain?
Ib.
- 9 With thy clear keen joyance
Languor cannot be:
Shadow of annoyance
Never came near thee:
Thou lovest—but ne'er knew love's sad satiety.
Waking or asleep,
Thou of death must deem
Things more true and deep
Than we mortals dream,
Or how could thy notes flow in such a crystal stream?
We look before and after;
We pine for what is not;
Our sincerest laughter
With some pain is fraught;
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought.
Ib.
- 10 Better than all measures
Of delightful sound,
Better than all treasures
That in books are found,
Thy skill to poet were, thou scorner of the ground!
Teach me half the gladness
That thy brain must know,
Such harmonious madness
From my lips would flow
The world should listen then—as I am listening now.
Ib.
- 11 Rarely, rarely, comest thou,
Spirit of Delight! Song · Rarely, Rarely, Comest Thou
- 12 I love all that thou lovest,
Spirit of Delight
The fresh Earth in new leaves dressed,
And the starry night;
Autumn evening, and the morn
When the golden mists are born. Ib.
- 13 I love snow, and all the forms
Of the radiant frost. Ib.
- 14 Everything almost
Which is Nature's, and may be Untainted by man's misery. Ib.
- 15 I love tranquil solitude,
And such society
As is quiet, wise, and good;
Between thee and me
What difference? but thou dost possess
The things I seek, not love them less. Ib.
- 16 I love Love—though he has wings,
And like light can flee,
But above all other things,
Spirit, I love thee—
Thou art love and life! Oh, come,
Make once more my heart thy home. Ib.
- 17 Men of England, wherefore plough
For the lords who lay you low?
Song to the Men of England
- 18 An old, mad, blind, despised, and dying king.
Sonnet · England in 1819
- 19 Lift not the painted veil which those who live
Call Life. Sonnet. Lift not the Painted Veil
- 20 He sought,
For his lost heart was tender, things to love,
But found them not, alas! nor was there aught
The world contains, the which he could approve.
Through the unheeding many he did move,
A splendour among shadows, a bright blot
Upon this gloomy scene, a Spirit that strove
For truth, and like the Preacher found it not. Ib.
- 21 The City's voice itself is soft like Solitude's.
Stanzas Written in Dejection, near Naples
- 22 I see the waves upon the shore,
Like light dissolved in star-showers, thrown. Ib.
- 23 How sweet! did any heart now share in my emotion.
Ib.
- 24 Alas! I have nor hope nor health,
Nor peace within nor calm around,
Nor that content surpassing wealth
The sage in meditation found,
And walked with inward glory crowned. Ib.
- 25 I could lie down like a tired child,
And weep away the life of care
Which I have borne and yet must bear,
Till death like sleep might steal on me. Ib.
- 26 Away! the moor is dark beneath the moon,
Rapid clouds have drank the last pale beam of even.
Away! the gathering winds will call the darkness soon,
And profoundest midnight shroud the serene lights of heaven.
Stanzas.—April 1814: Away! the Moor is Dark

SHELLEY—SHERIDAN

1 Music, when soft voices die,
Vibrates in the memory—
Odours, when sweet violets sicken,
Live within the sense they quicken.
Rose leaves, when the rose is dead,
Are heaped for the beloved's bed;
And so thy thoughts, when thou art gone,
Love itself shall slumber on.

To——. Music, When Soft Voices

2 I fear thy kisses, gentle maiden,
Thou needest not fear mine;
My spirit is too deeply laden
Ever to burthen thine.
I fear thy mien, thy tones, thy motion,
Thou needest not fear mine;
Innocent is the heart's devotion
With which I worship thine.

To——. I Fear thy Kisses

3 One word is too often profaned
For me to profane it,
One feeling too falsely disdained
For thee to disdain it.

To——. One Word is too often Profaned

4 The desire of the moth for the star,
Of the night for the morrow,
The devotion to something afar
From the sphere of our sorrow. Ib.

5 And like a dying lady, lean and pale,
Who totters forth, wrapped in a gauzy veil.
The Waning Moon

6 A lovely lady, garmented in light
From her own beauty. The Witch of Atlas, v

7 For she was beautiful—her beauty made
The bright world dim, and everything beside Seemed like the fleeting image of a shade. Ib. xii

8 The rapid, blind
And fleeting generations of mankind. Ib. lxxi

9 In honoured poverty thy voice did weave
Songs consecrate to truth and liberty,—
Deserting these, thou leavest me to grieve,
Thus having been, that thou shouldst cease to be.

13 Whoe'er has travell'd life's dull round,
Where'er his stages may have been,
May sigh to think he still has found
The warmest welcome, at an inn.

At an Inn at Henley

14 My banks they are furnish'd with bees,
Whose murmur invites one to sleep;
My grottoes are shaded with trees,
And my hills are white over with sheep.

them to make them pass for their own. Ib.

24 The newspapers! Sir, they are the most villainous—licentious—abominable—infernal—Not that I ever read them—no—I make it a rule never to look into a newspaper. Ib.

25 If it is abuse—why one is always sure to hear of it from one damned good-natured friend or other! Ib.

26 Egad, I think the interpreter is the hardest to be understood of the two! Ib. ii

27 Yes, sir, puffing is of various sorts; the principal are,
the puff direct, the puff preliminary, the puff collateral, the puff collusive, and the puff oblique, or puff by implication. Ib.

28 No scandal about Queen Elizabeth, I hope? Ib. II. i

29 I open with a clock striking, to beget an awful attention in the audience: it also marks the time, which is four o'clock in the morning, and saves a description of the rising sun, and a great deal about gilding the eastern hemisphere. Ib. II

- 3 Burleigh comes forward, shakes his head, and exits.
SNEER: He is very perfect indeed. Now pray, what did he mean by that?

PUFF: Why, by that shake of the head, he gave you to understand that even though they had more justice in their cause and wisdom in their measures, yet, if there was not a greater spirit shown on the part of the people, the country would at last fall a sacrifice to the hostile ambition of the Spanish monarchy.
SNEER: The devil!—did he mean all that by shaking his head?
PUFF: Every word of it. If he shook his head as I taught him. Ib.

- 5 The glories of our blood and state
Are shadows, not substantial things;
There is no armour against fate;
Death lays his icy hand on kings:
Sceptre and crown
Must tumble down,
And in the dust be equal made
With the poor crooked scythe and spade.

Strong the tall ostrich on the ground;
Strong thro' the turbulent profound
Shoots xiphias to his aim.
Strong is the lion—like a coal
His eye-ball—like a bastion's mole
His chest against his foes:
Strong, the gier-eagle on his sail,
Strong against tide, th' enormous whale
Emerges as he goes.
Where ask is have, where seek is find,
Where knock is open wide. Ib. st. 75-77

Glorious th' assembled fires appear;
Glorious the comet's train:
Glorious the trumpet and alarm;
Glorious th' almighty stretch'd-out arm;
Glorious th' enraptur'd main.
Glorious the northern lights astream;
Glorious the song, when God's the theme;
Glorious the thunder's roar:
Glorious hosanna from the den;
Glorious the catholic amen;
Glorious the martyr's gore.
Glorious—more glorious is the crown
Of Him that brought salvation down
By meekness, call'd thy Son;
Thou that stupendous truth believ'd,
And now the matchless deed's achiev'd,
Determined, dared, and done. Ib. st. 84-86

- 16 Full little knowest thou that hast not tried,
What hell it is, in suing long to bide:
To lose good days, that might be better spent;
To waste long nights in pensive discontent;
To speed to-day, to be put back to-morrow;
To feed on hope, to pine with fear and sorrow;
To have thy Prince's grace, yet want her Peers';
To have thy asking, yet wait many years;
To fret thy soul with crosses and with cares;
To eat thy heart through comfortless despairs;
- To fawn, to crouch, to wait, to ride, to run,
To spend, to give, to want, to be undone,
Unhappy wight, born to disastrous end,
That doth his life in so long tendance spend.

- 19 Calm was the day, and through the trembling air,
Sweet breathing Zephyrus did softly play.
Prothalamion, l. 1
- 20 With that, I saw two Swans of goodly hue,
Come softly swimming down along the Lee;
Two fairer Birds I yet did never see.
The Snow which doth the top of Pindus strew,
Did never whiter show,
Nor Jove himself when he a Swan would be
For love of Leda, whiter did appear.
Yet Leda was they say as white as he,
Yet not so white as these, nor nothing near;
So purely white they were,
That even the gentle stream, the which them bare,
Seem'd foul to them, and bade his billows spare
To wet their silken feathers, lest they might Soil their fair plumes with water not so fair
And mar their beauties bright,
That shone as Heaven's light,
Against their Bridal day, which was not long:
Sweet Thames, run softly, till I end my Song.
Ib. l. 37
- 21 At length they all to merry London came,
To merry London, my most kindly nurse,
That to me gave this life's first native source:
Though from another place I take my name,
An house of ancient fame.
There when they came, whereas those bricky towers,
The which on Thames' broad aged back do ride,
Where now the studious Lawyers have their bowers
There whilom wont the Templar Knights to bide,
Till they decay'd through pride. Ib. l. 127

- 13 I believe in an ultimate decency of things.
Letter, 23 August 1893
- 14 In winter I get up at night
And dress by yellow candle-light.
In summer, quite the other way,—
I have to go to bed by day.
I have to go to bed and see
The birds still hopping on the tree,
Or hear the grown-up people's feet
Still going past me in the street.
And does it not seem hard to you,
When all the sky is clear and blue,
And I should like so much to play,
To have to go to bed by day?
A Child's Garden of Verses. 1. Bed in Summer
- 15 It is very nice to think
The world is full of meat and drink,
With little children saying grace
In every Christian kind of place. Ib. II. A Thought
- 16 A child should always say what's true,
And speak when he is spoken to,
And behave mannerly at table:
At least as far as he is able.
Ib. v. Whole Duty of Children
- 17 Fairy land,
Where all the children dine at five,
And all the playthings come alive.
Ib. VIII. Foreign Lands
- 18 When I am grown to man's estate
I shall be very proud and great,
And tell the other girls and boys
Not to meddle with my toys.
A Child's Garden of Verses, XII. Looking Forward
- 19 The pleasant land of counterpane.
Ib. XVI. The Land of Counterpane
- 20 The child that is not clean and neat,
With lots of toys and things to eat,
He is a naughty child, I'm sure—
Or else his dear papa is poor. Ib. XIX. System
- 21 The friendly cow, all red and white,
I love with all my heart—
She gives me cream with all her might,
To eat with apple-tart. Ib. XXIII. The Cow
- 22 The world is so full of a number of things,
I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings.
Ib. XXIV. Happy Thought
- 23 Children, you are very little,
And your bones are very brittle,
If you would grow great and stately,
You must try to walk sedately.
Ib. XXVII. Good and Bad Children
- 24 But the unkind and the unruly,
And the sort who eat unduly,
They must never hope for glory—
Theirs is quite a different story!
Cruel children, crying babies,
All grow up as geese and gabies,
Hated, as their age increases,
By their nephews and their nieces. Ib.
- 25 A birdie with a yellow bill
Hopped upon the window-sill,
Cocked his shining eye and said:
'Ain't you 'shamed, you sleepy-head?'
Ib. XXXIV. Time to Rise
- 26 Must we to bed indeed? Well then,
Let us arise and go like men,
And face with an undaunted tread
The long black passage up to bed.
Ib. XLI. North-West Passage. 1. Good-Night
- 27 Give to me the life I love,
Let the lave go by me,
Give the jolly heaven above
And the byway nigh me.
Bed in the bush with stars to see,
Bread I dip in the river—
There's the life for a man like me.
There's the life for ever.
Songs of Travel. 1. The Vagabond
- 28 Let the blow fall soon or late,
Let what will be o'er me;
Give the face of earth around
And the road before me.
Wealth I seek not, hope nor love,
Nor a friend to know me;
All I seek, the heaven above
And the road below me. Ib.
- 29 The untented Kosmos my abode,
I pass, a wilful stranger;
My mistress still the open road
And the bright eyes of danger.
Ib. II. Youth and Love

STEVENSON

- 1 Here, lady, lo! that servant stands
You picked from passing men,
And should you need nor heart nor hands
He bows and goes again
Songs of Travel. vii
- 2 I will make you brooches and toys for your delight
Of bird-song at morning and star-shine at night.
I will make a palace fit for you and me
Of green days in forests and blue days at sea.
I will make my kitchen, and you shall keep your room,
Where white flows the river and bright blows the broom,
And you shall wash your linen and keep your body
white
In rainfall at morning and dewfall at night. Ib. xi
- 3 Bright is the ring of words
When the right man rings them,
Fair the fall of songs
When the singer sings them.
Still they are carolled and said—
On wings they are carried—
After the singer is dead
And the maker buried. Ib. xiv
- 4 Low as the singer lies
In the field of heather,
Songs of his fashion bring
The swans together.
And when the west is red
With the sunset embers,
The lover lingers and sings
And the maid remembers. Ib.
- 5 In the highlands, in the country places,
Where the old plain men have rosy faces,
And the young fair maidens
Quiet eyes. Ib. xv
- 6 Trusty, dusky, vivid, true,
With eyes of gold and bramble-dew,
Steel-true and blade-straight,
The great artificer
Made my mate. Ib. xxv. My Wife
- 7 Sing me a song of a lad that is gone,
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to Skye. Ib. XLII
- 8 Mull was a-stern, Rum on the port,
Eigg on the starboard bow;
Glory of youth glowed in his soul,
Where is that glory now? Ib.
- 9 Blows the wind to-day, and the sun and the rain are flying,
Blows the wind on the moors to-day and now,
Where about the graves of the martyrs the whaups
are crying,
My heart remembers how!
Ib. XLV. To S. R. Crockett
- 10 Be it granted to me to behold you again in dying,
Hills of home! and to hear again the call;
Hear about the graves of the martyrs the peewees crying,
And hear no more at all.
- 11 Of all my verse, like not a single line;
But like my title, for it is not mine.
That title from a better man I stole;
Ah, how much better, had I stol'n the whole!
Underwoods. Foreword
- 12 Go, little book, and wish to all
Flowers in the garden, meat in the hall,
A bin of wine, a spice of wit,
A house with lawns enclosing it,
A living river by the door,
A nightingale in the sycamore!
Underwoods, bk. i. i. Envoy
- 13 The gauger walked with willing foot,
And aye the gauger played the flute,
And what should Master Gauger play
But 'Over the hills and far away'?
Ib. ii. A Song of the Road
- 14 There's nothing under Heav'n so blue
That's fairly worth the travelling to. Ib. iv
- 15 Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will
This be the verse you grave for me:
'Here he lies where he longed to be,
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill'
Ib. xxi. Requiem
- 16 If I have faltered more or less
In my great task of happiness;
If I have moved among my race
And shown no glorious morning face;
If beams from happy human eyes
Have moved me not, if morning skies,
Books, and my food, and summer rain
Knocked on my sullen heart in vain.—
Lord, thy most pointed pleasure take
And stab my spirit broad awake;
Or, Lord, if too obdurate I,
Choose thou, before that spirit die,
A piercing pain, a killing sin,
And to my dead heart run them in!

- 17 Unfrowning caryatides.
Ib. xxiii. Our Lady of the Snows
- 18 I am a kind of farthing dip,
Unfriendly to the nose and eyes,
A blue-behind'd ape, I skip
Upon the trees of Paradise. Ib. xxx. A Portrait
- 19 In the afternoon of time
A strenuous family dusted from its hands
The sand of granite, and beholding far
Along the sounding coast its pyramids
And tall memorials catch the dying sun,
Smiled well content, and to this childish task
Around the fire addressed its evening hours.
Ib. xxxviii. Say not of me that weakly I declined

- Ib.* 21 I can not eat but little meat,
My stomach is not good:
But sure I think, that I can drink
With him that wears a hood.
Though I go bare, take ye no care,
I am nothing acold:

STEVENSON—SULLY

I stuff my skin, so full within,
Of jolly good ale and old,
Back and side go bare, go bare,
Both foot and hand go cold
But belly God send thee good ale enough,
Whether it be new or old

BISHOP WILLIAM STUBBS

1825-1901

- 8 Froude informs the Scottish youth
That parsons do not care for truth.
The Reverend Canon Kingsley cries
History is a pack of lies.
What cause for judgments so malign?
A brief reflection solves the mystery—
Froude believes Kingsley a divine,
And Kingsley goes to Froude for history.

- 9 When in the darkest depths the miner striving,
Feels in his arms the vigour of the Lord,
Strikes for a Kingdom and his King's arriving,
Holding his pick more splendid than the sword.
Songs of Faith and Doubt (1922), p. 7. Then Will He Come: 'When Through the Whirl'

SIR JOHN SUCKLING

1609-1642

- 10 Why so pale and wan, fond lover?
Prithee, why so pale?
Will, when looking well can't move her,
Looking ill prevail?
Prithee, why so pale? Aglaure, IV. 1. Song
- 11 Quit, quit, for shame, this will not move:
This cannot take her.
If of herself she will not love,
Nothing can make her:
The devil take her! Ib.
- 12 Her feet beneath her petticoat,
Like little mice, stole in and out,
As if they fear'd the light.
Ballad. Upon a Wedding, viii
- 13 For streaks of red were mingled there,
Such as are on a Catherine pear
(The side that's next the sun) Ib.
- 14 Her lips were red, and one was thin,
Compar'd to that was next her chin
(Some bee had stung it newly). Ib. xi
- 15 The Prince of Darkness is a gentleman.
The Goblins. Act III, A Catch (See 453·25)
- 16 I prithee send me back my heart,
Since I cannot have thine:
For if from yours you will not part,
Why then shouldst thou have mine?
Song. I Prithee Send me Back
- 17 But love is such a mystery,
I cannot find it out.
For when I think I'm best resolv'd,
I then am in most doubt. Ib.
- 18 Out upon it, I have loved
Three whole days together;
And am like to love three more,
If it prove fair weather.
Time shall moult away his wings,
Ere he shall discover
In the whole wide world again
Such a constant lover. A Poem with the Answer
- 19 Had it any been but she,
And that very face,
There had been at least ere this
A dozen dozen in her place. Ib.

SURREY—SURTEES

HENRY HOWARD, EARL OF SURREY

1517²–1547

- 1 My friend, the things that do attain
The happy life be these, I find
The riches left, not got with pain,
The fruitful ground, the quiet mind,
The equal friend, no grudge, no strife,
No charge of rule, nor governance,
Without disease the healthy life,
The household of continuance
Martial's Quiet Life, st 1, 11

Ib. Digression in Praise of Digression
- 37 I never saw, heard, nor read, that the clergy were beloved in any nation where Christianity was the religion of the country Nothing can render them popular but some degree of persecution.
Thoughts on Religion
- 38 We have just enough religion to make us hate, but not enough to make us love one another
Thoughts on Various Subjects
- 39 What they do in heaven we are ignorant of, what they do not we are told expressly, that they neither marry, nor are given in marriage. Ib.
- 40 The reasons why so few marriages are happy, is, because young ladies spend their time in making nets, not in making cages. Ib.
- 41 Few are qualified to shine in company; but it is in most men's power to be agreeable. Ib.
- 42 Every man desires to live long; but no man would be old. Ib.
- 43 A nice man is a man of nasty ideas. Ib.
- 44 Old men and comets have been revered for the same reason; their long beards, and pretences to foretell events. Ib.
- 45 I never wonder to see men wicked, but I often wonder to see them not ashamed. Ib.
- 46 A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser to-day than he was yesterday. Ib.
- 47 Party is the madness of many, for the gain of a few. Ib.
- 48 When men grow virtuous in their old age, they only make a sacrifice to God of the devil's leavings.

ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE

1837-1909

- 28 Superflux of pain. Anactoria, l. 27
- 29 Maiden, and mistress of the months and stars
Now folded in the flowerless fields of heaven.
Atalanta in Calydon. Collected Poetical Works
(1924), vol. 11, p. 247, l. 1
- 30 When the hounds of spring are on winter's traces,
The mother of months in meadow or plain
Fills the shadows and windy places
With hush of leaves and ripple of rain;
And the brown bright nightingale amorous
Is half assuaged for Itylus,
For the Thracian ships and the foreign faces,
The tongueless vigil and all the pain.
Come with bows bent and with emptying of quivers,
Maiden most perfect, lady of light,
With a noise of winds and many rivers,
With a clamour of waters, and with might;
Bind on thy sandals, O thou most fleet,
Over the splendour and speed of thy feet;
For the faint east quickens, the wan west shivers,
Round the feet of the day and the feet of the night.

- Where shall we find her, how shall we sing to her,
Fold our hands round her knees, and cling?
O that man's heart were as fire and could spring to her,
Fire, or the strength of the streams that spring!
For the stars and the winds are unto her
As raiment, as songs of the harp-player;
For the risen stars and the fallen cling to her,
And the southwest-wind and west-wind sing.
- For winter's rains and ruins are over,
And all the season of snows and sins;
The days dividing lover and lover,
The light that loses, the night that wins;
And time remembered is grief forgotten,
And frosts are slain and flowers begotten,
And in green underwood and cover
Blossom by blossom the spring begins.
Atalanta in Calydon, Chorus, p. 249
- 1 And the hoofed heel of a satyr crushes
The chestnut-husk at the chestnut-root. Ib. p. 250
 - 2 And Pan by noon and Bacchus by night,
Fleeter of foot than the fleet-foot kid,
Follows with dancing and fills with delight
The Maenad and the Bassarid;
And soft as lips that laugh and hide
The laughing leaves of the tree divide,
And screen from seeing and leave in sight
The god pursuing, the maiden hid. Ib.
 - 3 The ivy falls with the Bacchanal's hair
Over her eyebrows hiding her eyes;
The wild vine slipping down leaves bare
Her bright breast shortening into sighs. Ib.
 - 4 The wolf that follows, the fawn that flies. Ib.
 - 5 Before the beginning of years
There came to the making of man
Time with a gift of tears,
Grief with a glass that ran.
Pleasure with pain for leaven,
Summer with flowers that fell,
Remembrance fallen from heaven,
And Madness risen from hell,
Strength without hands to smute,
Love that endures for a breath;
Night, the shadow of light,
And Life, the shadow of death. Ib. p. 258
 - 6 For a day and a night and a morrow,
That his strength might endure for a span
With travail and heavy sorrow,
The holy spirit of man. Ib. p. 259
 - 7 Eyesight and speech they wrought
For the veil of the soul therein,
A time for labour and thought,
A time to serve and to sin;
They gave him light in his ways,
And love, and a space for delight,
And beauty and length of days,
And night, and sleep in the night.
His speech is a burning fire;
With his lips he travaileth;
In his heart is a blind desire,
In his eyes foreknowledge of death;
He weaves, and is clothed with derision;
Sows, and he shall not reap;
His life is a watch or a vision
Between a sleep and a sleep.
 - 8 We have seen thee, O love, thou art fair; thou art
goodly, O Love
Atalanta in Calydon, Chorus, p. 273
 - 9 For words divide and rend;
But silence is most noble till the end. Ib. p. 299
 - 10 Where the narrowing Symplegades whitened the straits of Propontis with spray. Ib. p. 327
 - 11 Shall I strew on thee rose or rue or laurel,
Brother, on this that was the veil of thee?
Or quiet sea-flower moulded by the sea,
Or simplest growth of meadow-sweet or sorrel?
Ave atque Vale, 1
 - 12 Now all strange hours and all strange loves are over,
Dreams and desires and sombre songs and sweet,
Hast thou found place at the great knees and feet
Of some pale Titan-woman like a lover,
Such as thy vision here solicited,
Under the shadow of her fair vast head,
The deep division of prodigious breasts,
The solemn slope of mighty limbs asleep? Ib. vi
 - 13 Sleep; and if life was bitter to thee, pardon,
If sweet, give thanks, thou hast no more to live;
And to give thanks is good, and to forgive. Ib. xvii
 - 14 For thee, O now a silent soul, my brother,
Take at my hands this garland and farewell.
Thou is the leaf, and chill the wintry smell,
And chill the solemn earth, a fatal mother,
With sadder than the Niobeian womb
And in the hollow of her breasts a tomb. Ib. xviii
 - 15 There lies not any troublous thing before,
Nor sight nor sound to war against thee more,
For whom all winds are quiet as the sun,
All waters as the shore. Ib.
 - 16 This is the end of every man's desire.

 - 21 No soul that lived, loved, wrought and died,
Is this their carrion crucified. Ib. p. 747
 - 22 We shift and bedeck and bedrape us,
Thou art noble and nude and antique. Dolores, vii
 - 23 Change in a trice
The lilies and languors of virtue
For the raptures and roses of vice. Ib. ix
 - 24 O splendid and sterile Dolores,
Our Lady of Pain. Ib.
 - 25 Ah beautiful passionate body
That never has ached with a heart! Ib. xi
 - 26 But sweet as the rind was the core is;
We are fain of thee still, we are fain,
O sanguine and subtle Dolores,
Our Lady of Pain. Ib. xiii
 - 27 The delight that consumes the desire,
Ib. The desire that outruns the delight. Ib. xiv

SWINBURNE

- 1 For the crown of our life as it closes
Is darkness, the fruit thereof dust;
No thorns go as deep as a rose's,
And love is more cruel than lust.
Time turns the old days to derision,
Our loves into corpses or wives,
And marriage and death and division
Make barren our lives. Dolores, xx
- 2 Ringed round with a flame of fair faces,
And splendid with swords. Ib. xxx
- 3 What ailed us, O gods, to desert you
For creeds that refuse and restrain?
Come down and redeem us from virtue,
Our Lady of Pain. Ib. xxxv
- 4 On thy bosom though many a kiss be,
There are none such as knew it of old.
Was it Alciphron once or Arisbe,
Male ringlets or feminine gold,
That thy lips met with under the statue,
Whence a look shot out sharp after thieves
From the eyes of the garden-god at you
Across the fig-leaves? Ib. xxxviii
- 5 Old poets outsing and outlove us,
And Catullus makes mouths at our speech. Ib. xlii
- 6 Where are they, Cotytto or Venus,
Astarte or Ashtaroth, where?
Do their hands as we touch come between us?
Is the breath of them hot in thy hair?
From their lips have thy lips taken fever,
With the blood of their bodies grown red?
Hast thou left upon earth a believer
If these men are dead? Ib. lii
- 7 O daughter of Death and Priapus,
Our Lady of Pain. Ib. liii
- 8 I shall remember while the light lives yet
And in the night time I shall not forget. Erotion
- 9 There was a poor poet named Clough,
Whom his friends all united to puff,
But the public, though dull,
Had not such a skull
As belonged to believers in Clough.

- 10 Bright with names that men remember, loud with names that men forget. Eton: An Ode
- 11 What adders came to shed their coats?
What coiled obscene
Small serpents with soft stretching throats
Caressed Faustine? Faustine
- 12 Those eyes the greenest of things blue,
The bluest of things grey. Félice
- 13 In a coign of the cliff between lowland and highland,
At the sea-down's edge between windward and lee,
Walled round with rocks as an inland island,
The ghost of a garden fronts the sea.
A Forsaken Garden
- 14 The fields fall southward, abrupt and broken,
To the low last edge of the long lone land.
If a step should sound or a word be spoken,
Would a ghost not rise at the strange guest's hand?
So long have the grey bare walls lain guestless,
Through branches and briars if a man make way,
He shall find no life but the sea-wind's, restless
Night and day. Ib.
- 15 Heart handfast in heart as they stood, 'Look thither,' Did he whisper? 'look forth from the flowers to the sea;
For the foam-flowers endure when the rose-blossoms
wither
And men that love lightly may die—but we?'
And the same wind sang and the same waves
whitened,
And or ever the garden's last petals were shed,
In the lips that had whispered, the eyes that had lightened,
Love was dead. A Forsaken Garden
- 16 Stretched out on the spoils that his own hand spread.
As a god self-slain on his own strange altar,
Death lies dead Ib.
- 17 Here, where the world is quiet,
Here, where all trouble seems
Dead winds' and spent waves' riot
In doubtful dreams of dreams.
The Garden of Proserpine
- 18 I am tired of tears and laughter,
And men that laugh and weep;
Of what may come hereafter
For men that sow and reap.
I am weary of days and hours,
Blown buds of barren flowers,
Desires and dreams and powers
And everything but sleep. Ib.
- 19 Here life has death for neighbour,
And far from eye or ear
Wan waves and wet winds labour,
Weak ships and spirits steer. Ib.
- 20 Pale, beyond porch and portal,
Crowned with calm leaves, she stands
Who gathers all things mortal
With cold immortal hands. Ib.
- 21 Dead dreams of days forsaken,
Blind buds that snows have shaken,
Wild leaves that winds have taken,
Red strays of ruined springs. Ib.
- 22 We are not sure of sorrow,
And joy was never sure. Ib.
- 23 From too much love of living,
From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
Whatever gods may be
That no man lives forever,
That dead men rise up never;
That even the weariest river
Winds somewhere safe to sea. Ib.
- 24 Then star nor sun shall waken,
Nor any change of light.
Nor sound of waters shaken,
Nor any sound or sight:
Nor wintry leaves nor vernal,
Nor days nor things diurnal;
Only the sleep eternal
In an eternal night. Ib.

- 1 I am that which began;
Out of me the years roll;
Out of me God and man;
I am equal and whole;
God changes, and man, and the form of them bodily;
I am the soul. Hertha
- 2 But what thing dost thou now,
Looking Godward, to cry
'I am I, thou art thou,
I am low, thou art high'?
- I am thou, whom thou seekest to find him; find thou but thyself, thou art I. Ib.
- 3 A creed is a rod,
And a crown is of night;
But this thing is God.
To be man with thy might,
To grow straight in the strength of thy spirit, and live out thy life as the light. Ib.
- 4 Green leaves of thy labour, white flowers of thy thought, and red fruit of thy death. Ib.

That neither is most to blame,
If you have forgotten my kisses
And I have forgotten your name. Ib.
- 11 Swallow, my sister, O sister swallow,
How can thine heart be full of the spring?
A thousand summers are over and dead.
What hast thou found in the spring to follow?
What hast thou found in thine heart to sing?
What wilt thou do when the summer is shed?
Itylus
- 12 Hast thou forgotten ere I forget? Ib.
- 13 Sister, my sister, O fleet sweet swallow,
Thy way is long to the sun and the south;
But I, fulfilled of my heart's desire,
Shedding my song upon height, upon hollow,
From tawny body and sweet small mouth
Feed the heart of the night with fire.
I the nightingale all spring through,
O swallow, sister, O changing swallow,
All spring through till the spring be done,
Clothed with the light of the night on the dew,
Sing, while the hours and the wild birds follow,
Take flight and follow and find the sun. Ib.
- 14 Till life forget and death remember,
Till thou remember and I forget. Ib.
- 15 Thy lord the summer is good to follow,
And fair the feet of thy lover the spring:
But what wilt thou say to the spring thy lover?
Itylus

which is man. Hymn of Man
- 27 Glory to Man in the highest! for Man is the master of things. Ib.
- 28 If love were what the rose is,
And I were like the leaf,
Our lives would grow together
In sad or singing weather,
Blown fields or flowerful closes,
Green pleasure or grey grief. A Match
- 29 If you were thrall to sorrow,
And I were page to joy. Ib.
- 30 If you were April's lady,
And I were lord in May. Ib.

And I were king of pain. Ib.
- 32 But you would have felt my soul in a kiss,
And known that once if I loved you well;
And I would have given my soul for this
To burn for ever in burning hell. Les Noyades
- 33 Ask nothing more of me, sweet;
All I can give you I give.
Heart of my heart, were it more,
More would be laid at your feet:
Love that should help you to live,
Song that should spur you to soar. The Oblation

SWINBURNE—SYLVESTER

- 1 I turn to thee as some green afternoon
Turns toward sunset, and is loth to die;
Ah God, ah God, that day should be so soon!
In the Orchard
- 2 For a day and a night Love sang to us, played with us,
Folded us round from the dark and the light;
And our hearts were fulfilled with the music he made
with us,
Made with our hands and our lips while he stayed
with us,
Stayed in mid passage his pinions from flight
For a day and a night. At Parting
- 3 The world has no such flowers in any land,
And no such pearl in any gulf the sea,
As any babe on any mother's knee. Pelagius
- 4 I have lived long enough, having seen one thing, that love hath an end;
Goddess and maiden and queen, be near me now and befriend. Hymn to Proserpine
- 5 Yea, is not even Apollo, with hair and harpstring of gold,
A bitter God to follow, a beautiful God to behold?
I am sick of singing. the bays burn deep and chafe.
I am fain
To rest a little from praise and grievous pleasure and pain. Ib.
- 6 Wilt thou yet take all, Galilean? but these thou shalt not take,
The laurel, the palms and the paeon, the breasts of
the nymphs in the brake,
Breasts more soft than a dove's, that tremble with tenderer breath;
And all the wings of the Loves, and all the joy before
death. Ib.
- 7 For no man under the sky lives twice, outliving his day. Ib.
- 8 Thou hast conquered, O pale Galilean; the world has grown grey from Thy breath;
We have drunken of things Lethean, and fed on the fullness of death.
Laurel is green for a season, and love is sweet for a day;
But love grows bitter with treason, and laurel outlives not May. Ib.
- 9 For the old faiths loosen and fall, the new years ruin and rend. Ib.
- 10 O ghastly glories of saints, dead limbs of gibbeted Gods! Ib.
- 11 Impelled of invisible tides, and fulfilled of unspeak-able things. Ib.
- 12 All ye as a wind shall go by, as a fire shall ye pass and
be past;
Ye are Gods, and behold, ye shall die, and the waves be upon you at last. Ib.
- 13 Though the feet of thine high priests tread where thy lords and our forefathers trod,
Though these that were Gods are dead, and thou being dead art a God,
Though before thee the throned Cytherean be fallen,
and hidden her head,
Yet thy kingdom shall pass, Galilean, thy dead shall go down to thee dead. Ib.
- 14 As the deep dim soul of a star. Ib.
- 15 A little soul for a little bears up this corpse which is
man. Hymn to Proserpine
- 16 Love alone, with yearning
Heart for astrolabe,
Takes the star's height, burning
O'er the babe. A Rhyme
- 17 Say, was not this thy Passion, to foreknow
In death's worst hour the works of Christian men?

- 18 In the heart is the prey for gods,
Who crucify hearts, not hands. Satia te Sanguine
- 19 Good hap to the fresh fierce weather,
The quiver and beat of the sea!
While three men hold together,
The kingdoms are less by three.
A Song in Time of Order 1852
- 20 They have tied the world in a tether,
They have bought over God with a fee. Ib.
- 21 When the devil's riddle is mastered
And the galley-bench creaks with a Pope,
We shall see Buonaparte the bastard
Kick heels with his throat in a rope Ib.
- 22 Had you loved me once, as you have not loved;
Had the chance been with us that has not been.
The Triumph of Time
- 23 I have put my days and dreams out of mind,
Days that are over, dreams that are done. Ib.

Broken it up for your daily bread. Ib.
- 28 Content you;
The gate is strait; I shall not be there. Ib.
- 29 I will go back to the great sweet mother,
Mother and lover of men, the sea.
I will go down to her, I and no other,
Close with her, kiss her and mix her with me. Ib.
- 30 I shall sleep, and move with the moving ships,

Romanorum ultimum dixisset.
In his history he had praised Brutus and had called Cassius the last of the Romans. Annals, iv. 34
- 13 Elegantiae arbiter. [Petronius.]
Judge of taste. Ib. xvi. 18
- 14 Rara temporum felicitate ubi sentire quae velis et quae sentias dicere licet.
It is the rare fortune of these days that a man may think what he likes and say what he thinks.
Histories, i. i. Trans. by Fyfe

- 15 Maior privato visus dum privatus fuit, et omnium
consensu capax imperii nisi imperasset

When he was a commoner he seemed too big for his station, and had he never been emperor, no one would have doubted his ability to reign.
[Servius Galba] Histories, i. xlix

- 16 Etiam sapientibus cupido gloriae novissima exiit.
For even with philosophers the passion for fame is often their last rag of infirmity. Ib. iv. vi

- 22 To the hills and the vales,
To the rocks and the mountains,
To the musical groves
And the cool shady fountains,
Let the triumphs of Love,
And of Beauty be shown!
Go revel, ye Cupids,
The day is your own.
Dido and Aeneas, Act I (By Nahum Tate)
- 23 Take a bowsey short leave of your nymphs on the shore,
And silence their mourning
With vows of returning,
Though never intending to visit them more.

TENNYSON

- 1 Her arms across her breast she laid;
She was more fair than words can say.
Bare-footed came the beggar maid
Before the king Cophetua,
In robe and crown the king stepped down,
To meet and greet her on her way;
'It is no wonder,' said the lords,
'She is more beautiful than day.'
The Beggar Maid
- 2 As shines the moon in clouded skies,
She in her poor attire was seen.
One praised her ankles, one her eyes,
One her dark hair and lovesome mien.
So sweet a face, such angel grace,
In all that land had never been:
Cophetua swore a royal oath:
'This beggar maid shall be my queen!'
- 3 Break, break, break,
On thy cold gray stones, O Sea!
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.
O well for the fisherman's boy,
That he shouts with his sister at play!
O well for the sailor lad,
That he sings in his boat on the bay!
And the stately ships go on
To their haven under the hill;
But O for the touch of a vanish'd hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still!
Break, break, break,
At the foot of thy crags, O Sea!
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me. Break, Break, Break
- 4 A happy bridesmaid makes a happy bride.
The Bridesmaid, l. 4
- 5 I come from haunts of coot and hern,
I make a sudden sally
And sparkle out among the fern,
To bicker down a valley. The Brook, l. 23

- 21 Come not, when I am dead,
To drop thy foolish tears upon my grave,
To trample round my fallen head,
And vex the unhappy dust thou wouldst not save.
Come Not, When I Am Dead, 1
- 22 Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea,
But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.
Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;
For tho' from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have cross'd the bar. Crossing the Bar

Beyond their utmost purple rim,
Beyond the night, across the day,
'Thro' all the world she follow'd him. Ib. iv

- 12 And trust me not at all or all in all. Ib. l. 396
- 13 Lo now, what hearts have men! they never mount
As high as woman in her selfless mood. Ib. l. 440
- 14 Man dreams of fame while woman wakes to love.
Ib. l. 458
- 15 With this for motto, 'Rather use than fame'.
Ib. l. 478
- 16 Where blind and naked Ignorance
Delivers brawling judgments, unashamed,
On all things all day long. Ib. l. 662
- 17 But every page having an ample marge,
And every marge enclosing in the midst
A square of text that looks a little blot. Ib. l. 667
- 18 And none can read the text, not even I;
And none can read the comment but myself.
Ib. l. 679
- 19 Or some black wether of St. Satan's fold. Ib. l. 748
- 20 O selfless man and stainless gentleman! Ib. l. 790
- 21 Defaming and defacing, till she left
Not even Lancelot brave, nor Galahad clean.
Ib. l. 802
- 22 For men at most differ as Heaven and Earth,
But women, worst and best, as Heaven and Hell.
Ib. l. 812
- 23 Face-flatterer and backbiter are the same. Ib. l. 822
- 24 And the thicket closed
Behind her, and the forest echo'd 'fool'. Ib. l. 971
- 25 O great and sane and simple race of brutes
That own no lust because they have no law!
Ib. Pelleas and Ettarre, l. 471
- 26 I found Him in the shining of the stars,
I mark'd Him in the flowering of His fields,
But in His ways with men I find Him not.
Ib. The Passing of Arthur, l. 9
- 27 Why is all around us here
As if some lesser god had made the world,
But had not force to shape it as he would? Ib. l.
- 28 This way and that dividing the swift mind.
The Idylls of the King. The Passing of Arthur, l. 60
- 29 So all day long the noise of battle roll'd
Among the mountains by the winter sea. Ib. l. 170
- 30 On one side lay the Ocean, and on one
Lay a great water, and the moon was full. Ib. l. 179
- 31 Authority forgets a dying king. Ib. l. 289
- 32 Clothed with his breath, and looking, as he walk'd,
Larger than human on the frozen hills.
He heard the deep behind him, and a cry
Before. Ib. l. 350
- 33 When every morning brought a noble chance,
And every chance brought out a noble knight.
Ib. l. 398
- 34 Among new men, strange faces, other minds.
Ib. l. 406
- 35 And slowly answer'd Arthur from the barge:
'The old order changeth, yielding place to new,
And God fulfils himself in many ways,
Lest one good custom should corrupt the world.'
Ib. l. 407
- 36 If thou shouldst never see my face again,
Pray for my soul More things are wrought by prayer
Than this world dreams of. Wherefore, let thy voice
Rise like a fountain for me night and day.
For what are men better than sheep or goats
That nourish a blind life within the brain,
If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer
Both for themselves and those who call them friend?
For so the whole round earth is every way
Bound by gold chains about the feet of God.
Ib. l. 414
- 37 I am going a long way
With these thou seest—if indeed I go
(For all my mind is clouded with a doubt)—
To the island-valley of Avilion;
Where falls not hail, or rain, or any snow,
Nor ever wind blows loudly; but it lies
Deep-meadow'd, happy, fair with orchard lawns
And bowery hollows crown'd with summer sea,
Where I will heal me of my grievous wound.
Ib. l. 424
- 38 Like some full-breasted swan
That, fluting a wild carol ere her death,
Ruffles her pure cold plume, and takes the flood
With swarthy webs. Ib. l. 434
- 39 Believing where we cannot prove.
In Memoriam, prologue. (The numbering of the Cantos follows that of the latest edition, and includes the additional Canto No. xxxix, first published in 1869)
- 40 Thou madest man, he knows not why,
He thinks he was not made to die;
And thou hast made him: thou art just. Ib.
- 41 Our little systems have their day;
They have their day and cease to be:
They are but broken lights of thee,
And thou, O Lord, art more than they. Ib.
- 42 Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell;
That mind and soul, according well,
May make one music as before. Ib.

TENNYSON

- 1 I held it truth, with him who sings
To one clear harp in divers tones,
That men may rise on stepping-stones
Of their dead selves to higher things
In Memoriam, 1
- 2 Who changest not in any gale,
Nor branding summer suns avail
To touch thy thousand years of gloom.
Ib. 11
- 3 For words, like Nature, half reveal
And half conceal the Soul within.
Ib. v
- 4 But, for the unquiet heart and brain,
A use in measured language lies;
The sad mechanic exercise,
Like dull narcotics, numbing pain.
Ib.
- 5 And common is the commonplace,
And vacant chaff well meant for grain.
Ib. vi
- 6 Never morning wore
To evening, but some heart did break.
Ib.
- 7 His heavy-shotted hammock-shroud
Drops in his vast and wandering grave.
Ib.
- 8 Dark house, by which once more I stand
Here in the long unlovely street,
Doors, where my heart was used to beat
So quickly, waiting for a hand.
Ib. vii
- 9 And ghastly thro' the drizzling rain
On the bald streets breaks the blank day.
Ib.
- 10 More than my brothers are to me.
Ib. ix
- 11 Or where the kneeling hamlet dains
The chalice of the grapes of God.
Ib. x
- 12 The last red leaf is whirl'd away,
The rooks are blown about the skies.
Ib. xv
- 13 Thou comest, much wept for such a breeze
Compell'd thy canvas.
Ib. xvii
- 14 And from his ashes may be made
The violet of his native land.
Ib. xviii
- 15 There twice a day the Severn fills;
The salt sea-water passes by,
And hushes half the babbling Wye,
And makes a silence in the hills.
Ib. xix
- 16 I do but sing because I must,
And pipe but as the linnets sing.
Ib. xxi
- 17 The Shadow cloak'd from head to foot,
Who keeps the keys of all the creeds.
Ib. xxiii
- 18 And Thought leapt out to wed with Thought
Ere Thought could wed itself with Speech.
Ib.
- 19 I envy not in any moods
The captive void of noble rage,
The linnet born within the cage,
That never knew the summer woods.
Ib. xxvii
- 20 'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all.
Ib.
- 21 The time draws near the birth of Christ.
Ib. xxviii
- 22 'Where wert thou, brother, those four days?'
There lives no record of reply,
Which telling what it is to die
Had surely added praise to praise.
From every house the neighbours met,
The streets were fill'd with joyful sound,
A solemn gladness even crown'd
The purple brows of Olivet.
- Behold a man raised up by Christ!
The rest remaineth unreveal'd;
He told it not; or something seal'd
The lips of that Evangelist.
In Memoriam, xxxi
- 23 Her eyes are homes of silent prayer.
Ib. xxxii
- 24 Leave thou thy sister when she prays,
Her early Heaven, her happy views,
Nor thou with shadow'd hint confuse
A life that leads melodious days.
Her faith thro' form is pure as thine,
Her hands are quicker unto good:
Oh, sacred be the flesh and blood
To which she links a truth divine!
Ib. xxxiii
- 25 And so the Word had breath, and wrought
With human hands the creed of creeds
In loveliness of perfect deeds,
More strong than all poetic thought
Ib. xxxvi
- 26 Short swallow-flights of song, that dip
Their wings in tears, and skim away
Ib. xlvi
- 27 And Time, a maniac scattering dust,
And Life, a Fury slinging flame.
Ib. l
- 28 Do we indeed desire the dead
Should still be near us at our side?
Is there no baseness we would hide?
No inner vileness that we dread?
Ib. li
- 29 How many a father have I seen,
A sober man, among his boys,
Whose youth was full of foolish noise.
Ib. liii
- 30 Hold thou the good: define it well
For fear divine Philosophy
Should push beyond her mark, and be Procureess to the Lords of Hell.
Ib.
- 31 Oh yet we trust that somehow good
Will be the final goal of ill.
Ib. lix
- 32 That nothing walks with aimless feet;
That not one life shall be destroy'd,
Or cast as rubbish to the void,
When God hath made the pile complete;
Ib.
- 33 That not a worm is cloven in vain;
That not a moth with vain desire
Is shrivell'd in a fruitless fire,
Or but subserves another's gain.
Ib.
- 34 But what am I?
An infant crying in the night:
An infant crying for the light:
And with no language but a cry.
Ib.
- 35 So careful of the type she seems,
So careless of the single life.
Ib. lvi
- 36 The great world's altar-stairs
That slope thro' darkness up to God.
Ib.
- 37 Nature, red in tooth and claw.
Ib. lvi
- 38 Dragons of the prime,
That tare each other in their slime,
Were mellow music match'd with him
Ib.
- 39 Peace; come away: the song of woe
Is after all an earthly song:
Peace; come away: we do him wrong
To sing so wildly: let us go.
Ib. lvii
- 40 The passing of the sweetest soul
That ever look'd with human eyes.
Ib.
- 41 O Sorrow, wilt thou live with me
No casual mistress, but a wife.
Ib. lix

TENNYSON

- 1 As some divinely gifted man,
Whose life in low estate began
And on a simple village green;
Who breaks his birth's invidious bar,
And grasps the skirts of happy chance,
And breasts the blows of circumstance,
And grapples with his evil star. In Memoriam, lxiiv
- 2 Yet feels, as in a pensive dream,
When all his active powers are still,
A distant dearness in the hill,
A secret sweetness in the stream. Ib.
- 3 So many worlds, so much to do,
So little done, such things to be. Ib. lxxiii
- 4 Death has made
His darkness beautiful with thee. Ib. lxxiv
- 5 And round thee with the breeze of song
To stir a little dust of praise. Ib. lxxv
- 6 O last regret, regret can die! Ib. lxxviii
- 7 Laburnums, dropping-wells of fire. Ib. lxxxiii
- 8 God's finger touch'd him, and he slept. Ib. lxxxv
- 9 I, the divided half of such
A friendship as had master'd Time. Ib.
- 10 Dusty purlieus of the law. Ib. lxxxix
- 11 The hard heir strides about their lands,
And will not yield them for a day. Ib. xc
- 12 When rosy plumelets tuft the larch,
And rarely pipes the mounted thrush;
Or underneath the barren bush
Flits by the sea-blue bird of March. Ib. xci
- 13 You tell me, doubt is Devil-born. Ib. xcvi
- 14 There lives more faith in honest doubt,
Believe me, than in half the creeds. Ib.
- 15 Their meetings made December June,
Their every parting was to die. Ib. xcvi
- 16 He seems so near and yet so far. Ib.
- 17 Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky. Ib. cvi
- 18 Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow:
The year is going, let him go,
Ring out the false, ring in the true. Ib.
- 19 Ring out the feud of rich and poor. Ib.
- 20 Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.
Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.
Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite,
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.
Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.
Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land;
Ring in the Christ that is to be. Ib.
- 21 'Tis held that sorrow makes us wise,
Whatever wisdom sleep with thee. In Memoriam, cviii
- 22 Not the schoolboy hear,
The blind hysterics of the Celt. Ib. cix
- 23 And thus he bore without abuse
The grand old name of gentleman,
Defamed by every charlatan,
And soil'd with all ignoble use. Ib. cx
- 24 Now fades the last long streak of snow
Now burgeons every maze of quick
About the flowering squares and thick
By ashen roots the violets blow. Ib. cxv
- 25 And drown'd in yonder living blue
The lark becomes a sightless song. Ib.
- 26 But trust that those we call the dead
Are breathers of an ampler day
For ever nobler ends. Ib. cxviii
- 27 There, where the long street roars, hath been
The stillness of the central sea. Ib. cxxiii
- 28 And all is well, tho' faith and form
Be sunder'd in the night of fear. Ib. cxxvii
- 29 The red fool-fury of the Seine Ib.
- 30 Wearing all that weight
Of learning lightly like a flower. Ib. Conclusion, st. x
- 31 One God, one law, one element,
And one far-off divine event,
To which the whole creation moves. Ib. st. xxxvi
- 32 All along the valley, stream that flashest white.
In the Valley of Caunteretz
- 33 The voice of the dead was a living voice to me. Ib.
- 34 God gives us love. Something to love
He lends us; but, when love is grown
To ripeness, that on which it throve
Falls off, and love is left alone. To J. S., iv
- 35 At me you smiled, but unbeguled
I saw the snare, and I retired:
The daughter of a hundred Earls,
You are not one to be desired.
Lady Clara Vere de Vere, i
- 36 A simple maiden in her flower
Is worth a hundred coats-of-arms. Ib. ii
- 37 Her manners had not that repose
Which stamps the caste of Vere de Vere. Ib. v
- 38 From yon blue heavens above us bent
The gardener Adam and his wife
Smile at the claims of long descent.
Howe'er it be, it seems to me,
'Tis only noble to be good.
Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood. Ib. vi
- 39 Oh! teach the orphan-boy to read,
Or teach the orphan-girl to sew. Ib.
- 40 On either side the river lie
Long fields of barley and of rye.
The Lady of Shalott, pt. i
- 41 Willows whiten, aspens quiver,
Little breezes dusk and shiver. Ib.
- 42 But who hath seen her wave her hand?
Or at the casement seen her stand?
Or is she known in all the land,
The Lady of Shalott? Ib.

TENNYSON

- 1 Only reapers, reaping early
In among the bearded barley,
Hear a song that echoes cheerly
From the river winding clearly
Down to tower'd Camelot.
The Lady of Shalott, pt. 1
- 2 She hath no loyal knight and true,
The Lady of Shalott. Ib. pt. ii
- 3 Or when the moon was overhead,
Came two young lovers lately wed,
'I am half sick of shadows,' said
The Lady of Shalott. Ib.
- 4 A bow-shot from her bower-eaves,
He rode between the barley-sheaves,
The sun came dazzling thro' the leaves
And flamed upon the brazen greaves
Of bold Sir Lancelot.
A red-cross knight for ever kneel'd
To a lady in his shield,
That sparkled on the yellow field,
Beside remote Shalott. Ib. pt. iii
- 5 All in the blue unclouded weather. Ib.
- 6 'Tirra lirra,' by the river
Sang Sir Lancelot. Ib.
- 7 She left the web, she left the loom,
She made three paces thro' the room;
She saw the water-lily bloom,
She saw the helmet and the plume,
She look'd down to Camelot.
Out flew the web and floated wide;
The mirror crack'd from side to side,
'The curse is come upon me,' cried
The Lady of Shalott. Ib.
- 8 Like some bold seer in a trance,
Seeing all his own mischance—
With a glassy countenance
Did she look to Camelot. Ib. pt. iv
- 9 Heard a carol, mournful, holy,
Chanted loudly, chanted lowly,
Till her blood was frozen slowly,
And her eyes were darken'd wholly,
Turn'd to tower'd Camelot. Ib.
- 10 Who is this? and what is here?
And in the lighted palace near
Died the sound of royal cheer;
And they cross'd themselves for fear,
All the knights at Camelot:
But Lancelot mused a little space;
He said, 'She has a lovely face;
God in his mercy lend her grace,
The Lady of Shalott.' Ib.
- 11 Slander, meanest spawn of Hell. The Letters
- 12 Airy, fairy Lilian. Lilian
- 13 Comrades, leave me here a little, while as yet 'tis early morn:
Leave me here, and when you want me, sound upon the bugle-horn. Locksley Hall, l. 1
- 14 The fairy tales of science, and the long result of 'Time.
Ib. l. 12
- 15 In the Spring a livelier iris changes on the burnish'd dove;
In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. Ib. l. 19
- 16 Love took up the glass of Time, and turn'd it in his glowing hands,
Every moment, lightly shaken, ran itself in golden sands.
Love took up the harp of Life, and smote on all the chords with might;
Smote the chord of Self, that, trembling, pass'd in music out of sight. Locksley Hall, l. 31
- 17 And our spirits rush'd together at the touching of the lips. Ib. l. 38
- 18 As the husband is, the wife is. Ib. l. 47
- 19 He will hold thee, when his passion shall have spent its novel force
Something better than his dog, a little dearer than his horse Ib. l. 49
- 20 The many-winter'd crow that leads the clanging
rookery home Ib. l. 68
- 21 This is truth the poet sings,
That a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things. Ib. l. 75
- 22 Like a dog, he hunts in dreams. Ib. l. 79
- 23 With a little hoard of maxims preaching down a daughter's heart. Ib. l. 94
- 24 But the jingling of the guinea helps the hurt that Honour feels. Ib. l. 105
- 25 Men, my brothers, men the workers, ever reaping something new
That which they have done but earnest of the things that they shall do:
For I dipt into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the Vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be. Ib. l. 117
- 26 Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rain'd
a ghastly dew
From the nations' aury navies grappling in the central blue. Ib. l. 123
- 27 In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world. Ib. l. 128
- 28 Science moves, but slowly slowly, creeping on from point to point. Ib. l. 134
- 29 Yet I doubt not thro' the ages one increasing purpose runs,
And the thoughts of men are widen'd with the process of the suns. Ib. l. 137
- 30 Knowledge comes, but wisdom lingers. Ib. l. 143
- 31 I am shamed thro' all my nature to have loved so slight a thing. Ib. l. 148
- 32 Woman is the lesser man, and all thy passions,
match'd with mine,
Are as moonlight unto sunlight, and as water unto wine. Ib. l. 151
- 33 I will take some savage woman, she shall rear my dusky race. Ib. l. 168
- 34 Not with blinded eyesight poring over miserable books. Ib. l. 172
- 35 I the heir of all the ages, in the foremost files of time.
Ib. l. 178
- 36 Forward, forward let us range,
Let the great world spin for ever down the ringing grooves of change. Ib. l. 181

TENNYSON

- 1 Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay
Locksley Hall, l. 184
- 2 He is but a landscape-painter,
And a village maiden she.
The Lord of Burleigh, l. 7
- 3 Let us see these handsome houses
Where the wealthy nobles dwell. Ib l. 23
- 4 Many a gallant gay domestic Bows before him at the door. Ib l. 47
- 5 But he clasp'd her like a lover,
And he cheer'd her soul with love.
So she strove against her weakness,
'Tho' at times her spirit sank. Ib l. 67
- 6 And the people loved her much. Ib l. 76
- 7 But a trouble weigh'd upon her,
And perplex'd her, night and morn,
With the burthen of an honour
Unto which she was not born. Ib l. 77
- 8 'Oh, that he
Were once more that landscape-painter,
Which did win my heart from me!' Ib l. 82
- 9 Three fair children first she bore him,
Then before her time she died. Ib l. 87
- 10 Weeping, weeping late and early,
Walking up and pacing down,
Deeply mourn'd the Lord of Burleigh,
Burleigh-house by Stamford-town Ib l. 89
- 11 'Bring the dress and put it on her,
That she wore when she was wed.' Ib l. 95
- 12 'Courage!' he said, and pointed toward the land.
The Lotos-Eaters
- 13 A land
In which it seemed always afternoon. Ib
- 14 Music that gentlier on the spirit lies,
Than tir'd eyelids upon tir'd eyes. Ib. Choric Song, i
- 15 There is no joy but calm! Ib l. 11
- 16 Ah, why
Should life all labour be? Ib l. iv
- 17 Let us alone. Time driveth onward fast,
And in a little while our lips are dumb.
Let us alone. What is it that will last?
All things are taken from us, and become Portions and parcels of the dreadful Past. Ib
- 18 The Lotos blooms below the barren peak:
The Lotos blows by every winding creek:
All day the wind breathes low with mellow tone:
'Thro' every hollow cave and alley lone,
Round and round the spicy downs the yellow Lotosdust is blown. Ib l. viii
- 19 Live and lie reclined
On the hills like Gods together, careless of mankind.
For they lie beside their nectar, and the bolts are hurl'd
Far below them in the valleys, and the clouds are lightly curl'd
Round their golden houses, girdled with the gleaming world. Ib
- 20 Surely, surely, slumber is more sweet than toil, the shore
Than labour in the deep mid-ocean, wind and wave
and oar;
Oh rest ye, brother mariners, we will not wander
more. Ib
- 21 Of love that never found his earthly close,
What sequel? Streaming eyes and breaking hearts?
Or all the same as if he had not been?
Love and Duty, l. 1
- 22 The long mechanic pacings to and fro,
The set gray life, and apathetic end. Ib l. 17
- 23 Raw Haste, half-sister to Delay.
Love thou thy Land, xxiv
- 24 Ruining along the illimitable mane. Lucretius, l. 40
- 25 Nor at all can tell
Whether I mean this day to end myself,
Or lend an ear to Plato where he says,
That men like soldiers may not quit the post
Allotted by the Gods. Ib l. 145
- 26 That stays the rolling Ixionian wheel,
And numbs the Fury's ringlet-snake, and plucks
The mortal soul from out immortal hell. Ib l. 260
- 27 Passionless bride, divine Tranquillity. Ib l. 265
- 28 Without one pleasure and without one pain. Ib l. 268
- 29 The lonely moated grange. Mariana
- 30 She only said, 'My life is dreary,
He cometh not,' she said;
She said, 'I am aweary, aweary.
I would that I were dead!' Ib
- 31 Her tears fell with the dews at even;
Her tears fell ere the dews were dried. Ib
- 32 She wept, 'I am aweary, aweary,
O God, that I were dead!' Ib
- 33 I hate the dreadful hollow behind the little wood.
Maud, Pt. I. i. 1
- 34 The smooth-faced snubnosed rogue. Ib l. xiii
- 35 Faultily faultless, icily regular, splendidly null. Ib l. ii
- 36 A monstrous eft was of old the Lord and Master of Earth. Ib l. iv. vi
- 37 The passionate heart of the poet is whirl'd into folly and vice. Ib l. vii
- 38 And most of all would I flee from the cruel madness of love—
The honey of poison-flowers and all the measureless
ill. Ib l. x
- 39 Maud with her exquisite face,
And wild voice pealing up to the sunny sky,
And feet like sunny gems on an English green. Ib l. v. ii
- 40 That jewell'd mass of millinery,
That oil'd and curl'd Assyrian Bull. Ib l. vi. vi
- 41 She came to the village church,
And sat by a pillar alone;
An angel watching an urn
Wept over her, carved in stone. Ib l. viii
- 42 The snowy-banded, dilettante,
Delicate-handed priest intone. Ib
- 43 Ah God, for a man with heart, head, hand,
Like some of the simple great ones gone
For ever and ever by,
One still strong man in a blatant land,
Whatever they call him, what care I,
Aristocrat, democrat, autocrat—one
Who can rule and dare not lie.

TENNYSON

- And ah for a man to arise in me,
That the man I am may cease to be!
Maud, Pt. I. x. v-vi
- 1 O let the solid ground
Not fail beneath my feet
Before my life has found
What some have found so sweet. Ib. xi. 1
- 2 Birds in the high Hall-garden
When twilight was falling,
Maud, Maud, Maud, Maud,
They were crying and calling. Ib. xii. 1
- 3 I kiss'd her slender hand,
She took the kiss sedately;
Maud is not seventeen,
But she is tall and stately Ib. iv
- 4 I know the way she went Home with her maiden posy,
For her feet have touch'd the meadows
And left the daisies rosy. Ib. vi
- 5 Gorgonised me from head to foot
With a stony British stare. Ib. xiii. 11
- 6 Go not, happy day,
From the shining fields,
Go not, happy day,
Till the maiden yields.
Rosy is the West,
Rosy is the South,
Roses are her cheeks,
And a rose her mouth. Ib. xvii
- 7 Blush from West to East,
Blush from East to West,
Till the West is East,
Blush it thro' the West. Ib.
- 8 A livelier emerald twinkles in the grass.
A purer sapphire melts into the sea. Ib. xviii. vi
- 9 Come into the garden, Maud,
For the black bat, night, has flown;
Come into the garden, Maud,
I am here at the gate alone;
And the woodbine spices are wafted abroad,
And the musk of the rose is blown.
- 10 For a breeze of morning moves,
And the planet of Love is on high,
Beginning to faint in the light that she loves
On a bed of daffodil sky. Ib. xxii. 1-ii
- 11 All night have the roses heard
The flute, violin, bassoon:
All night has the casement jessamine stirr'd
To the dancers dancing in tune;
Till a silence fell with the waking bird,
And a hush with the setting moon. Ib. iii
- 12 Whenever a March-wind sighs
He sets the jewel-print of your feet
In violets blue as your eyes. Ib. vii
- 13 The slender acacia would not shake
One long milk-bloom on the tree;
The white lake-blossom fell into the lake
As the pimpernel dozed on the lea;
But the rose was awake all night for your sake,
Knowing your promise to me;
The lilies and roses were all awake,
They sigh'd for the dawn and thee. Ib. viii
- 14 Queen rose of the rosebud garden of girls. Ib. ix
- 15 There has fallen a splendid tear
From the passion-flower at the gate.
She is coming, my dove, my dear,
She is coming, my life, my fate,
The red rose cries, 'She is near, she is near;'
And the white rose weeps, 'She is late;'
The larkspur listens, 'I hear, I hear;
And the lily whispers, 'I wait'
She is coming, my own, my sweet;
Were it ever so airy a tread,
My heart would hear her and beat,
Were it earth in an earthy bed;
My dust would hear her and beat,
Had I lain for a century dead,
Would start and tremble under her feet,
And blossom in purple and red. Maud, Pt. I. xxii. x-xi
- 16 The Christless code,
That must have life for a blow. Ib. Pt. II. i. i
- 17 O that 'twere possible
After long grief and pain
To find the arms of my true love
Round me once again! Ib. iv. 1
- 18 Ah Christ, that it were possible
For one short hour to see
The souls we loved, that they might tell us
What and where they be. Ib. iii
- 19 But the churchmen fain would kill their church,
As the churches have kill'd their Christ. Ib. v. ii
- 20 O me, why have they not buried me deep enough?
Is it kind to have made me a grave so rough,
Me, that was never a quiet sleeper? Ib. xi
- 21 Bury me, bury me
Deeper, ever so little deeper. Ib.
- 22 My life has crept so long on a broken wing
Thro' cells of madness, haunts of horror and fear,
That I come to be grateful at last for a little thing. Ib. Pt. III. vi. 1
- 23 When the face of night is fair on the dewy downs,
And the shining daffodil dies. Ib.
- 24 The blood-red blossom of war with a heart of fire. Ib. iv
- 25 It is better to fight for the good, than to rail at the ill,
I have felt with my native land, I am one with my kind,
I embrace the purpose of God, and the doom assign'd. Ib. v
- 26 You must wake and call me early, call me early,
mother dear;
To-morrow 'ill be the happiest time of all the glad
New-year;
Of all the glad New-year, mother, the maddest
merriest day,
For I'm to be Queen o' the May, mother, I'm to be Queen o' the May. The May Queen
- 27 It seem'd so hard at first, mother, to leave the blessed sun,
And now it seems as hard to stay, and yet His will be done!
But still I think it can't be long before I find release;
And that good man, the clergyman, has told me
words of peace. Ib. Conclusion

- 14 The splendour falls on castle walls
And snowy summits old in story:
The long light shakes across the lakes,
And the wild cataract leaps in glory.
Blow, bugle, blow, set the wild echoes flying,
Blow, bugle; answer, echoes, dying, dying.
Ib. iv. Introd. Song
- 15 O hark, O hear! how thin and clear,
And thinner, clearer, farther going!
O sweet and far from cliff and scar
The horns of Elfland faintly blowing!
- 16 O love, they die in yon rich sky,
They faint on hill or field or river:
Our echoes roll from soul to soul,
And grow for ever and for ever.
The Princess, iv. Introd. Song
- 17 Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean,
Tears from the depth of some divine despair
Rise in the heart, and gather to the eyes,
In looking on the happy Autumn-fields,
And thinking of the days that are no more Ib. l. 21
- 18 So sad, so fresh, the days that are no more. Ib. l. 30
- 19 Ah, sad and strange as in dark summer dawns
The earliest pipe of half-awaken'd birds
To dying ears, when unto dying eyes
The casement slowly grows a glimmering square;
So sad, so strange, the days that are no more.
Dear as remembered kisses after death,
And sweet as those by hopeless fancy feign'd
On lips that are for others deep as love,
Deep as first love, and wild with all regret,
O Death in Life, the days that are no more. Ib. l. 31
- 20 O Swallow, Swallow, flying, flying South,
Fly to her, and fall upon her gilded eaves,
And tell her, tell her, what I tell to thee.
O tell her, Swallow, thou that knowest each,
That bright and fierce and fickle is the South,
And dark and true and tender is the North Ib. l. 75
- 21 O tell her, Swallow, that thy brood is flown:
Say to her, I do but wanton in the South,
But in the North long since my nest is made.
O tell her, brief is life but love is long,
And brief the sun of summer in the North,
And brief the moon of beauty in the South.
O Swallow, flying from the golden woods,
Fly to her, and pipe and woo her, and make her mine,
And tell her, tell her, that I follow thee Ib. l. 90
- 22 Thy voice is heard thro' rolling drums,
That beat to battle where he stands;
Thy face across his fancy comes,
And gives the battle to his hands:
A moment, while the trumpets blow,
He sees his brood about thy knee;
The next, like fire he meets the foe,
And strikes him dead for thine and thee. Ib. l. 552
- 23 Man is the hunter; woman is his game. Ib. v. l. 147
- 24 Man for the field and woman for the hearth:
Man for the sword and for the needle she:
Man with the head and woman with the heart:
Man to command and woman to obey;
All else confusion. Ib. l. 427
- 25 Home they brought her warrior dead.
She nor swoon'd, nor utter'd cry:
All her maidens, watching, said,
'She must weep or she will die.' Ib. vi. Introd. Song
- 26 Home they brought him slain with spears,
They brought him home at even-fall.

Upon the woman. Ib. l. 205

TENNYSON

- 1 Ask me no more the moon may draw the sea,
The cloud may stoop from heaven and take the shape
With fold to fold, of mountain or of cape,
But O too fond, when have I answer'd thee?
Ask me no more.
Ask me no more what answer should I give?
I love not hollow cheek or faded eye.
Yet, O my friend, I will not have thee die!
Ask me no more, lest I should bid thee live;
Ask me no more.
Ask me no more thy fate and mine are seal'd.
I strove against the stream and all in vain.
Let the great river take me to the main.
No more, dear love, for at a touch I yield,
Ask me no more
The Princess, vii. Introd Song
- 2 Now sleeps the crimson petal, now the white;
Nor waves the cypress in the palace walk,
Nor winks the gold fin in the porphyry font
The fire-fly wakens waken thou with me.
Now droops the milk-white peacock like a ghost,
And like a ghost she glimmers on to me
Now lies the Earth all Danae to the stars,
And all thy heart lies open unto me.
Now slides the silent meteor on, and leaves
A shining furrow, as thy thoughts in me.
Now folds the lily all her sweetness up,
And slips into the bosom of the lake.
So fold thyself, my dearest, thou, and slip
Into my bosom and be lost in me. Ib. l. 161

Of good Haroun Alraschid.
Recollections of the Arabian Nights, 1
- 16 At Flores in the Azores Sir Richard Grenville lay,
And a pinnacle, like a fluttered bird, came flying from far away:
'Spanish ships of war at sea! we have sighted fifty-three!' The Revenge, i
- 17 Then swore Lord Thomas Howard. 'Fore God I am
no coward;
But I cannot meet them here, for my ships are out of gear,
And the half my men are sick. I must fly, but follow quick
We are six ships of the line; can we fight with fifty-three?' Ib.
- 18 Then spake Sir Richard Grenville: 'I know you are
no coward,
You fly them for a moment to fight with them again.
But I've ninety men and more that are lying sick ashore.
I should count myself the coward if I left them, my Lord Howard,
To these Inquisition dogs and the devildoms of Spain.' Ib. ii
- 19 So Lord Howard past away with five ships of war
that day,
Till he melted like a cloud in the silent summer
heaven;
But Sir Richard bore in hand all his sick men from the land
Very carefully and slow,
Men of Bideford in Devon,
And we laid them on the ballast down below;
For we brought them all aboard,
And they blest him in their pain, that they were not left to Spain,
To the thumbscrew and the stake, for the glory of the Lord. Ib. iii
- 20 'Shall we fight or shall we fly?
Good Sir Richard, tell us now,
For to fight is but to die!
There'll be little of us left by the time this sun be set.'
And Sir Richard said again. 'We be all good English men.
Let us bang these dogs of Seville, the children of the devil,
For I never turn'd my back upon Don or devil yet.'
Ib. iv
- 21 And the sun went down, and the stars came out far over the summer sea,
But never a moment ceased the fight of the one and the fifty-three.
Ship after ship, the whole night long, their high-built galleons came,
Ship after ship, the whole night long, with her battle-thunder and flame;

There gloom the dark broad seas. My mariners,
Souls that have toil'd, and wrought, and thought with me—
That ever with a frolic welcome took
The thunder and the sunshine, and opposed
Free hearts, free foreheads—you and I are old;
Old age hath yet his honour and his toil,
Death closes all but something ere the end,
Some work of noble note, may yet be done,
Not unbecoming men that strove with gods.
The lights begin to twinkle from the rocks.
The long day wanes. the slow moon climbs the deep Moans round with many voices. Come, my friends,
'Tis not too late to seek a newer world.
Push off, and sitting well in order smite
The sounding furrows; for my purpose holds
To sail beyond the sunset, and the baths
Of all the western stars, until I die
It may be that the gulfs will wash us down.
It may be we shall touch the Happy Isles,
And see the great Achilles, whom we knew.
Tho' much is taken, much abides; and tho'

- 12 Werther had a love for Charlotte
Such as words could never utter;
Would you know how first he met her?
She was cutting bread and butter.
Charlotte was a married lady,
And a moral man was Werther,
And for all the wealth of Indies,
Would do nothing for to hurt her.
- So he sighed and pined and ogled,
And his passion boiled and bubbled,
Till he blew his silly brains out
And no more was by it troubled.
Charlotte, having seen his body
Borne before her on a shutter,
Like a well-conducted person,
Went on cutting bread and butter.

And unperturbed pace,
Deliberate speed, majestic instancy,
They beat—and a Voice beat
More instant than the Feet—
'All things betray thee, who betrayest Me.'

'Naught shelters thee, who wilt not shelter Me.' Ib.
- Daisy* 20 I sought no more that after which I strayed
In face of man or maid,
But still within the little children's eyes
Seems something, something that replies,
Ib. They at least are for me, surely for me!
I turned me to them very wistfully,
But just as their young eyes grew sudden fair
With dawning answers there,
Their angel plucked them from me by the hair. Ib.

Thee harvest, must Thy harvest-fields
Be dunged with rotten death? Ib.
- 28 Now of that long pursuit
Comes on at hand the brut;
That Voice is round me like a bursting sea:
'And is thy earth so marred,
Shattered in shard on shard?
Lo, all things fly thee, for thou fleest Me!' Ib.
- 29 And human love needs human meriting:
How hast thou merited—
Of all man's clotted clay the dingiest clot?
Alack, thou knowest not
How little worthy of any love thou art. Ib.
- 30 All which I took from thee I did but take,
Not for thy harms,
But just that thou might'st seek it in My arms. Ib.
- 31 Halts by me that footfall:
Is my gloom, after all,
Shade of His hand, outstretched caressingly?
'Ah, fondest, blindest, weakest,
I am He whom thou seekest!
Thou dravest love from thee, who dravest Me.' Ib.
- 32 There is no expeditious road
To pack and label men for God,
And save them by the barrel-load.
Epilogue to 'A Judgment in Heaven'

1 O world invisible, we view thee,
O world intangible, we touch thee,
O world unknowable, we know thee,
Inapprehensible, we clutch thee!

Does the fish soar to find the ocean,
The eagle plunge to find the air—
That we ask of the stars in motion
If they have rumour of thee there?

Not where the wheeling systems darken,
And our benumbed conceiving soars!—
The drift of pinions, would we hearken,
Beats at our own clay-shuttered doors.

The angels keep their ancient places;—
Turn but a stone, and start a wing!
'Tis ye, 'tis your estranged faces,
That miss the many-splendoured thing.

But (when so sad thou canst not sadder)
Cry;—and upon thy so sore loss
Shall shine the traffic of Jacob's ladder
Pitched betwixt Heaven and Charing Cross.

Yea, in the night, my Soul, my daughter,
Cry,—clinging Heaven by the hems,
And lo, Christ walking on the water
Not of Gennesareth, but Thames!

Though my own red roses there may blow;
It is little I repair to the matches of the Southron

Though the red roses crest the caps I know.

For the field is full of shades as I near the shadowy

7 Ah! let the sweet birds of the Lord
With earth's waters make accord;

Teach how the crucifix may be
Carven from the laurel-tree,

With the red dew of Olivet,
And Sappho lay her burning brows
In white Cecilia's lap of snows!

Jupiter the rain-bringer. Ib. vii. 26

CHIDIOCK TICHBORNE

1558?-1586

- 20 My prime of youth is but a frost of cares;
My feast of joy is but a dish of pain;
My crop of corn is but a field of tares;
And all my good is but vain hope of gain.
The day is past, and yet I saw no sun;
And now I live, and now my life is done.
Verses of Praise and Joy. Elegy. (Written in the Tower before his execution)

THOMAS TICKELL

AUGUSTUS MONTAGUE TOPLADY

1740-1778

- 11 Rock of ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee.
The Gospel Magazine, Oct. 1775. Rock of Ages

- 12 Nothing in my hand I bring,
Simply to thy Cross I cling,
Naked, come to thee for dress;
Helpless, look to thee for grace;
Foul, I to the Fountain fly;
Wash me, Saviour, or I die.

Rock of Ages

THOMAS TRAHERNE

1637?-1674

- 13 You never enjoy the world aright, till the sea itself
floweth in your veins, till you are clothed with the heavens, and crowned with the stars. and perceive yourself to be the sole heir of the whole world, and more than so, because men are in it who are every one sole heirs as well as you. Till you can sing and rejoice and delight in God, as misers do in gold, and kings in sceptres, you never enjoy the world
Centuries of Meditations. Cent. 1, § 29
- 14 The corn was orient and immortal wheat, which never should be reaped, nor was ever sown. I thought it had stood from everlasting to everlasting.
Ib. Cent. III, § 3
- 15 The Men! O what venerable and reverend creatures did the aged seem! Immortal Cherubims! And young men glittering and sparkling Angels, and maids strange seraphic pieces of life and beauty!
Boys and girls tumbling in the street, and playing, were moving jewels. I knew not that they were born or should die; but all things abided eternally as they were in their proper places. Ib.
- 16 Contentment is a sleepy thing
If it in death alone must die,
A quiet mind is worse than poverty,
Unless it from enjoyment spring!
That's blessedness alone that makes a King!
Of Contentment
- 17 O yonder is the moon
Newly come after me to town,
That shin'd at Lugwardin but yesternight,
Where I enjoy'd the self-same light.
On Leaping over the Moon, viii
- 18 I within did flow
With seas of life, like wine. Wonder, iii

HENRY DUFF TRAILL

1842-1900

- 19 Look in my face. My name is Used-to-was;
I am also called Played-out and Done-to-death,
And It-will-wash-no-more.
After Diletante Concetti [i.e. Dante Gabriel Rossetti, see 411 17], viii

JOSEPH TRAPP

1679-1747

- 20 The King, observing with judicious eyes
The state of both his universities,
To Oxford sent a troop of horse, and why?
That learned body wanted loyalty;
To Cambridge books, as very well discerning
How much that loyal body wanted learning.
*On George I's Donation of the Bishop of Ely's
Library to Cambridge University. Nichols's Literary Anecdotes, vol. iii, p. 330. For the reply see 87:26*

TRAPP—TUSSEER

- 1 Our royal master saw, with heedful eyes,
The wants of his two universities:
Troops he to Oxford sent, as knowing why
That learned body wanted loyalty.
But books to Cambridge gave, as well discerning
That that right loyal body wanted learning.

A deep, but dazzling darkness; as men here
Say it is late and dusky, because they See not all clear.
O for that Night! where I in Him
Might live invisible and dim! Ib. I. 49

VAUGHAN—VICTORIA

- 1 My soul, there is a country
Far beyond the stars,
Where stands a wingèd sentry
All skilful in the wars
There, above noise and danger,
Sweet Peace is crown'd with smiles,
And One born in a manger
Commands the beauteous files.
Silex Scintillans. Peace
- 2 If thou canst get but thither,
There grows the flower of Peace,
The Rose that cannot wither,
Thy fortress, and thy ease.
Leave then thy foolish ranges,
For none can thee secure,
But One, who never changes,
Thy God, thy life, thy cure.
Ib.
- 3 Happy those early days, when I
Shin'd in my angel-infancy.
Before I understood this place
Appointed for my second race,
Or taught my soul to fancy aught
But a white, celestial thought;
When yet I had not walked above
A mile or two from my first love,
And looking back—at that short space—
Could see a glumpse of His bright face.
Ib. The Retreat, l. 1
- 4 And in those weaker glories spy

Ib. l. 13
- 5 But felt through all this fleshly dress
Bright shoots of everlastingness.
Ib. l. 19
- 6 O how I long to travel back,
And tread again that ancient track!
That I might once more reach that plain,
Where first I left my glorious train;
From whence th' enlighten'd spirit sees
The shady City of palm-trees.
Ib. l. 21
- 7 Some men a forward motion love,
But I by backward steps would move,
And when this dust falls to the urn,
In that state I came, return.

- 8 They are all gone into the world of light,
And I alone sit lingering here;
Their very memory is fair and bright,
And my sad thoughts doth clear.
Ib. They Are All Gone
- 9 I see them walking in an air of glory,
Whose light doth trample on my days:
My days, which are at best but dull and hoary,
Mere glimmering and decays.
Ib.
- 10 Dear, beauteous death! the jewel of the just,
Shining nowhere but in the dark;
What mysteries do lie beyond thy dust,
Could man outlook that mark!
Ib.
- 11 He that hath found some fledg'd bird's nest, may know
At first sight, if the bird be flown;
But what fair well or grove he sings in now,
That is to him unknown.
Ib.
- 12 And yet, as angels in some brighter dreams
Call to the soul when man doth sleep,
So some strange thoughts transcend our wonted themes,
And into glory peep.
Ib.
- 13 I saw Eternity the other night,
Like a great ring of pure and endless light,
All calm, as it was bright;
And round beneath it, Time in hours, days, years,
Driv'n by the spheres
Like a vast shadow mov'd; in which the world
And all her train were hurl'd.

- 1 J'aime la majesté des souffrances humaines.
I love the majesty of human suffering.
La Maison du Berger
- 2 Seul le silence est grand, tout le reste est faiblesse . . .
Fais énergiquement ta longue et lourde tâche . . .
Puis, après, comme moi, souffre et meurs sans parler
Silence alone is great, all else is feebleness . . .
Perform with all your heart your long and heavy task . . .
Then as do I, say naught, but suffer and die.

Not ours to decide such high dispute! Ib. 108
- 29 Claudite iam rivos, pueri; sat prata biberunt.
Swains, close now the springs. The meadows have drunk enough! Ib. 111
- 30 Sicelides Musae, paulo maiora canamus!
Non omnis arbusta iuvant humilisque myrica.
Si canimus silvas, silvae sint consule dignae.
Ultima Cumaei venit iam carminis aetas;
Magnus ab integro saeculorum nascitur ordo.
Iam redit et virgo, redeunt Saturnia regna
Iam nova progenies caelo demittitur alto.
Sicilian Muses, let us raise a somewhat loftier strain. Not all do orchards and the lowly tamarisk delight. If the woodland be our theme, let our woods be worthy of a consul's ear! The last age, heralded in Cumean song, is come, and the great march of the centuries, begins anew. Now the Virgin returns: now Saturn is king again, and a new and better race descends from on high.

- 1 Incipe, parve puer, risu cognoscere matrem.
Begin, baby boy, to know thy mother with a smile.
Eclogue, iv 60
- 2 Incipe, parve puer qui non risere parenti,
Nec deus hunc mensa, dea nec dignata cubili est.
Begin, baby boy! Him who had never a smile for a parent, no god honourous with his board, no goddess with her bed! Ib 62
- 3 Arcades ambo,
Et cantare pares et respondere parati.
Both Arcadians, both ready to sing in even contest, both ready to make reply! Ib. vii. 4
- 4 Saepibus in nostris parvam te roscida mala
(Dux ego vester eram) vidi cum matre legentem
Alter ab undecimo tum me iam acceperat annus,
Iam fragilis poteram a terra contingere ramos.
Ut vidi, ut perii, ut me malus abstulit error!
Within our orchard's walls I saw thee—for I was there to point the way—a little maid gathering dewy apples with my mother! Eleven years I had numbered, and the twelfth already claimed me, from the ground already I could reach the frail boughs. Ah, how I saw! How I fell! How that fatal blindness swept me away! Ib. viii 37
- 5 Nunc scio quid sit Amor.
Now do I know what Love is! Ib. 43
- 6 Non omnia possumus omnes.
All power is not to all. Ib. 63
- 7 Et me fecere poetam
Pierides, sunt et mihi carmina, me quoque dicunt
Vatem pastores; sed non ego credulus illis.
Nam neque adhuc Vario videor nec dicere Cinna
Digna, sed argutos inter strepere anser olores.
Me, too, the Pierian sisters have made a singer, I,
too, have songs ay, and the shepherds dub me poet, but I trust them not! For as yet, methinks, my strains befit not a Varius, nor a Cinna, but,
gooselike, I cackle amid quiring swans! Ib. ix. 32
- 8 Omnia vincit Amor: et nos cedamus Amori.
Love is lord of all: yield we, too, to Love!

Mingled herbs and charms of bale. Ib. ii. 129
- 14 Salve, magna parens frugum, Saturnia tellus,
Magna virum.
Hail, Saturn's land, great mother of the harvest, great mother of men! Ib. 173
- 15 O fortunatos nimium, sua si bona norint,
Agricolae! Quibus ipsa procul discordibus armis
Fundit humo facilem victum iustissima tellus
Ah, blest beyond all bliss the husbandmen, did they but know their happiness! On whom, far from the clash of arms, the most just Earth showers from her bosom a toilless sustenance.
Georgics, ii. 458
- 16 Felix qui potuit rerum cognoscere causas
Happy he, who has availed to read the causes of things. Ib. 490
- 17 Strepitumque Acherontis avari.
The roaring of the hungry stream of Death. Ib. 492
- 18 Fortunatus et ille deos qui novit agrestis.
And happy he, who has knowledge of the woodland gods. Ib. 493
- 19 Temptanda via est, qua me quoque possim
Tollere humo victorque virum voltare per ora
I must assay a path, whereby I may raise me from earth and flit conqueror through the mouths of men! Ib. iii. 8
- 20 Optima quaeque dies miseris mortalibus aevi
Prima fugit, subeunt morbi tristisque senectus
Et labor, et durae rapit inclementia mortis.
It is ever the brightest day of life that is first to bid adieu to our hapless mortality, disease and gloomy old steal upon us, and anon suffering, and the ruthless tyranny of Death, sweep us away. Ib. 66
- 21 Sed fugit interea, fugit irreparabile tempus.
Meanwhile, Time is flying—flying, never to return.
Ib. 284
- 22 Hi motus animorum atque haec certamina tanta
Pulveris exigui iactu compressa quiescent.
Yet all this tumult of soul and all this savagery of conflict may be quelled and laid to rest by the scattering of a little dust. Ib. iv. 86
- 23 Agmine facto
Ignavum fucos pecus a praeseptibus arcent.
They form in array and cast out the drones and their idle bands from the homestead. Ib. 167
- 24 Si parva licet componere magnis.
If it be meet to measure small by great. Ib. 176
- 25 At genus immortale manet, multosque per annos
Stat fortuna domus, et avi numerantur avorum.
Yet the race abides immortal, the star of their house sets not through many years, and grand-sire's grandsire is numbered in the roll. Ib. 208
- 26 Victorque volentis
Per populos dat iura viamque adfectat Olympo.
Assigning in victorious march, laws to the willing nations, and assaying on earth the path to Heaven! Ib. 561
- 27 Sic vos non vobis mellificatis apes.
Sic vos non vobis nidificatis aves.
Sic vos non vobis vellera fertis oves.
So you bees make your honey, not for yourselves.
So you birds make nests, not for yourselves.
So you sheep bear fleeces, not for yourselves.

His kingdom stretch from shore to shore
Till moons shall wax and wane no more. Ib. lxxii
 - 9 Our God, our help in ages past
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home.
Beneath the shadow of Thy Throne
Thy saints have dwelt secure;
Sufficient is Thine Arm alone,
And our defence is sure.
Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her frame,
From everlasting Thou art God,
To endless years the same.
A thousand ages in Thy sight
Are like an evening gone;
Short as the watch that ends the night
Before the rising sun.
Time, like an ever-rolling stream,
Bears all its sons away;
They fly forgotten, as a dream
Dies at the opening day.
Ib. xc. First line altered by John Wesley to 'O God...'
 - 10 How bright these glorious spirits shine!
Whence all their white array?
How came they to the blissful seats
Of everlasting day?

That heavenly land from ours. Ib.
 - 15 So to the Jews old Canaan stood,
While Jordan rolled between. Ib.
 - 16 But timorous mortals start and shrink
To cross the narrow sea,
And linger shivering on the brink,
And fear to launch away. Ib.
 - 17 Could we but climb where Moses stood,
And view the landscape o'er;
Not Jordan's stream, nor death's cold flood,
Should fright us from the shore. Ib.
 - 18 When I survey the wondrous Cross,
On which the Prince of glory died,
My richest gain I count but loss
And pour contempt on all my pride
Ib. bk. iii, No. 7. When I Survey the Wondrous Cross
 - 19 Were the whole realm of nature mine,
That were a present far too small,
Love so amazing, so Divine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all. Ib.

WELLINGTON—WELLS

ARTHUR WELLESLEY, DUKE OF WELLINGTON

1769–1852

- 1 Not upon a man from the colonel to the private in a regiment—both inclusive. We may pick up a marshal or two perhaps, but not worth a damn.
On being asked whether he calculated upon any desertion in Buonaparte's army Creevey Papers, ch. x, p. 228
- 2 It has been a damned serious business—Blucher and I have lost 30,000 men It has been a damned nice thing—the nearest run thing you ever saw in your life. . . . By God! I don't think it would have done if I had not been there. Ib. p. 236
- 3 All the business of war, and indeed all the business of life, is to endeavour to find out what you don't know by what you do; that's what I called 'guessing what was at the other side of the hill'.

CHARLES WESLEY

1707-1788

- 4 'Christ, the Lord, is risen to-day,'
Sons of men and angels say,
Raise your joys and triumphs high,
Sing, ye heavens, and earth reply.
Hymns and Sacred Poems (1739). Christ, the Lord, is Risen To-day
- 5 Jesu, Lover of my soul,
Let me to Thy Bosom fly,
While the nearer waters roll,
While the tempest still is high;
Hide me, O my Saviour, hide,
Till the storm of life is past;
Safe into the haven guide,
O receive my soul at last.
Ib. (1740), Jesu, Lover of My Soul
- 6 Other refuge have I none;
Hangs my helpless soul on Thee.
- 7 Cover my defenceless head
With the shadow of Thy wing.
- 8 Thou of Life the Fountain art;
Freely let me take of Thee;
Spring Thou up within my heart,
Rise to all eternity.
- 9 Gentle Jesus, meek and mild,
Look upon a little child;
Pity my simplicity,
Suffer me to come to thee.
Ib. (1742), Gentle Jesus, Meek and Mild
- 10 Soldiers of Christ, arise,
And put your armour on.
Ib. (1749), Soldiers of Christ, Arise
- 11 Lift up your heart, lift up your voice;
Rejoice, again I say, rejoice.
Hymns for Our Lord's Resurrection (1746).
Rejoice, the Lord is King
- 12 Hark! the herald-angels sing
Glory to the new-born King
Peace on earth, and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled.
Ib. Christmas Hymn: Hark! the Herald Angels Sing. First two lines altered by George Whitefield in 1753 from Wesley's original
Hark, how all the welkin rings,
'Glory to the King of kings'.
- 13 Lo! He comes with clouds descending.
Hymns of Intercession for all Mankind (1758).
Lo! He Comes with Clouds. New Version of John Cennick's 'Lo! He cometh, countless trumpets', in Collection of Sacred Hymns, 1752
- 14 Those who set at naught and sold Him,
Pierced and nail'd Him to the Tree,
Deeply wailing,
Shall the true Messiah see.

- 15 Let saints on earth in concert sing.
Funeral Hymns (1759) Let saints on earth.
Altered by F. H. Murray in his Hymnal for Use in the English Church (1852), from 'Let all the saints terrestrial sing'

- 17 Once in seven years I burn all my sermons; for it is a shame if I cannot write better sermons now than I did seven years ago. Ib. 1 Sept. 1778
- 18 Though I am always in haste, I am never in a hurry.
Select Letters (1837). Letter to a member of the Society. 10 Dec. 1777
- 19 Do all the good you can,
By all the means you can,
In all the ways you can,
In all the places you can,
At all the times you can,
To all the people you can,
As long as ever you can.
Letters (1915). Rule of Conduct
- 20 Let it be observed, that slovenliness is no part of religion; that neither this, nor any text of Scripture, condemns neatness of apparel. Certainly this is a duty, not a sin. 'Cleanliness is, indeed, next to godliness.'

22 Give me the splendid silent sun with all his beams full-dazzling! Give Me the Splendid Silent Sun 23 I dream'd in a dream I saw a city invincible to the attacks of the whole of the rest of the earth,
I dream'd that was the new city of Friends
I Dream'd in a Dream
24 The institution of the dear love of comrades.
I Hear it was Charged against Me
25 Joy, shipmate, joy!
(Pleas'd to my soul at death I cry,)
Our life is closed, our life begins,
The long, long anchorage we leave,
The ship is clear at last, she leaps!
She swiftly courses from the shore,
Joy, shipmate, joy. Joy, Shipmate, Joy
26 Me imperturbe, standing at ease in Nature.
Me Imperturbe
27 O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weather'd every rack, the prize we sought is won,
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting. O Captain! My Captain! i 28 The ship is anchor'd safe and sound, its voyage closed and done.
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;

Out of the mocking-bird's throat, the musical shuttle,
A reminiscence sing.
Out of the Cradle endlessly Rocking
- 2 O we can wait no longer,
We too take ship O soul,
Joyous we too launch out on trackless seas,
Fearless for unknown shores on waves of ecstasy to God? Ib.

O farther, farther, farther sail! Ib. 9
- 4 Come my tan-faced children,
Follow well in order, get your weapons ready,
Have you your pistols? have you your sharp-edged axes?
Pioneers! O pioneers! Pioneers! O Pioneers!
- 5 Beautiful that war and all its deeds of carnage must in time be utterly lost,
That the hands of the sisters Death and Night incessantly softly wash again, and ever again, this soil'd world;
For my enemy is dead, a man as divine as myself is dead,
I look where he lies white-faced and still in the coffin
—I draw near,
Bend down and touch lightly with my lips the white face in the coffin. Reconciliation

Who touches this touches a man. So Long!
- 7 Where the populace rise at once against the never-ending audacity of elected persons
Song of the Broad Axe, 5, l. 12
- 8 Where women walk in public processions in the streets the same as the men,
Where they enter the public assembly and take places
the same as the men;
Where the city of the faithfulest friends stands,
Where the city of the cleanliness of the sexes stands,
Where the city of the healthiest fathers stands,
Where the city of the best-bodied mothers stands,
There the great city stands. Ib. l. 20

spirit in which they are won. Ib. 18
- 16 I am he that walks with the tender and growing night,
I call to the earth and sea half-held by the night
Press close bare-bosom'd night—press close magnetic nourishing night!
Night of south winds—night of the large few stars!
Still nodding night—mad naked summer night. Ib. 21
- 17 Earth of the vitreous pour of the full moon just tinged with blue! Ib.
- 18 Far-swooping elbow'd earth—rich apple-blossom'd earth!
Smile, for your lover comes. Ib.
- 19 I believe a leaf of grass is no less than the journey-
work of the stars,
And the pismire is equally perfect, and a gram of sand, and the egg of the wren,
And the tree toad is a chef-d'oeuvre for the highest,
And the running blackberry would adorn the parlors of heaven. Ib. 31
- 20 I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contain'd,
I stand and look at them long and long.
They do not sweat and whine about their condition,
They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins,
They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God,
Not one is dissatisfied, not one is demented with the
mania of owning things,
Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived
thousands of years ago,
Not one is respectable or unhappy over the whole earth. Ib. 32
- 21 Behold, I do not give lectures or a little charity,
When I give I give myself. Ib. 39
- 22 My rendezvous is appointed, it is certain,
The Lord will be there and wait till I come on perfect
terms,
The great Camerado, the lover true for whom I pine will be there. Ib. 44
- 23 I have said that the soul is not more than the body,
And I have said that the body is not more than the soul,
And nothing, not God, is greater to one than one's self is. Ib. 47
- 24 In the faces of men and women I see God, and in my own face in the glass,
I find letters from God dropt in the street, and every one is sign'd by God's name,
And I leave them where they are, for I know that wheresoe'er I go,
Others will punctually come for ever and ever. Ib.

When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom'd, 1
- 9 Come lovely and soothing death,
Undulate round the world, serenely arriving, arriving,
In the day, in the night, to all, to each,
Sooner or later, delicate death.
Prais'd be the fathomless universe,
For life and joy, and for objects and knowledge

- 22 Then drink, puppy, drink, and let ev'ry puppy drink,
That is old enough to lap and to swallow;
For he'll grow into a hound, so we'll pass the bottle
round,
And merrily we'll whoop and we'll holloa.
Drink, Puppy, Drink, chorus
- 23 The swallows are making them ready to fly,
Wheeling out on a windy sky
Goodbye, Summer, goodbye, goodbye.
Goodbye, Summer
- 24 Wrap me up in my tarpaulin jacket,
And say a poor buffer lies low,
And six stalwart lancers shall carry me,
With steps solemn, mournful, and slow.

BISHOP SAMUEL WILBERFORCE

1805-1873

- 25 If I were a cassowary
On the plains of Timbuctoo,
I would eat a missionary,
Cassock, band, and hymn-book too.
Impromptu verse, Ascribed

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

1855-1919

- 26 Laugh and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone;
For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own. Solitude
- 27 So many gods, so many creeds,
So many paths that wind and wind,
While just the art of being kind

OSCAR WILDE

1856-1900

- 1 He did not wear his scarlet coat,
For blood and wine are red,
And blood and wine were on his hands
When they found him with the dead.
The Ballad of Reading Gaol (1898), pt. 1. 1
- 2 I never saw a man who looked
With such a wistful eye
Upon that little tent of blue
Which prisoners call the sky.
- 3 When a voice behind me whispered low,
'That fellow's got to swing.'
- 4 Yet each man kills the thing he loves,
By each let this be heard,
Some do it with a bitter look,
Some with a flattering word,
The coward does it with a kiss,
The brave man with a sword!
- 5 It is sweet to dance to violins
When Love and Life are fair.
To dance to flutes, to dance to lutes
Is delicate and rare.
But it is not sweet with nimble feet
To dance upon the air!
- 6 Like two doomed ships that pass in storm
We had crossed each other's way.
But we made no sign, we said no word,
We had no word to say.
- 7 The Governor was strong upon
The Regulations Act.
The Doctor said that Death was but
A scientific fact:
And twice a day the Chaplain called,
And left a little tract.

Is a gentlemanly game,
But he does not win who plays with Sin
In the secret House of Shame.
- 9 Something was dead in each of us,
And what was dead was Hope.
- 10 And the wild regrets, and the bloody sweats,
None knew so well as I:
For he who lives more lives than one
More deaths than one must die.
- 11 I know not whether Laws be right,
Or whether Laws be wrong;
All that we know who lie in gaol
Is that the wall is strong;
And that each day is like a year,
A year whose days are long.
- 12 How else but through a broken heart
May Lord Christ enter in?
- 13 Surely there was a time I might have trod
The sunlit heights, and from life's dissonance
Struck one clear chord to reach the ears of God.
Hélas! (Lines prefixed to his Poems, Paris edition, 1903)

- 3 There is no such thing as a moral or an immoral book.
Books are well written, or badly written.
Picture of Dorian Gray (1891), preface
- 4 The moral life of man forms part of the subject-matter of the artist, but the morality of art consists in the perfect use of an imperfect medium. Ib.

SIR CHARLES HANBURY WILLIAMS

1708-1759

- 30 Dear Betty, come, give me sweet kisses,
For sweeter no girl ever gave:
But why in the midst of our blisses,
Do you ask me how many I'd have?
I'm not to be stinted in pleasure,
Then prithee, dear Betty, be kind;
For as I love thee beyond measure,
To numbers I'll not be confin'd.

- 2 Shall I, wasting in despair,
Die because a woman's fair?
Or make pale my cheeks with care,
'Cause another's rosy are?
Be she fairer than the day,
Or the flow'ry meads in May;
If she think not well of me,
What care I how fair she be? Sonnet

I had no human fears.
She seemed a thing that could not feel
The touch of earthly years.
No motion has she now, no force;
She nether hears nor sees;
Rolled round in earth's diurnal course,
With rocks, and stones, and trees.
A Slumber did My Spirit Seal
- 7 Action is transitory,—a step, a blow,
The motion of a muscle, this way or that—
'Tis done, and in the after-vacancy
We wonder at ourselves like men betrayed.
Suffering is permanent, obscure and dark,
And shares the nature of infinity.

Still glides the Stream, and shall for ever glide;
The Form remains, the Function never dies.
The River Duddon, xxxiv. After-Thought
- 27 Enough, if something from our hands have power
To live, and act, and serve the future hour;
And if, as toward the silent tomb we go,
Through love, through hope, and faith's transcendent dower,
We feel that we are greater than we know. Ib.

- 1 A power is passing from the earth
To breathless Nature's dark abyss;
But when the great and good depart,
What is it more than this—
That Man who is from God sent forth,
Doth yet again to God return?—
Such ebb and flow must ever be,
Then wherefore should we mourn?

 - 5 Who is the happy Warrior? Who is he
That every man in arms should wish to be?
It is the generous spirit, who, when brought
Among the tasks of real life, hath wrought
Upon the plan that pleased his childish thought
Whose high endeavours are an inward light
That makes the path before him always bright.
Who, with a natural instinct to discern
What knowledge can perform, is diligent to learn.
Character of the Happy Warrior
 - 6 Who, doomed to go in company with Pain,
And Fear, and Bloodshed, miserable man!
Turns his necessity to glorious gain,
In face of these doth exercise a power
Which is our human nature's highest dower,
Controls them, and subdues, transmutes, bereaves
Of their bad influence, and their good receives. Ib

Is happy as a lover, and attuned
With sudden brightness, like a man inspired,
And, through the heat of conflict, keeps the law
In calmness made, and sees what he foresaw. Ib
 - 11 'Tis, finally, the Man, who, lifted high,
Conspicuous object in a Nation's eye,
Or left unthought of in obscurity,—
Who, with a toward or untoward lot,
Prosperous or adverse, to his wish or not—
Plays, in the many games of life, that one
Where what he most doth value must be won:
Whom neither shape of danger can dismay,

WORDSWORTH

- 1 There was a time when meadow, grove, and stream, 13
The earth, and every common sight,
To me did seem
Apparelled in celestial light,
The glory and the freshness of a dream.
It is not now as it hath been of yore;—
Turn wheresoe'er I may,
By night or day,
The things which I have seen I now can see no more.
Ode. Intimations of Immortality, i
- 2 The rainbow comes and goes,
And lovely is the rose,
The moon doth with delight
Look round her when the heavens are bare,
Waters on a starry night
Are beautiful and fair;
The sunshine is a glorious birth:
But yet I know, where'er I go,
That there hath passed away a glory from the earth. Ib. ii
- 3 And while the young lambs bound
As to the tabor's sound. Ib. iii
- 4 A timely utterance gave that thought relief,
And I again am strong. Ib.
- 5 The winds come to me from the fields of sleep. Ib.
- 6 Shout round me, let me hear thy shouts, thou happy
Shepherd-boy. Ib.
- 7 And the babe leaps up on his mother's arm. Ib. iv
- 8 —But there's a tree, of many, one
A single field which I have looked upon,
Both of them speak of something that is gone
The pansy at my feet
Doth the same tale repeat.
Whither is fled the visionary gleam?
Where is it now, the glory and the dream? Ib.
- 9 Our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting:
The Soul that rises with us, our life's Star,
Hath had elsewhere its setting,
And cometh from afar:
Not in entire forgetfulness,
And not in utter nakedness,
But trailing clouds of glory do we come
From God, who is our home:
Heaven lies about us in our infancy!
Shades of the prison-house begin to close
Upon the growing boy,
But he beholds the light, and whence it flows,
He sees it in his joy;
The youth, who daily farther from the east
Must travel, still is Nature's priest,
And by the vision splendid
Is on his way attended;
At length the man perceives it die away,
And fade into the light of common day. Ib. v
- 10 Behold the child among his new-born blisses,
A six years' darling of a pigmy size!
See, where 'mid work of his own hand he lies,
Fretted by salves of his mother's kisses,
With light upon him from his father's eyes! Ib. vii
- 11 As if his whole vocation
Were endless imitation. Ib.
- 12 Thou, whose exterior semblance doth belie
Thy soul's immensity. Ib. viii
- Thou Eye among the blind,
That, deaf and silent, read'st the eternal deep
Haunted for ever by the eternal mind.
Ode. Intimations of Immortality, viii
- 14 Thou, over whom thy immortality
Broods like the day, a master o'er a slave. Ib.
- 15 Provoke
The years to bring the inevitable yoke. Ib.
- 16 And custom lie upon thee with a weight,
Heavy as frost, and deep almost as life! Ib.
- 17 O joy! that in our embers
Is something that doth live,
That nature yet remembers
What was so fugitive!
The thought of our past years in me doth breed
Perpetual benediction. Ib. ix
- 18 Not for these I raise
The song of thanks and praise;
But for those obstinate questionings
Of sense and outward things,
Fallings from us, vanishings;
Blank misgivings of a creature
Moving about in worlds not realised,
High instincts before which our mortal nature
Did tremble like a guilty thing surprised:
But for those first affections,
Those shadowy recollections,
Which, be they what they may,
Are yet the fountain-light of all our day,
Are yet a master-light of all our seeing. Ib.
- 19 Our noisy years seem moments in the being
Of the eternal Silence: truths that wake,
To perish never
Which neither listlessness, nor mad endeavour,
Nor Man nor Boy,
Nor all that is at enmity with joy,
Can utterly abolish or destroy!
Hence in a season of calm weather
Though inland far we be,
Our souls have sight of that immortal sea
Which brought us hither,
Can in a moment travel thither,
And see the children sport upon the shore,
And hear the mighty waters rolling evermore. Ib.
- 20 Though nothing can bring back the hour
Of splendour in the grass, of glory in the flower;
We will grieve not, rather find
Strength in what remains behind;
In the primal sympathy
Which having been must ever be;
In the soothing thoughts that spring
Out of human suffering;
In the faith that looks through death,
In years that bring the philosophic mind. Ib.
- 21 And O, ye fountains, meadows, hills and groves,
Forbode not any severing of our loves!
Yet in my heart of hearts I feel your might;
I only have relinquished one delight
To live beneath your more habitual sway. Ib. xi
- 22 The innocent brightness of a new-born day
Is lovely yet;
The clouds that gather round the setting sun
Do take a sober colouring from an eye
That hath kept watch o'er man's mortality;

WORDSWORTH

- Another race hath been, and other palms are won.
Thanks to the human heart by which we live,
Thanks to its tenderness, its joys, and fears,
To me the meanest flower that blows can give
Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.
Ode. Intimations of Immortality, xi
- 1 It is a beauteous evening, calm and free,
The holy time is quiet as a nun,
Breathless with adoration; the broad sun
Is sinking down in its tranquillity;
The gentleness of heaven broods o'er the Sea;
Listen! the mighty Being is awake,
And doth with his eternal motion make
A sound like thunder—everlastingly.
Dear Child! dear Girl! that walkest with me here
If thou appear untouched by solemn thought,
Thy nature is not therefore less divine,
Thou liest in Abraham's bosom all the year,
And worshipp'st at the temple's inner shrine,
God being with thee when we know it not.

Nor, England! did I know till then
What love I bore to thee.
I Travelled among Unknown Men
- 5 I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd,
A host, of golden daffodils;
Beside the lake, beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.
I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud

- 7 A poet could not but be gay,
In such a jocund company.
I gazed—and gazed—but little thought
What wealth to me the show had brought:
For oft, when on my couch I lie
In vacant or in pensive mood,
They flash upon that inward eye
Which is the bliss of solitude;
And then my heart with pleasure fills,
And dances with the daffodils. Ib.

While a fair region round the traveller lies,
Which he forbears again to look upon
Most Sweet It Is
- 25 My heart leaps up when I behold
A rainbow in the sky:
So was it when my life began;
So is it now I am a man;
So be it when I shall grow old,
Or let me die!
The Child is father of the Man;
And I could wish my days to be Bound each to each by natural piety.

- 11 I heard a Stock-dove sing or say
His homely tale, this very day;
His voice was buried among trees,
Yet to be come-at by the breeze:
He did not cease; but cooed—and cooed;
And somewhat pensively he wooed,
He sang of love, with quiet blending,
Slow to begin, and never ending;
Of serious faith, and inward glee;
That was the song,—the song for me!

- 18 She dwelt among the untrodden ways
Beside the springs of Dove,
A maid whom there were none to praise
And very few to love:
A violet by a mossy stone
Half hidden from the eye!
Fair as a star, when only one
Is shining in the sky.
- She lived unknown, and few could know
When Lucy ceased to be;
But she is in her grave, and, oh,
The difference to me!
She Dwelt Among the Untrodden Ways
- 19 She was a phantom of delight
When first she gleamed upon my sight;
A lovely apparition, sent
To be a moment's ornament;
Her eyes as stars of twilight fair,
Like twilight's, too, her dusky hair;
But all things else about her drawn
From May-time and the cheerful dawn;
A dancing shape, an image gay,
To haunt, to startle, and waylay.
She was a Phantom of Delight
- 20 I saw her upon nearer view,
A spirit, yet a woman too!
Her household motions light and free,
And steps of virgin liberty;
A countenance in which did meet
Sweet records, promises as sweet;
A creature not too bright or good
For human nature's daily food,
For transient sorrows, simple wiles,
Praise, blame, love, kisses, tears, and smiles. Ib.
- 21 And now I see with eye serene,
The very pulse of the machine;
A being breathing thoughtful breath,
A traveller betwixt life and death;
The reason firm, the temperate will,
Endurance, foresight, strength, and skill;
A perfect woman, nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort, and command;
And yet a spirit still, and bright
With something of angelic light. Ib.

- 15 Books! 'tis a dull and endless strife:
Come, hear the woodland linnet,
How sweet his music! on my life,
There's more of wisdom in it.

Come forth into the light of things,
Let Nature be your teacher. Ib

Truth breathed by cheerfulness.
One impulse from a vernal wood
May teach you more of man,
Of moral evil and of good,
Than all the sages can.
Sweet is the lore which Nature brings;
Our meddling intellect
Misshapes the beauteous forms of things:—
We murder to dissect.

- 25 That blessed mood,
In which the burthen of the mystery,
In which the heavy and the weary weight
Of all this unintelligible world,
Is lightened—that serene and blessed mood,
In which the affections gently lead us on,—
Until, the breath of this corporeal frame
And even the motion of our human blood
Almost suspended, we are laid asleep
In body, and become a living soul:
While with an eye made quiet by the power
Of harmony, and the deep power of joy,
We see into the life of things. Ib l. 37
- 26 For nature then
(The coarser pleasures of my boyish days,
And their glad animal movements all gone by)
To me was all in all.—I cannot paint
What then I was. The sounding cataract
Haunted me like a passion: the tall rock,
The mountain, and the deep and gloomy wood,
Their colours and their forms, were then to me
An appetite; a feeling and a love,
That had no need of a remoter charm,
By thought supplied, nor any interest
Unborrowed from the eye. Ib. l. 72

WORDSWORTH

- 1 I have learned
To look on nature, not as in the hour
Of thoughtless youth; but hearing often-times
The still, sad music of humanity,
Nor harsh nor grating, though of ample power
To chasten and subdue. And I have felt
A presence that disturbs me with the joy
Of elevated thoughts, a sense sublime
Of something far more deeply interfused,
Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns,
And the round ocean and the living air,
And the blue sky, and in the mind of man.

- 3 Oh! yet a little while
May I behold in thee what I was once,
My dear, dear Sister! and this prayer I make,
Knowing that Nature never did betray
The heart that loved her, 'tis her privilege,
Through all the years of this our life, to lead
From joy to joy: for she can so inform
The mind that is within us, so impress
With quietness and beauty, and so feed
With lofty thoughts, that neither evil tongues,
Rash judgments, nor the sneers of selfish men,
Nor greetings where no kindness is, nor all
The dreary intercourse of daily life,
Shall e'er prevail against us, or disturb
Our cheerful faith, that all which we behold
Is full of blessings. Ib. 1. 121
- 4 Thou hast left behind
Powers that will work for thee, air, earth, and skies;
There's not a breathing of the common wind
That will forget thee, thou hast great allies,
Thy friends are exultations, agonies,
And love, and man's unconquerable mind.

Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

- 21 When you are old and gray and full of sleep,
And nodding by the fire, take down this book,
And slowly read, and dream of the soft look
Your eyes had once, and of their shadows deep;
How many loved your moments of glad grace,
And loved your beauty with love false or true,
But one man loved the pilgrim soul in you,
And loved the sorrows of your changing face.
And bending down beside the glowing bars,
Murmur, a little sadly, how Love fled
And paced upon the mountains overhead
And hid his face amid a crowd of stars.

- 22 There is a happy land,
Far, far away,
Where Saints in glory stand,
Bright, bright as day.
*Hymn: There is a Happy Land. C. H. Bate-

EDWARD YOUNG

1683-1765

- 23 Be wise with speed;
A fool at forty is a fool indeed.
Love of Fame, Sat. ii, l. 281
- 24 For who does nothing with a better grace?
Ib. Sat. iv, l. 86
- 25 For ever most divinely in the wrong.
Ib. Sat. vi, l. 106
- 26 For her own breakfast she'll project a scheme,
Nor take her tea without a stratagem. Ib. l. 187
- 27 One to destroy, is murder by the law;
And gibbets keep the lifted hand in awe;
To murder thousands, takes a specious name,
War's glorious art, and gives immortal fame.
Ib. Sat. vii, l. 55
- 28 How commentators each dark passage shun,
And hold their farthing candle to the sun. Ib. l. 97
- 29 Tir'd Nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep!
He, like the world, his ready visit pays
Where fortune smiles; the wretched he forsakes.

- 4 Procrastination is the thief of time Ib. l. 393
- 5 Of man's miraculous mistakes, this bears
The palm, 'That all men are about to live'.
Ib. l. 399
- 6 At thirty man suspects himself a fool;
Knows it at forty, and reforms his plan;
At fifty chides his infamous delay,
Pushes his prudent purpose to resolve;
In all the magnanimity of thought
Resolves; and re-resolves; then dies the same.
Ib. l. 417
- 7 All men think all men mortal, but themselves. Ib. l. 424
- 8 Beautiful as sweet!
And young as beautiful! and soft as young!
And gay as soft! and innocent as gay.
Ib. Night iii, l. 81

- 73:14 For an earlier history of this rhyme see The Oxford Dictionary of Nursery Rhymes (1951).
210. 5 An earlier source for these words is given at 10:20.
- 277:19 This occurs in Boswell's Life, vol. ii, p. 13. 15 February 1766
So far is it from being true that men are naturally equal, that no two people can be half an hour together, but one shall acquire an evident superiority over the other.
420. 24 These lines are quoted by Scott. They form the burden of an old song to which Burns wrote additional verses.

NOTE

THE index references show the page number followed by the numerical position of the quotation on the page (e.g. 163·15 = the fifteenth quotation on page 163).

The order of the index both in the keywords and in the entries under the keywords is strictly alphabetical.

To save space the keyword is replaced by its initial letter in the individual entries.

Foreign quotations have been included in the general alphabetical scheme and for greater clarity are printed in italic in this index. A separate Greek index follows the general one.

Irregular spellings (such as occur in Dickens, Artemus Waid, &c.), early English words, and dialect words are indexed under their normal modern equivalents except where there is no exact equivalent. Some words are given in both their original and their normal forms.

The definite and indefinite article have been dropped from the beginnings of most entries, and the alphabetical order is therefore decided by more significant words. thus—under 'Face'—'a garden in her face' and 'the garden of your face' follow each other instead of being separated by over a hundred other 'face' entries.

 neither . perfect d. nor night 445 44
 news, the manna of a d. 231 28
 next d., there she lay 139 2
 night is as clear as the d. 400 9 night of time far surpasseth the d. 87 18
 no d. for me to look upon 484 36
 no knowledge when the d. was done 286 23 no proper time of d. 253 11 not look the same by d. 88 9 not to me returns d. 346 20
 now's the d. 107 32
 now the d. is over 34 35
 O d. and night 432 28
 o'er night's brim d. boils 94 30
 O frabious d. 129 39(-130)
 on a stormy d., in a Sieve 311 22 once a d. with his embossed froth 480 32
 one d. in thy courts 397 7
 one d., one cold winter's d. 249 18 one d. telleth another 394 132
 one d.'s truce 102 5
 our triumphant holy d. 8 2, 13 13
 pass our long love's d. 333 8

Fall (cont.)			Falsa mittunt insomnia manes	555 2	Fame (cont.)
laugh at a f.	92 42		False: all was f. and hollow	345 18	for his f. the ocean sea	35 23
less likely to f.	215 10		among innumerable f.	348 18	full of phrase and f.	19 5
lest I should fear and f.	87 37		any other thing that's f.	17 13	great heir of f.	351 8 lest they f. upon thee	393 34		beware of f. prophets	58 25	he died the death of f.	417 18
let f. your horrible pleasure	453 6		both f. and friendly	315 26	he mistook it for f.	225 33
let us worship and f. down	397 27		by the philosopher, as equally f.	217 5	her f. survives	351 4
like Falkland f.	117 22		f. Achitophel	190 13	his f. soon spread around	166 2
mountains come and f. on me	330 8		f. as dicers' oaths	435 42	honour be yours, and f.	362 31
needs fear no f.	99 31		f., ere I come, to two or three	186 16	hope of a season's f.	363 4
nodding to its f.	384 5		f. face must hide. f. heart	457 16	house of ancient f.	510 21
not too high to f.	334 19		f., fleeting, perjurd Clarence	476 16	imped the wings of f.	125 1
nowhere to f. but off	292 15		f. philosophy	345 30	in the mouth of f.	289 12
one of them shall not f.	58 52		f. though she be	155 37	love and f. to nothingness	289 6
raise up them that f.	389 1		for f. quantities. whipt	194 26	man dreams of f.	531 14
safe where men f.	84 19		framed to make women f.	470 21	my f. for a pot of ale	443 28
some by virtue f.	461 24		if she be f.	471 41	no one shall work for f.	303 21
sparrow f.	383 10		I hate f. words	469 14	oh F. l.—if I'er took delight	118 33
survived the f.	163 6		in a f. quarrel. no true valour	67 35	of so much f. in Heaven	342 23

 this f of wyfly patience
 this f, safety
 this most goodly f
 thou canst not stir a f
 white f. of a blameless life with f and bee
 you seize the f
 Flower-bell fancy from a f
 Flower-de-luce being one
 Floweret meanest f. of the vale
 Flowerets of Eden
 Flowering. f in a lonely word in the f. of His fields
 Flowerless fields of Heaven
 Flower-pots water your damned
 f, do!
 Flowers. all f. and all trees do close all its twined f.
 all sorts of f
 all that loven f.
 all the f looked up at Him birds and beasts and f blown buds of barren f.
 blushing f shall rise
 break into foam of f.
 breeding f .never breed the same bridal f. for a buried corse
 bringeth vo'th May f.
 but as a bed of f
 called the f stars cool-rooted f
 crown old Winter .with f.
 do spring May f.
 ensnar'd with f.
 faded 'midst Italian f fairest f o' the season
 feel like f that fade flies, worms, and f., exceed me flour of f alle
 f and fruits of love
 f. appear on the earth
 f. azure, black
 f. begotten 521.
 f. but fading seen
 f. ginnen for to springe
 f. growing over him
 f. I leave you on the grass
 f. in the garden
 f. made of light
 f. of all hue
 f. of the forest 147'25
 f. on earth appear
 f on furze
 f. returning seasons bring
 f. that bloom in the spring 22
 f. that grow between
 f. that their gay wardrobe wear
 f. to crown thy hearse
 f. to strew Thy way
 f. to wither
 from the f. to the sea gathered f. are dead
 here's f for you
 her f. to love
 I have loved f, that fade immortal f. of Poesy
 in a Prospect of F.
 in thee all f.. spring
 larded with sweet f.
 later f. for the bees
 lulled in these f.
 most can raise the f. now no f., by request
 no f...on my grave
 no fruits, no f.
 no such f. in any land
 of alle the f in the mede of June and July-f.
 oh, the pretty f.
 on chalic'd f. that lies other people's f
 play with f.
 Proserpinal for the f. now
 Proserpin gathering f.
 purple.. with vernal f.
 scattered at the feet of man,
 like f.
 showers for the thirsting f.

 G for his Richard 475 1
 G for King Charles 90 16
 G fulfils himself 531 35
 G gave the increase 66 22
 G gives skill 197 1
 G grant you find one face 293 19
 G ha' mercy on his soul 436 36
 G has a few of us 89 11
 G has not said a word 95 6
 G. has written all the books 112 3
 G hath given you one face 434 12
 G hath joined them 388 2
 G hath made them so 561 24
 G hath made the pile complete 532 32
 G hath no better praise 81 9
 G help the wicked 439 36
 G Himself is moon and sun 537 27
 G himself scarce seemed 150 14
 G., if a G. there be 524 26
 G., if there be a G. 8 20
 G. in his holy habitation 396 5 hand folks over to G's mercy 196 14 happen to be—G? 91 23 have G for his Father 22 1 have G. to be his guide 99 31

he for G, only 347 11
heirs of G 65 54
he is the Lord our G. 397 28
he liveth unto G. 65 45
here in the sight of G 391 22 here is G, and there is G. 147 4
here is G's plenty 194 13
here's G. down on us 87 27
her fathers' G 420 5

her seat is the bosom of G. 253 36
he sung of G 503 2
he trusted in G 393 3
hey for G Almighty! 292 10
higher than G's 96 15 himself from G not free 199 23
his Father and his G. 230 13
Holy, Holy, Holy! Lord G Almighty! 240 19 holy Lamb of G. 75 16
honest G. 112 9, 267 16
hope for the best, and trust in G 504 23
hope of the City of G 334 13 how can he love G not seen? 70 15
how odd of G. 202 19
I am a G and cannot find it 496 26
idea G has of you 551 2
I embrace the purpose of G. 570 25
if G. be for us 65 57
if G choose love thee better 88 24
if G. did not exist 557 7
if. G. were standing there 213 2
I find letters from G 507 24
if it be of G. 64 32
if you want to take in G 319 13
I'll leap up to my G 330 7 in apprehension how like a g. I inclines to think there is a G. 433 15 in my flesh shall I see G 146 32 in the faces I see G 49 6 in the great hand of G. 507 24
invisible, except to G 458 26
I remembered my G 346 28 is, and . . . is not, the voice of G. 507 35
it is the voice of a g 386 14
I who saw the face of G. 64 49
just are the ways of G 330 2
just G., forgive 350 27
